HOPE OF FRENCH PAYMENT HALTS SENATE CRITICS

See Chance of Debt Stand Reversal.

France Stands Pat

French parliamentary leaders yesterday rejected any compromise on their refusal to pay the war debt until the United States agrees to hold a debt conference. Camille Chautemps thus was frustrated in his effort to form a new "conciliation cabinet." Joseph Paul-Boncour was delegated to try to form a government. Washington's optimism yesterday was attributed in Paris merely to Chautemps' conciliatory statements Thursday night, for which there was no concrete basis. Details on page 10.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Although the administration succeeded in averting an explosion in the senate today on the war debts question, it became known tonight that President Hoover is considerably at sea on the policy to pursue in dealing with the debtors.

He has postponed the submission of a special message to congress on the matter pending developments abroad, particularly in France, which, the President thinks he has reason to believe, may result in repudiation and pay the 19 million dollar December installment of its debt, after all. A hint has been conveyed to the French that if he should ask congress to reopen the debt settlements Mr. Hoover would exclude the defaulters from consideration.

His Plan Is Rejected.

The difficulty confronting Mr. Hoover is that his principal reason for sending a message to congress would be to recommend the creation of a commission to consider revision of the debts. But the commission plan of procedure has been rejected both by congress and by President Elect Roosevelt.

Mr. Hoover, according to authoritative information, intends to do all in his power to procure reconsideration of the debt settlements, but realizes that in the short remainder of his term he may not be able to do more than initiate discussions through diplomatic channels and that actual consideration of the debtors' revision pleas will of necessity go over to the incoming Democratic administration and new congress.

Harrison Planned Speech.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi Democratic gadfly of the administration, had given notice that he would address the senate today on the war debts question as it presents itself in the light of the default of payment of their December installments by France and four other debtors.

Unusual importance attached to this move for the reason that Senator Harrison will be an important figure in the Roosevelt administration and will be chairman of the senate finance committee in the next congress, the committee that will deal with the question of revising the war debts.

Senator William E. Borah [radical: Rep., Idaho], chairman of the foreign relations committee, a critic of the Hoover foreign policies and of the attitude of European powers toward war debts, disarmament and other questions, also intimated he would have some remarks to make, as did Senator Hiram Johnson [Radical, Cal.], arch Hoover enemy who helped carry California for Roosevelt.

Think Herriot May Win Out.

When administration officials learned of these plans from the morning papers they began to pull the wires. Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson telephoned Senator Borah that any airing of the debt repudiation in the senate at this time would be extremely unfortunate.

The American foreign minister said that the state department dispatches from Paris indicated the existence of an extremely delicate situation. There was a possibility that eventually Herriot, whose ministry was overthrown on the debt payment question, would form a new government on the basis of a reversal of the action of the chamber of deputies and a resolution to pay after all. Speeches castigating France would only rock the boat and might upset entirely the chances of Herriot succeeding in his undertaking to bring France to her senses.

Senator Harrison was subjected to the persuasive efforts of Secretary of

BEER BILL VOTE FIRST OF WEEK; WINE REJECTED

Repeal Move Gains Way in Senate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—The drive to end national prohibition swept forward today on two capitol fronts.

On the house side the ways and means committee reported the Collier 3.2 per cent beer bill with a recommendation that it be enacted into law at once. As inducements it promised thirst quenching beer at 5 cents a glass and sufficient revenue to knock the props from under a threatened 1934 deficit.

With the introduction of the Collier bill Speaker John N. Garner [Dem., Tex.] announced the measure would be placed before the house the first of next week. Majority Leader Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.] said the bill would be brought up not later than Tuesday and probably Monday. There was every indication today that the beer bill would be approved by the house with votes to spare and shot to the senate before Christmas. It provides for beer of 3.2 per cent by weight and 4 per cent by volume.

Repeal Move Expedited.

Simultaneously with the house beer action, the Blaine senate judiciary subcommittee expedited the movement for outright repeal of the 18th amendment by reaching unanimous agreement on language protecting the dry states in event prohibition is knocked out of the constitution. Chairman John J. Blaine [Rad., Wis.] said the procedure thus far in the subcommittee indicated a repeal resolution will be completed shortly and recommended favorably to the senate.

Senator William E. Borah [Rad. Rep., Idaho] issued the announcement regarding the amendment. It prohibits the transportation or importation into any state for delivery or use therein of intoxicating liquors prohibited by state laws.

The reports filed by the majority and minority factions of the house ways and means committee forecast an acrimonious battle when the Collier bill is called up for action by Speaker Garner. The majority praised the bill as a life saver for the national finances while the minority denounced it as unconstitutional, hypocritical and in violation of the oaths taken by all members of congress when sworn in.

Wine Opposition Explained.

The fact that the ways and means committee rejected the Lea bill legalizing the manufacture and sale of light wines may split the wet vote to a minor extent, as announcement of the committee's action immediately stirred up resentment among congressmen from the major wine producing states. The committee turned down the wine legalization proposal by a vote of 14 to 9.

In announcing the committee's action, Chairman James W. Collier said that he with a majority of the committee had voted against wine "in the belief that the alcoholic content in natural fermented wines was so great as to be in violation of the spirit of the 18th amendment."

"We felt," he added, "that the legalization of wine would be held unconstitutional."

Two other factors aside from the constitutionality phase swayed the committee. One was the fear that coupling beer and wine together might defeat the legalization of beer. The second was the fact that the testimony indicated that the revenue to be derived from a tax on wine would be disappointing as a budget balancing aid.

Spur to Industry Seen.

The majority beer report, filed by Chairman Collier, bristled with statistics and arguments in favor of immediate legalization of beer. This document pointed out that a legalized 4 per cent by volume beer would bring in from 200 to 300 million dollars in revenue for the federal government and an equal amount for the state and local governments. It asserted that the testimony given during the recent hearings showed that legalization of beer would act as a spur to the brewers and to sixty allied industries.

The major points made were that legalized beer would result in the immediate expenditure of 360 millions by the brewers and tens of millions

A SCRAP OF PAPER

HELD AS KILLER AFTER A WOMAN PATIENT DIES

"Doc" Armin L. Kruetzer, described as a former veterinarian, was arrested at his Winthrop Harbor home last night on a charge of murder by abortion. He was locked up without bail in the county jail at Waukegan.

Kruetzer was taken into custody less than two hours after Mrs. Anna Bolish of 608 Somers avenue, Cudahy, Wis., had died in a Milwaukee hospital, supposedly from the effects of an illegal operation. The request for his arrest was made by authorities of Milwaukee and Cudahy. Assistant State's Attorney Wilfred E. Hall procured a murder complaint from Justice of the Peace Harry Hoyt and the arrest followed. Although Mrs. Bolish died in Milwaukee, the operation was alleged to have been performed in Lake county and Kruetzer will be tried in Waukegan.

Kruetzer has been under fire in Milwaukee and northern Illinois since 1930. In October he was released from the Milwaukee workhouse after having served eighteen months for an abortion. Six weeks later his Harbor View Maternity home at Winthrop Harbor was raided on information given by Mrs. Bolish's husband. Further action was withheld pending the outcome of her condition.

KILLS HUSBAND'S GIRL EMPLOYE AS PERIL TO HOME

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Miss Manona Murrell, 27 year old secretary of C. R. Frazier, federal narcotic agent in charge of the Jacksonville office, was shot and killed on the post-office lawn late today by Mrs. Frazier, mother of five sons. Mrs. Frazier was docketed at police headquarters on a charge of murder.

While hundreds of persons passed one of the city's busiest corners, Mrs. Frazier fired five shots into Miss Murrell's body as the latter left the federal building and started to get into her car.

"I did it to protect my home and to prevent one of my sons from killing her," Mrs. Frazier was quoted by Mrs. Cora Lee Register, policewoman, as saying. "I hope she is dead. If I hadn't killed her my two oldest sons were going to tonight."

Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis Loses Money and Jewels

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis, wife of the Democratic senator from Illinois, had a bit of bad luck on her arrival in the capital late today from Chicago.

She reported the loss of her handbag, containing something like a thousand dollars in travelers' checks, and some other money, and valuable jewelry. Mrs. Lewis said she was certain she left the bag in a taxicab in which she rode from the station to her hotel.

Daughter of Rear Admiral Hangs Herself

She left several notes, one of which, pinned to a card bearing the name of an inspector of the New York state police whose identity was withheld by the local police, said:

"This is what you told me to do."

The note expressed the hope that "this may be all for the best."

Believed on Way Home.

Mrs. Bruce, who was about 30 years old and was described as exceptionally attractive, registered at the hotel yesterday afternoon. She had been visiting her parents in Washington and was believed by them to be on her way to her home at Woodstock, N. Y.

Explaining that she was very tired, Mrs. Bruce told the maid on her floor of the hotel that she did not want to be disturbed today. Consequently the maid did not attempt to enter the room during the day. There were several telephone calls for her from Washington which she declined to answer.

Tonight the hotel management received a telephone call from Mrs. Parsons in Washington asking if her daughter was all right. This inquiry, coupled with the fact that Mrs. Bruce had not been seen all day, resulted in John MacSweeney, an assistant manager, forcing the door of Mrs. Bruce's room.

Suspended from Door.

Mrs. Bruce's body was hanging from the batroom door, suspended by a silk stocking in which she had made a slip knot. An overturned chair near by indicated that she had stood on it while adjusting the knot and then had kicked it out from beneath her. An ambulance surgeon said Mrs. Bruce had been dead about ten hours.

One note left by Mrs. Bruce read:

"My mother, Mrs. A. L. Parsons, apartment 12-B, the Westchester, 4000 Cathedral avenue, Washington, D. C."

There was also a sealed letter addressed:

"To the New York police department: This will explain everything."

To this letter was pinned a photograph of a state police inspector.

Letter Left Unopened.

The letter was not opened immediately, however. The police who took charge of the case said they had turned the letter over to Dr. Robert L. Fisher, an assistant medical examiner, but Dr. Fisher denied he had seen it.

Mrs. Bruce had also placed a sum of money sufficient to meet her hotel bill in an envelope. A studio photograph of Mrs. Bruce, attired in an evening gown, stood on the table. Pinned to it was a gun metal badge in the form of a spreadeagle, and a sheet of paper bearing the words:

"This may be all for the best," and "this is what you told me to do."

Leaves for New York.

COMPLAINS WIFE STIRS HOME BREW WITH HER FINGER

Michael T. McInerney, a hotel houseman, admittedly likes his home brew, but under certain conditions. "Of course I drink," he told Judge Craig Hood yesterday in Circuit court, when his wife, Mrs. Veronica McInerney, was suing him for divorce for drunkenness. "But I wouldn't drink the home brew my wife made. She stirred it with her fingers instead of a spoon." McInerney also complained that his wife once brought home some whisky from Canada and gave all her friends drinks of it, but wouldn't give him a taste. Mrs. McInerney got a divorce.

Plot to Revolt Nipped; 1,000 Bombs Seized

BY HAROLD TATAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Pictures on Page 6)

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 16.—Police, acting on the orders of the Argentine government, tonight arrested former Presidents Hipolito Yrigoyen and Marcelo de Alvear, the two men who ruled over this country from 1916 to 1930. The government simultaneously announced that a seditious movement to overthrow the administration through a program of terror had been uncovered. It was scheduled to break out today.

A meeting of congress was called for tomorrow afternoon to declare a state of siege throughout Argentina. The government will ask that martial law be proclaimed for a period of 30 days.

Tonight's arrests were made after 1,000 bombs, which police said were prepared for use in a revolutionary conspiracy by extremists of Yrigoyen's radical party, had been seized by police in raids. About thirty arrests were made. The prisoners include former municipal police and army officials.

Bomb Blast Is Clew.

The plot was discovered this afternoon by an accidental explosion of a bomb in the suburb of Flores. Occupants of the residence fled, but police discovered a list of sixty names and began their raids. They announced that seized documents revealed that the plotters planned to kill high public officials and spread terror throughout the country by means of bomb outrages which could later be attributed to communists.

Police also allege that the extremists planned to kidnap President Augustin P. Justo. Complete plans of the government palace were found in one of the raided places. The plotters also intended to seize the Buenos Aires arsenal, postoffice, telephone and telegraph lines, the police headquarters and railway stations.

Outbreaks in the provincial cities, police said, were timed to occur simultaneously with those in the capital.

Political Leaders Seized.

The minister of war announced that the army was not involved in the conspiracy. Among those under arrest are Adolfo Guemes, a prominent radical leader; former Deputy José Maria Guierrez, former Police Inspector Nester Means, former District Chief of Police Ulises Cenillo, former Lieut. Col. Atilio Cataneo, former Capt. Francisco Videla, and Leopoldo Larco, former secretary of the city council; Honorio Pueyrredon, former ambassador to the United States; José Tamborini, former minister of the interior, and Gen. Dellepiane, former minister of war.

Cattaneo, according to the police, has confessed that he was at the head of the seditious movement. He just recently returned from exile to which he was condemned by former President José Francisco Uriburu who went out of office last January and died in France last spring.

Former Presidents Yrigoyen and De Alvear and the radical leader, Guemes are prisoners aboard the cruiser Veinticino de Mayo, which sailed for Martin Garcia island late tonight. Several of the other arrested leaders in the frustrated conspiracy to overthrow the government are aboard the gunboat Libertad.

Great forces of mounted and foot police dispersed a mob of radicals in the Avenida de Mayo, the principal boulevard of Buenos Aires, at the end of which are the government buildings. Troops assisted in patrolling the streets.

EXILED TO ISLAND.

Lieut. Gen. José Uriburu led an armed revolt which overthrew Dr. Yrigoyen's government on Sept. 6, 1930. Yrigoyen was placed under military guard on Martin Garcia island but was pardoned and permitted to return to Buenos Aires just before President Justo was inaugurated in February. Yrigoyen served as president from 1916 to 1922 and from 1928 to 1930.

Marcelo de Alvear was president during Argentina's most prosperous years from 1922 to 1928. When his term expired he went to Paris, but returned after Yrigoyen's downfall. The Uriburu forces repudiated him. He returned to Paris and came back this year to revive the radical party.

SARGENT GROUP NEARS GOAL IN ECONOMY DRIVE

Council 39 to 2 Vote Averts Default.

The citizens' committee on public expenditures yesterday neared its goal of limiting the 1933 tax levies of the principal Cook county taxing bodies, preventing a default on city and school bonds and providing a Christmas pay day for city, school, county and sanitary district employes.

Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the committee, said at the close of the day's activities that he hopes to be able to make a definite announcement of the committee's accomplishments by Monday after spending the week-end smoothing out final details.

Await Committee Report.

That announcement, public officials hope, will be the signal for the purchase by downtown banks of tax warrants which will provide Christmas pay checks totaling more than $5,000,000 for some 45,000 public employes. The banks, it is understood, are ready to advance the cash as soon as the Sargent committee reports that the various governments have agreed to its economy program.

Chief among the details to be considered are completion of the arrangements for avoiding a default on the city's and school board's funded debt and a further reduction of the proposed 1933 levy for the county. The county commissioners, at a meeting of their finance committee yesterday, agreed after some protest to reduce their 1933 levies, aside from those for bonds and interest, to a total of $12,650,000.

Committee Dissatisfied.

The Sargent committee, which proposed that the county levies be restricted to $12,000,000, is understood to be dissatisfied with the reduction offered by the commissioners and will press for a further cut. The committee, it is reported, concedes that the county board may not be able to cut its expenditures further, but believes that the county authorities have not taken full cognizance of their potential revenues from sources other than taxes.

An important item in this other revenue, the committee believes, is the penalties on delinquent taxes. The county gets these tax penalties in full. The committee, it is understood, believes that a drive to collect delinquent taxes will give the county an unanticipated revenue of several million dollars.

Agree to Avoid Default.

Other developments yesterday were:

1. Principally through the intercession of Mr. Sargent banks agreed to new terms for avoiding a default on $23,489,190 in bonds and interest which the city and schools must pay the first of the year. The new terms require the city to advance $4,264,000 less cash than the deal which City Controller Szymczak had worked out with the banks. The city council last night, by a vote of 39 to 2, passed a series of ordinances ratifying these arrangements.

City Council Acts.

2. The city council adopted a resolution limiting its 1933 tax levies, exclusive of bond and interest charges, to $51,600,0000, a figure acceptable to the Sargent committee.

3. The Sargent committee asked the city and county and the school and sanitary boards, which had already passed resolutions limiting their 1933 levies to figures suggested by the committee, to submit reports on the funds necessary to pay all their employes for two weeks.

The city council took up consideration of the bond and interest deal with the banks last evening, after it had passed the resolution limiting its tax levies. Under this proposal, the city will issue $15,936,000 in 6 per cent, noncallable, five year refunding bonds, which the bankers believe they will be able to exchange at par with holders of an equal amount of city bonds maturing Jan. 1.

Cash for Interest Charges.

In addition the city will furnish cash to meet interest charges on its own bonds, interest on school bonds and the principal of $4,200,000 in maturing school bonds, $3,696,000 belonging to the bond and interest fund which it now holds in its aggregate of funds and $950,000 in school board cash in the aggregate of funds. This is the only cash contribution from the city, but city pension funds, which hold $1,800,000 in maturing bonds will get tax warrants in place of the bonds.

count for $31,252,000 of the sum to be met. The banks, under the new arrangement, will furnish the additional $2,207,190, taking city and school tax warrants.

To make the refunding bond deal effective, the council passed two ordinances providing a sinking fund for the refunding issue. The first ordinance provides that all future collections of the city bond and interest levy for 1928, 1929, and 1930 shall be placed in the hands of a trustee nominated by the city treasurer. These collections are to be used in buying the refunding bonds in the open market at par.

The second ordinance revokes an arrangement whereby the same tax collections were ordered segregated to retire about $9,000,000 in refunding bonds which the city placed in the aggregate of funds last summer. The arrangement, in effect, gives the new refunding bonds priority of payment over the issue which the city sold itself earlier in the year.

Sargent Attends Meeting.

Mr. Sargent was present at a meeting of the council finance committee on Thursday when Controller Szymczak presented the details of the deal he had worked out with the banks. At that time Mr. Sargent is reported to have remarked in some surprise that those terms were not as generous as those which bankers had told him they were willing to make with the city. The Szymczak proposal called for the use of $8,920,000 in cash from the aggregate of funds.

A conference was held yesterday morning in Mr. Sargent's office, at which members of the finance committee and bank representatives were present, and there the new deal, as presented last evening to the council, was outlined by the banks and later recommended to the council by the finance committee.

"This deal is necessary if the solvency of Chicago is to be retained," said Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman, after the finance committee had ratified the agreement.

Nelson Fights Bond Plan.

The council debated the bond deal for two hours, with Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th] leading the fight against the proposal. He sought to have the proposal amended to make the bonds callable at the option of the city so that the city can reduce its interest burden when it accumulates funds to pay off part of the bonds. His amendment was beaten after Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th] had said:

"It takes two parties to make a contract. We can amend this plan all we please, but the fact remains that as it stands the proposal is what the banks have told us they are willing to accept. If we amend it we do so at the risk that they will refuse to help us avoid a default."

Ald. Nelson voted against the bond refund and tax levy ordinances and was joined by Ald. William Feigenbutz [45th] in opposing the former.

Praise and Censure.

Victor S. Petterson, deputy city controller, brought both praise and censure upon his head when he informed the council that he had authorized the engraving of the refunding bonds two days ago. He did so, he explained, because a delay in preparation of the securities might have made it impossible to deliver them in time to avoid a default.

Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady [14th] accused him of assuming the prerogatives of the council, but other aldermen praised him for his "rare courage."

Ald. John A. Massen [48th] introduced a resolution asking the legislature to set up a "Cook county public finance authority," with powers to refund the obligations of local governments, absorb their deficits, and buy their tax warrants and bonds with funds raised through bond issues of its own. It was referred to the finance committee.

Accept Bids on Deposits.

The city council accepted bids of banks on city deposits yesterday under which the city will receive one-half of 1 per cent interest. This year it got 1 per cent on its deposits, and in previous years the interest payments have been as high as 2½ per cent. Five aldermen voted against accepting the bids.

The county commissioners, at a finance committee meeting, passed the levy limiting resolution after John O. Rees, technical adviser of the Sargent committee, had appeared before them in response to the protests of several commissioners that it was impossible to limit their levies to the $13,000,000 asked by the Sargent committee.

The 1933 county levies, the levies which the commissioners had proposed to make for 1933, and the levies which they agreed to make for that year, follow:

Fund—	1932.	Proposed 1933.	Final 1933.
Corporate	$12,500,000	$10,900,000	$10,900,000
Highway	1,000,000	1,000,000	750,000
For. pres.	650,000	650,000	500,000
Pensions	none	675,000	500,000
Working cash	none	750,000	none
Totals	$14,450,000	$13,750,000	$12,650,000

Mr. Rees was told by the commissioners that it would be impossible to cut their corporate fund levy below the total estimated for 1933. He suggested, however, and the commissioners agreed, that the highway and forest preserve levies could be reduced. Because no levy was made for pensions in 1932, it was felt that taxes must be collected for 1933 to keep the pension fund solvent, but this levy was reduced by $175,000.

Pay Roll Estimate.

The pay rolls of the various governments for two weeks, as estimated for the Sargent committee, are as follows:

City	$1,900,000
Schools	2,370,000
County	800,000
Sanitary district	123,000
Total	$5,195,000

The estimate for the county includes $450,000 for a half month pay roll and an equal sum to pay temporary employés who have been dismissed. The law requires that such employés be paid in full when they are discharged. The Sargent committee asked the various governments to submit information on the money due such employés.

Assistant County Controller O'Connor announced yesterday that the banks have also agreed to take $455,000 in 1931 tax warrants which the county has been trying to sell for some months. The county, however, has anticipated the sale of these warrants by paying $315,000 to judges and clerks of election, so that total warrant purchases from the county, if both the bimonthly and temporary employés' pay rolls are met, will be $1,215,000.

Charles E. Gilbert, secretary of the school board, pointed out that if teachers are to be paid before the schools close for the Christmas vacation Wednesday afternoon, the pay roll funds must be in the board's hands by Tuesday afternoon at the latest.

BOGAN PROTESTS AGAINST CUTS IN SCHOOL SALARIES

Reductions in the 1933 school budget were opposed yesterday at a meeting of educators at the Union League club. Dr. Charles H. Judd, dean of the school of education at the University of Chicago, proposed amid laughter that boards of education throughout the country should be abolished. The school board was criticized for its recent decision to balance its budget on the lowered tax levies recommended by the Sargent committee on public expenditures.

Supt. William J. Bogan contended that education means the perpetuation of democracy. "If the proposed economies were put forth as temporary measures," said Mr. Bogan, "we might accept the blows of fate with heads bloody but unbowed, but the proposal to make these cuts permanent has a sinister aspect. I ask the financial surgeons to cut, if they must cut, with sympathy and fairness."

COUNTY ORDERS WINSTON TO BARE TAX SUIT RECORD

Jarecki Also to Investigate Attorney's Conduct.

The county commissioners yesterday ordered Attorney Henry M. Winston, holder of a contract with the county board, now expired, to collect delinquent taxes, to bring before them all the records of every tax case which he has filed. County Judge Jarecki announced that he would also investigate Winston's conduct of tax cases.

The action was taken after Attorney Ralph O. Butz, an associate of Winston, had appeared before Judge Jarecki and the finance committee of the board, and denied that he had been solely responsible for compromising the tax bill of the Illinois Women's Athletic club, 820 Tower court. An attorney representing Winston told Judge Jarecki Thursday that Butz was responsible for the settlement. Butz said Winston knew all about the transaction.

Inherits His Contract.

Winston inherited his tax collection contract from Attorney Henry M. Ashton, an office mate, when Ashton was disbarred. Hayden N. Bell, head of the tax department of the state's attorney's office, pointed out to Judge Jarecki that the Ashton contract, under which Winston inherited his authority to represent the county, forbade compromising taxes, and also confined Ashton's and Winston's activities to taxes which had been placed in forfeiture. Both these provisions were violated in the I. W. A. C. case, Bell charged.

In that case Winston filed suit before Judge Robert E. Gentzel in the Superior court for appointment of a receiver to colect taxes owed on the athletic club building for 1928 to 1930, a total of $140,597. The case was referred to Louis J. Behan, a master in chancery, who recommended that the taxes be cut to $76,255, because of alleged errors in the assessor's measurement of the building. Judge Gentzel ratified the master's order.

Tells of Subcontract.

Attorney James W. Cutshaw told Judge Jarecki Thursday that Winston knew nothing of the case, which had been handled by Butz under a subcontract. Cutshaw said that when Winston learned of Judge Gentzel's ruling he had taken steps to appeal it, and that Butz was no longer connected with Winston. Butz was summoned and appeared yesterday in the County court.

"I want your honor to know that Winston knew all about every case compromised by our firm," said Butz. "He had the master's report in the I. W. A. C. case two or three days before the decree was entered, and as I remember he was in court when it was entered."

It was disclosed Thursday that in the I. W. A. C. case the property had not been forfeited for taxes because of objections still pending before Judge Jarecki, and thus was not one of the cases in which Winston had authority to act.

Says There Are Other Cases.

"I think Winston has taken jurisdiction in other cases, also, where he had no right to act," Mr. Bell told Judge Jarecki.

"I'm convinced that had Judge Gentzel known objections were pending in my court in this case he would not have reduced the taxes on an alleged mistake in fact which did not constitute fraud," said Judge Jarecki. "I'll retain jurisdiction and see how the appeal from Judge Gentzel's ruling turns out. Meanwhile, I'll make a complete investigation of my own."

Stockholders of the 220 Lake Shore Drive Building corporation yesterday made a second payment of $14,518 against delinquent 1928, 1929 and 1930 tax bills. Recently the stockholders informed Judge Jarecki that James E. Bistor, president of the corporation, had refused to use money set aside to pay taxes for that purpose. On Monday the corporation paid $22,800.

Tax payments by property owners and receivers totaled $730,477 yesterday. Among these payments were the following: William Waller Jr., 750 North Michigan avenue, $46,463; Harry N. Kranz, 29 South La Salle street, $24,503; Chicago Title and Trust company as receiver, $24,010; U. L. Holt, 25 East Wacker drive, $11,559.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—All members of the Hohenzollern family, who are now in Germany, will take part in a family conclave at former Kaiser Wilhelm's castle at Doorn, his exile home in Holland. At the same time they will celebrate the 21st birthday of the former crown prince's youngest son, Frederic George. His birthday is next Monday. The prince has spent the last few years in Bremen studying banking.

Former Crown Princess Cecilie will arrive at Doorn earlier than the other members of the family to help celebrate the birthday tomorrow of the ex-kaiser's present wife, Hermine, whom he married in 1922. For years the relations of Princess Cecilie and the former emperor's second wife were strained since both women were extremely ambitious and wanted to play the leading rôle in the Hohenzollern family.

RAPIST IS GIVEN FIVE YEARS FOR ATTACK ON CHILD

Michael Sciales, 35 years old, 2318 North Lincoln street, was found guilty of rape by Judge Michael Feinberg of the Criminal court yesterday, and sentenced to serve five years in the penitentiary. Sciales' wife fainted when the sentence was pronounced. The defendant has a previous record for rape, being sentenced to a year in the penitentiary in 1929 by Judge Harry Miller on that charge.

The evidence showed Sciales had lured a 14 year old girl into his automobile and had driven to a lonely country road where he attacked her.

A plea for mercy because Sciales is married and has a child was denied by Judge Feinberg because of the defendant's previous record for the same crime. Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and Tom Johnson prosecuted.

CIRCUIT JUDGES TAKE PAY CUT BY UNANIMOUS VOTE

Superior Court Jurists to Act Today.

The twenty judges of the Circuit court last night unanimously voted to authorize the county board to deduct 15 per cent from the $7,000 salary paid them by the county. The judges also receive $8,000 from the state which is not affected by their vote. The pay reduction therefore amounts to 7 per cent of the $15,000 salary.

Judges of the Superior court will meet this morning to consider similar action. There are 27 judges in the Superior court. If they agree to accept the cut the county will save approximately $50,000 on the salaries of the judges of both courts in 1933.

All Up for Reëlection.

The Circuit judges met in the chambers of Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan. All of the Circuit judges are up for reëlection in June and this fact was stressed by advocates of the reduction. Following the vote the judges issued a statement which read:

"The judges under the constitution are state officers. That constitution provides that the salary be fixed by law and shall not be increased or decreased. The purpose of this provision is to remove the possibility of judges being obliged to deal with other officials in connection with their salaries, as such officials might be litigants before the very judges whose salaries they would attempt to control.

"The judges of the Circuit court, including those in Cook county, receive the same salary from the state, but due to the volume of business in the county, the law provides that the county board appropriate each judge of the Circuit court in Cook county additional compensation.

"The county commissioners withheld payment from the judges for the first half of September, 1931, and for the year beginning Dec. 1, 1931, they appropriated only 85 per cent of the county's share of the salary.

Dependent on Salaries.

"Unlike other elected officials judges are precluded from engaging in any other calling and are dependent only on their salaries. Nevertheless they made no protest against the deductions of the past 13 months.

"Unfortunately the public is uninformed the judges are receiving only 85 per cent of this share. The impression prevails that the judges are not mindful of the present financial condition of the county and that they refuse to accept the deduction. We are willing pending the present financial state of the county to authorize the deduction."

HARBORS BILL, IF ANY, TO INCLUDE CALUMET PLAN

Committee Favors Four Million Expenditure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—A project calling for expending more than four million dollars in improving and deepening the Calumet harbor and Calumet river will be included in the projected $70,000,000 rivers and harbors bill, if one is introduced in the house this session. Members of the committee now studying the project said today that its adoption would give Calumet one of the finest harbors on the lakes.

Hearings on the Calumet deepening project have been completed and members of the committee say the plans recommended by Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of engineers, will be approved.

Little Chance at This Session.

As President Hoover has advised house Republican leaders that he would not approve a rivers and harbors bill even if voted at the short session, there is little prospect of such a measure becoming law until some later date.

The project approved by the engineers calls for expenditure of only about one-half the amount on Calumet that was recommended by Maj. H. J. Wild, district engineer for the second Chicago district. The latter recommended an improvement costing $8,140,000. Maj. Gen. Brown's will cost $4,545,000.

Safe for Large Vessels.

The project is for development of a safer and more commodious harbor of refuge, the extension of the harbor breakwater, and the deepening of the harbor and Calumet river. When completed, engineers estimated, the breakwater will afford safe anchorage for 20 large vessels. The outer harbor would be dredged to 26 feet, with a minimum width of 3,000 feet. The entrance channel to the river would be dredged to 26 feet to care for the largest lake vessels. The river depths would range from 25 to 21.1 feet.

Mexican Senate Votes to Buy Isle from France

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The senate today unanimously approved a resolution to purchase from France the Isle of Clipperton, which was awarded to France in an arbitration decision by the king of Italy. The senate resolution provided for raising funds for the purchase through popular subscription and appropriation of one day's wages of all federal employés. The island is apparently of little use to France, the motion said, while Mexico, anxious to retain its full national integrity, was willing to pay a reasonable price to regain the lonely Pacific rock.

Orders Oyster Cocktail and Finds 18 Seed Pearls

West Hartford, Conn., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Vincent W. Jones got 18 seed pearls with an oyster cocktail at a tearoom. One oyster yielded all the pearls. Jones said he would have the pearls polished by a jeweler.

IGGY THE KILLER SENTENCED TO DIE ON FEB. 17

James (Iggy the Bad One) Varecha, 17 years old, was sentenced yesterday to death in the electric chair on Feb. 17 for the murder of Frank H. Jordan in a holdup on the night of Nov. 16.

JUDGE PRYSTALSKI.

The sentence, imposed by Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court, was hailed by Assistant State's Attorney Walter Butler, who prosecuted the case, as "furnishing a greater check on crime than any other official or judicial act in 1932."

Iggy Defiant After Sentence.

Varecha, who pleaded guilty to the murder and who maintained a defiant attitude throughout the hearing which was to determine what penalty he should receive, snarled obscenities at the three bailiffs who grabbed him as the sentence of death was imposed. He was hustled away to the county jail, yelling at the curious crowds who swarmed around him: "To hell with all of you!"

The youth was the youngest person ever to receive a death sentence on a plea of guilty in Cook county. Available records indicated that the youngest man to be executed in recent years was Nicholas Viana, one of the Cardinella gang, who was hanged on his 19th birthday.

Taken to Court at 2 P. M.

Varecha was led into court promptly at 2 p. m. He sank nonchalantly into a chair.

"Has either side anything further to offer in this case?" asked the judge.

"Nothing further," came from Prosecutor Butler and Defense Attorney Joseph Noseck.

"James Varecha, have you anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon you at this time?" the judge asked the defendant.

"No," said the youth curtly, without raising his eyes.

"This indictment charges murder," said the judge slowly, "and the defendant, after due warning, pleaded guilty and persisted in his plea. Testimony was heard by the court in aggravation and mitigation of the offense. I have carefully considered the testimony, oral and documentary, and there is now offered no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Found Guilty of Murder.

"I find the defendant guilty of murder as charged, and, adjudging him guilty of said crime of murder the court orders the defendant taken from the bar of this court to the common jail of Cook county, there to be confined until Feb. 17, 1933——"

The bailiffs by this time knew what was coming and closed in upon the youth, holding him firmly in his seat.

Varecha, apparently unaware that the death sentence was about to be passed, did not move.

"——when he shall be put to death by the sheriff of Cook county in accordance with the law——" continued Judge Prystalski.

Youth Rages at Bailiffs.

Varecha sat up. His expression was one of rage. He turned around slowly and spoke to Bailiff Edward Wing, who had previously expressed an opinion that the youth would get a life sentence.

"Why, you dirty ——," the youth snarled at Wing.

"—— by having passed through his body a current of electricity of sufficient strength and for sufficient duration until he shall be dead," concluded the judge.

Taken Back to Jail.

Varecha, by this time, was cursing every one about him. He was hurried out a back door and taken back to the jail behind the Criminal Court building.

Noted in the court room crowd was First Deputy Commissioner of Police Alcock, whose niece, Miss Lillian Henry, was raped by Varecha the same night that he killed Jordan.

Attorney Noseck moved to vacate the sentence on the ground that he had discovered new evidence which might change the judge's mind. The judge set a hearing on the motion for Dec. 23.

"The sentence will prove a mighty check to crime in Chicago," said Prosecutor Butler later. "It could not have been rendered, despite the overwhelming evidence offered, except for the fine judicial courage displayed by a conscientious jurist."

Confesses Many Crimes.

Varecha was captured three days after he killed Jordan and he confesses a score of crimes within the last few months. He shot and killed Jordan when the latter tried to resist him during a holdup. Jordan was sitting in a parked car with a girl companion when Varecha appeared and displayed a gun. Jordan started to get out of the car and Varecha shot him in the chest.

On the same night Varecha raped Miss Henry, tying up her escort. He confessed other attacks upon women which were verified. More than a dozen witnesses identified him as a robber.

After his arrest Varecha boasted to Chief of Detectives Schoemaker that he could always escape from punishment for his crimes by "acting nuts."

Two Escapes from Asylum.

His record confirmed this boast. It was shown that he had been sent twice to the Dixon, Ill., asylum after he had staged demonstrations in the Juvenile court. He escaped from the institution both times, staying only a week the second time.

At the hearing before Judge Prystalski his attorney tried to save him from the electric chair by a contention that the youth was a mental defective. Alienists for both state and defense, however, united in declaring Varecha legally sane.

In closing arguments Prosecutor Butler declared that Varecha, despite his youth, was the most dangerous criminal he had ever encountered.

CHINA'S LEADERS ACT TO MOBILIZE ARMY AT BORDER

Give Up Hope of Aid from League.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 16.—Realizing the futility of further dependence on the league of nations to settle the Sino-Japanese dispute over Manchuria, the Kuomintang's [government party] central executive committee met at Nanking today to consider China's future policy. This is interpreted here as a probable closing of the Manchurian question so far as the league of nations is concerned.

The central executive committee, which is the highest organ of the Nanking government, considered a resolution which provides for a concentration of troops in Jehol province north of the great wall along the Manchurian border, "to be in readiness for us in event Japan attempts an invasion of China proper or for the invasion and recovery of Manchuria if the opportunity arises."

Leaders Sign Resolution.

The resolution contained the following signatures:

T. V. Soong, finance minister and acting head of the executive yuan; Sun Fo, son of the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese republic; Gen. Wu Teh-chen, mayor of greater Shanghai; Chen Kung-po, minister of industry; Dr. C. C. Wu, former minister to Washington, D. C.; Gen. Chang Hui-chang, former commander of the army air force, and Admiral Chen Chak, former head of the Canton navy.

The resolution demands that the government assume responsibility for a nation-wide boycott of Japanese goods. It also condemns the league for failure to take action and says:

"Due to trade questions and the disarmament squabble, Great Britain and France, although sympathetic toward China, refuse to offend the Japanese, while America's hands are tied until next March when President Elect Roosevelt assumes office. Hence it is safe to say it is a hopeless illusion to expect the United States to take any effective measures to oppose the Japanese.

Ready to Fight.

"When China's territory is invaded by foreigners, the Chinese must defend their interests themselves."

With reference to the league's recent appointment of a conciliation commission to settle the dispute, China claims the league's object is to play for time hoping that one of three things will happen: First, that China due to weakness will accept Japan's terms; second, that Japan, due to economic bankruptcy or the overthrow of her own militarists, may make concessions; or third, that the Chinese and Japanese governments may agree to compromise.

The resolution urges the government openly to support Manchurian volunteers, to speed defense measures and intensify the boycott.

HOOVER TO GO FISHING IN FLORIDA IF THERE'S NO HOLIDAY SESSION

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Unless congress cancels its usual Christmas vacation and stays on the job, President Hoover will spend the holiday season fishing in Florida waters.

Tentative plans for the trip already have been made. They call for the departure of the President, Mrs. Hoover and a small party of friends for Savannah, Ga., on Dec. 23. There the party will board a department of commerce inspection boat, probably the Sequoia. Stops may be made at Jacksonville and St. Augustine, Fla.

The President plans to be away about ten days. The White House automobiles will be sent ahead for use by the President if he decides on any land trips.

MILDER WEATHER AND SNOW ARE EXPECTED TODAY

Milder temperatures and snow, according to the official forecast, will prevail in Chicago today. Yesterday's minimum of 4 below zero, set in the early morning, made the day the coldest since January, 1930.

J. R. Lloyd, forecaster, said that the lowest thermometer reading early today would be from 2 to 5 above zero and that this afternoon there probably would be a rise to about 22 degrees. Cloudy skies and colder weather are predicted for tomorrow.

Yesterday's highest temperature was 11 degrees above at 1 p. m. The mean for the day was approximately 25 degrees below normal. So far this month the average daily deficiency of temperature has been 3.9 degrees, despite the fact that the first six days of December were unusually warm.

Snow in Phoenix, Ariz.

Temperatures were far below normal yesterday over the entire country except the Florida peninsula. Miami had a maximum of 72 degrees, Phoenix, Ariz., reported snow for the first time in twenty-five years. Temperatures from 5 to 20 below were common in the middle west, the northwest and the great plains areas.

Downstate Illinois towns reported temperatures far below the official reading in Chicago. Morris had a minimum of 20 below zero. Lincoln 17 below, Hoopeston 16 below, Springfield 8 below, Pana 10 below, Moline 15 below, and Peoria 13 below, the coldest December reading there is 47 years. Carbondale, with 3 above, was comparatively warm, but even so the reading broke a record of two years' standing.

Inmates of the Joliet penitentiary were issued extra blankets when they complained of the cold yesterday. It was said the heating plant serving one wing was out of order.

12 Below in Suburbs.

Chicago's minimum on the official thermometer yesterday was hardly representative of conditions in the outlying sections and the suburbs. The western and northern suburbs had unofficial marks of 10 or 12 below in most cases and even the municipal airport reported 12 below at 6 a. m.

The Chicago fire department, in the 27 hours ended at 10 p. m., responded to 165 alarms. Fifteen of these were false. The others were caused in most instances by overheated stoves and furnaces. The largest fire caused damage of about $250,000 to an oleo storage house of Swift & Co. in the stockyards. Breaking out at 7 p. m. Thursday, it burned until noon yesterday.

Other places which suffered severe losses were a four story apartment building at 4140 South Park avenue and a four story structure at 1101 Fulton street, occupied by the M. Zimmerman Produce company. Two carloads of live poultry were burned in the Zimmerman place.

GERMAN SAVED FROM POVERTY BY FRENCH SOLDIER HE RESCUED

DUEREN, Germany, Dec. 16.—(AP)—After fifteen years a hand has stretched across No Man's Land to drive the wolf away from the door of Hans Schultz, an unemployed laborer.

During one of the 1917 drives Schultz rescued a French officer who was badly wounded. They exchanged letters as the Frenchman convalesced in a hospital.

Schultz, who has been without work for eight months, recently received a letter from his French friend with 400 francs as a "Christmas present." The officer explained that he had just run across the German's name in an old diary and wanted to renew the friendship.

Temperature Rises After Frost in Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—A night of frost was followed in Los Angeles by a rise in temperature. The mercury rose to 60 after a week of 40 degree weather. It was the first sunny day in the city this week. Severe frosts were reported in the suburban and rural orange growing belt outside of Los Angeles, with considerable damage feared to the orange crop.

Influenza Closes Schools in Indiana Communities

DRIVEN FROM FLAT BY FIRE.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Snyder were driven from their apartment at 6439 Parnell avenue by fire yesterday. The blaze started in the basement storeroom and spread rapidly through the two story building. Damage of $4,000 was done.

TOUHY BROTHERS ARE BLAMED FOR NEW ALKY DEATH

Members of the Touhy gang, which claims control of the beer and booze trade in the northwest portion of Cook county, were blamed yesterday for the machine gun murder of John Rinella, proprietor of a roadhouse called The Clubhouse, located in River road near Higgins road. The general belief was that Rinella, an Italian, was patronizing the De Grazia syndicate of Melrose Park in buying beer and alcohol, although the Touhy gang has laid claim to all illicit business in the territory north of Irving Park boulevard and west of Harlem avenue.

Rinella's death was one of a series attributed to the Touhy resistance to invasion of its territory. Two men were responsible for the killing, and so bold were they that they spent five hours in the roadhouse early yesterday abusing Rinella in the presence of the latter's sweetheart, Mrs. Marie Flack, and the porter, Wesley Maitland, before they turned the machine gun on their victim.

Arrive After Midnight.

According to the stories of Mrs. Flack and Maitland, the two men, one 6 feet tall, the other about 5 feet 6 inches, arrived at the roadhouse about 1 o'clock yesterday morning.

About 3 o'clock they handled Mrs. Flack roughly and told her to go to bed and she would not be harmed. Rinella sought to obtain help by a ruse. He snarled at Maitland and told him to go down in the basement and wash the dishes, evidently expecting or hoping that Maitland would get outside and call for help. Maitland went downstairs and washed dishes.

At 8 o'clock Mrs. Flack, in an adjoining bedroom, heard the men telling Rinella he was going to be killed. One went outside to a parked automobile and returned with a machine gun. Rinella's back was turned—he was facing his cash register back of the bar—when the trigger of the machine gun was pulled.

The slayers were not content with putting 16 bullets in Rinella's body. They sprayed the barroom with lead, firing nearly 100 shots. Then they went into the room where Mrs. Flack was cowering.

Threaten to Kill Woman.

"Listen, you," they said, cursing the young woman. "You never saw us. If you talk we'll blow your head off."

Rinella and Mrs. Flack, who is a blonde, 24 years old, lived at 1617 North Lowell avenue. She said she was married five years ago, but left her husband a year later. She has been living with Rinella, who was 30, for a year, she said.

Chief William Collins of the county highway police, Lieut. James Meyering, brother of Sheriff Meyering; Sergt. Joseph Cantello, and a squad of police immediately began a search for Roger Touhy. They obtained a search warrant and went to Roger Touhy's home in River road across from All Saints' cemetery.

They found a maid and caretaker there, but Touhy, his wife and children were absent. The police said that the large home is expensively furnished. It is surrounded by a five foot iron fence and there is a swimming pool in the rear.

John and Joseph Touhy were killed in the war with the Capone gang, but two other brothers of Roger still live. They are Thomas, who is 46 years old, and Edward, 36. Roger is 40. Other known members of the gang are Roy Marschalk, "Buck" Henderson, Walter Murray, and "Broken Nose" Fogarty.

Killers of Barker.

The Touhy gang took credit for the slaying of George "Red" Barker, leader of a rival gang, in revenge for the killing of Matt Kolb, business manager of the Touhy syndicate, who had political power.

Since then the Touhys have been blamed for the murder of Fred Di Giovanni, alias Pacelli, in the Dells roadhouse; the murder of Nicholas Maggio and Anthony Persico, both of whom were Melrose Park residents who were slain at Irving Park boulevard and Cumberland avenue two weeks ago, and the murder of Joseph Provenzano more recently.

HUEY LONG PUTS ON ONE MAN VAUDEVILLE SHOW FOR SENATORS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—(AP)—The senate was treated to a new kind of filibuster today—one filled with wisecracks and humor instead of the usual tedious reading of documents and other time killing devices.

Huey Long, Louisiana's radical senator, was filibustering against the Philippine independence bill in its present form, and he put on a one man vaudeville show which kept more of the senators in their seats than usual during such proceedings.

Long made no bones about his filibuster. He took up time by telling about the historical development of his state.

"At the time of the Louisiana purchase," he said, "all America wanted was Louisiana. She didn't even want California."

Senator Shortridge [Rep., Cal.], who always rallies to the defense of his state on such occasions, interrupted to say that California's population was being augmented by residents of Louisiana.

"O, we did that to carry it for the Democrats," Huey shot back. "But many of them are coming back again."

Turning to another part of history, Long said the Dutch had bought New York for sixty barrels of liquor. "There is some talk they could buy it back for that now," he added.

Several times he referred to a statement that President Hoover would veto the Philippines bill.

"I don't care what Mr. Hoover does," the senator said. "It reminds me of a little poem:

"When I asked to wed, go to father, she said;
"And she knew that I knew her father was dead,
"And she knew that I knew what a life he had led,
"And she knew that I knew what she meant when she said:
"'Go to father.'"

MR. CURTIS FINDS HE WASTED HATE ON WRONG PAPER

Gets Mixed in Charges About Article.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Like all Indians, Vice President Curtis never forgets a wrong, but this time he scalped the wrong party.

When an infuriated senate clerk invaded the press gallery last week brandishing a pistol and theratening to shoot a reporter who had offended him, Big Chief Curtis grunted that if the man had killed half the members of the gallery he would have resigned his office and defended him.

Makes Charges of Injustice.

"And the worst of the lot," he snorted, "is THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, a dirty, stinking, lying sheet that refuses to correct an injustice when it is called to their attention."

Explaining what he meant, the Vice President said that a couple of years ago THE TRIBUNE published his picture in connection with an item stating that he had used a $1.75 cake of Uncle Sam's soap to wash his car. Mr. Curtis said he complained to THE TRIBUNE that it was his predecessor, Charles G. Dawes, who had used the government soap and asked a correction, which, he asserted, the newspaper declined to make.

Finds He Had Wrong Paper.

Thereupon, THE TRIBUNE called on the Vice President to prove his charges, no one on the staff of the paper recalling the incident. Today Mr. Curtis admitted that upon inquiry he had found he had accused the wrong newspaper. He really couldn't understand how he had made the mistake and all these years, he mumbled, he had been nursing a grudge against THE TRIBUNE.

Did the Vice President offer such public apology as he had demanded when he was wronged? Well, not exactly.

"Write to your fellow," meaning the managing editor, "and tell him it was a mistake," said Indian Charley fading through the door of his private office and, like the Cheshire cat, leaving behind a coppery grin.

SLIPS AND DROWNS.

Evansville, Ind., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Aubrey Wells, age 24, son of William Wells, Newburg grocer, drowned in the Ohio river today when he slipped on the ice on the Cypress ferry boat and fell between the barge and steamer.

BE FAIR, GIVE US LIBERTY! FILIPINO LEADER DEMANDS

Senate Chief Raps U. S. Proposals; Calls Session

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Comparing Philippine independence proposals in the United States senate to th: "misgovernment of George the Third," Manual Quezon, president of the insular senate, today summoned members of the territorial legislature to consider the situation. Members of the independence commission meet tomorrow.

Attacking pending amendments to the Hawes-Cutting independence bill, Quezon declared in a statement:

"The last dispatches clearly show the fight in the senate is not to give independence but to close American doors to Filipino labor and Philippine products.

"Want to Restrict Trade."

"While they insist on keeping us under the American flag for a number of years our people are branded as unbearable by the American people.

"They want to restrict our free trade to America to a ruinous extent, yet American free trade to the Philippines will be unlimited. It is a most unfair arrangement, reminding one of the treatment accorded to American colonists by Britain in the days of George the Third.

Only Asking for Liberty.

"America should grant independence at once, or, if Americans insist upon a period of transition, let it be the shortest possible time. If, meanwhile, America does not want our people in the states, nor our products, let congress prohibit Filipinos from entering and impose custom duties on Philippine products, but let the Filipinos have a right to do the same thing in reference to the United States.

"We did not ask congress for the established free trade and we are willing to have it terminated now. We ask only independence."

UNION OFFICIAL GETS 6 MONTHS FOR GUN THREAT

Thomas Jakubowski, 4505 Nevada avenue, business agent for the Hod Carriers and Building Laborers' union, was fined $150 and sentenced to serve six months in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Jay A. Schiller in the South State street court for carrying a concealed weapon. The complaint against Jakubowski was made by his brother-in-law, Harold Gustafson, 2721 North Kilpatrick avenue, also an official of the union. Gustafson charged that Jakubowski threatened him in his home on Dec. 6.

GREEK RED TAPE AGAIN TIES UP INSULL HEARING

Expect Extradition Ruling by First of Year.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 16.—Another delay to the extradition hearing of Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate, who is wanted in Cook county, Illinois, to stand trial on charges of larceny and embezzlement developed tonight.

The Greek foreign ministry ruled that the documents in the case which were transmitted by Andrew J. Vlachos, assistant state's attorney of Cook county, and sworn to by the American legation, would require official checking and certification by the foreign office's translator before they could be transmitted to the ministry of justice and the prosecutor of the court of appeals.

More Red Tape.

This may require two or three days more of red tape. It appeared that the court of appeals might receive the documents the latter part of next week, but a decision in the extradition proceedings before the court's Christmas recess seems to be out of the question. Assistant State's Attorney Charles A. Bellows said he hoped the court to render its verdict by the first of the year. Insull's lawyers believe that their client may appear in court next week and that a decision is likely to be made by Jan. 15.

The translated documents were completed by Vlachos and typed by stenographers at the American legation two days ago, but stenographic errors required retyping and they were presented to Foreign Minister Rallis by Leland B. Morris, American charge d'affaires, this morning.

As the documents make 225 typewritten pages in the Greek language, it was believed that the Greek prosecutor will require several days to examine them before submitting them to the court.

Two Indictments Covered.

The documents cover two indictments against Insull for larceny, embezzlement, and larceny as bailee. One indictment concerns the sum of $36,000 and another the sum of $30,000, in which the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company was involved.

The court's first examination of these papers will be to decide if the papers show Insull guilty under the Greek law of the offenses with which he is charged in the United States.

Insull's defense plans have not been revealed. Insull's Chicago and London lawyers, it is understood, have prepared his case, which will be presented here by his Greek lawyer, Cristos Ladas.

2 MORE LINCOLN LETTERS HUNG IN TRIBUNE LOBBY

Complete a Trio Written to Joseph Medill.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Visitors to Tribune Tower lobby crowded yesterday around two newly finished panels set into the wall as illumination was turned on behind the pair of historic documents they frame. These two complete a trio now on display there, all being personal letters in the handwriting of Abraham Lincoln to his old friend, Joseph Medill, founder of this newspaper. The two just framed arrived in Chicago recently from the estate of the recipient's daughter, the late Mrs. Katharine Medill McCormick, whose death occurred last July 4 in France.

Penned in 1858 and 1860, both letters are as characteristic of the martyred President as any of his correspondence previously published. The one of earlier date concerns an incident that had its origin during Lincoln's one term in congress, when his maiden speech to that body questioned the attitude of President Polk at the start of the Mexican war. The same speech later prompted Stephen A. Douglas to accuse Lincoln of a lack of patriotism.

Letter of Explanation.

This episode of 1847 in Washington appears from the letter to have been recalled by an opposing newspaper in 1858 seeking to discredit Lincoln. His explanation to his friend Medill, covering three pages, sketches the inaccuracies in the later story and gives the facts, as well as a hint of the distress Lincoln had suffered through the stand he took and maintained.

As indicated in the text, the charge is made by one newspaper that Lincoln while in congress voted against a bill providing support and supplies for the American soldiers engaged in the Mexican war. Lincoln explains in the letter that the vote referred to was cast by John Henry previous to the date on which Lincoln took his seat in the house of representatives. Henry had been elected to fill the unexpired two months of the term of Col. Baker, who, anxious to join the army, had resigned his seat. Lincoln at that time had already been elected to Baker's seat but did not take office until the following term.

Refers to His Votes.

"It is impossible to refer to all the votes I gave," he closes his missive, "but the above I think are sufficient as specimens; and you may safely deny that I ever gave any vote for withholding any supplies whatever for officers or soldiers of the Mexican war. I have examined the journals a good deal, and hence I cannot be mistaken, for I have my eye always upon it. I must close to get this into the mail. Yours very truly, A. LINCOLN."

In the later and shorter of the letters Lincoln discusses with Mr. Medill the prospects for his election as President, which followed not many weeks later. It is dated at Springfield, Sept. 4, 1860, and begins:

"Yours of Aug. 30th, for some cause only reached me last night. As to Pennsylvania, I have a letter from Gen. Cameron, dated Aug. 29th, in which, among other things, he says: 'You may as well be getting your inaugural address ready, so as to have plenty of time to make it short. If possible we are daily becoming stronger in Pennsylvania now, and in New Jersey, all is right'."

CHARGE DE KALB SHERIFF SHARES RACKET PROFITS

Probe Story of Slot Machine Czar.

The charge that Sheriff Isaac George is paid a percentage of the profits on every slot machine installed in De Kalb county was made yesterday in the office of State's Attorney Latham Castle in Sycamore. Called to the office of the prosecutor for questioning, Elwill Shales of Elgin admitted that he directed the slot machine racket in De Kalb county.

"We have the permission of the sheriff to put in the machines," Shales said. "He gets a cut of the profits on each machine."

Sheriff George was called to the office and Shales repeated the charge in his presence. The sheriff leaped at Shales and struck him in the face before he could be restrained by employés in the office.

Welcomes an Investigation.

"I'll welcome an investigation," George told State's Attorney Castle.

"You'll get it," replied the state's attorney.

As a result of Shales' charges investigators for the state's attorney seized 40 slot machines in a series of raids in the county. State's Attorney Castle said his investigation would start immediately.

Shales had been seized for questioning concerning the death of Daniel Fisk of Elgin, identified as one of the two men who represented themselves as federal agents and seized a slot machine in a filling station on the outskirt of De Kalb.

Fisk ostensibly was killed in an automobile accident in a little used street of Sycamore on Dec. 9. A verdict of accidental death was returned, but investigation into the death was reopened following suspicious developments in the case. Authorities found that both cars in the fatal collision were from Elgin and that their occupants were acquainted.

Companion Escapes.

A man believed to have been Mike Brennan of Elgin was riding in the car with Fisk. The occupants of the other automobile were Mrs. Mildred Sykore, Richard Norton, and Irwin Peace. Following the accident, the man identified as Brennan leaped into Peace's car and drove away. All of the persons implicated in the accident are identified with the slot machine racket, according to State's Attorney Castle. The owner of the filling station in which the slot machine was seized identified the body of Fisk as one of the men who took it.

Both Peace and Norton were once employed by Shales to place slot machines, State's Attorney Castle said. Shales, questioned yesterday, said that the men had not worked for him for the last two weeks.

Fender Dinted on Car.

Physicians who examined the body of Fisk expressed doubt that the accident could have caused the numerous injuries suffered. They said that Fisk had a fracture of the skull, a broken leg and several broken ribs. None of the other occupants of the car were injured, they pointed out, and the only damage was a dented fender on the automobile in which Fisk was riding.

Brennan was arrested yesterday in Elgin. He will be viewed by the owner of the filling station in which the slot machine was seized. Peace and Norton are also under arrest in Elgin. Shales was not held by State's Attorney Castle.

2 GOOD FELLOWS TELL HOW THEY WILL HELP NEEDY

One Knows What It Means to Be Jobless.

"Sure, I'll be just as good a sport as you are," read a letter received at Good Fellow headquarters yesterday. "Send me the name and address of a family with two or three children and I'll fix them up with a good Christmas dinner and some gew-gaws for the kids.

"However, I must insist that this family live east of Western avenue, north of Marquette road and south of Van Buren street. I am a railway mail clerk and I'll be in town but seven hours on Dec. 24, so I can't take a family outside of these limits due to the time required to reach them.

"Best of luck to you, Good Fellows.

"N. M. G."

More Names Available.

If you want to be "as good a sport" as N. M. G. you, too, can obtain the name of a family that will need your basket to save children and their parents from a gloomy Christmas. There's a coupon on this page. Mail it to Good Fellows, TRIBUNE, Chicago, or call in person at the Good Fellow headquarters at The Tribune public service office at Dearborn and Madison streets.

You're probably going to be pretty busy next Saturday, but if N. M. G. can spare an hour so can you. And if you think you can't afford the luxury of giving an inexpensive basket of toys, candy and foodstuff, read the following letter from Good Fellow H. A. W.:

"Inclosed is a request for a name of a family we want to help at Christmas time. I am a young married man and have just recently found employment after having been unemployed for almost two years. So I can't help more than one family.

Cash Will Be Accepted.

"We would like to have a family with about three children under 10 years of age. We will do our best to provide them with the things that will make them happy at Christmas."

If you can't deliver a basket personally and yet want to help bring Christmas cheer to some poverty stricken home, a cash donation will be accepted. THE TRIBUNE pays all administration expenses.

WELFARE FUND DRIVE CROSSES HALFWAY MARK

The Emergency Welfare Fund drive crossed the halfway mark yesterday in the campaign to raise $7,500,000 for the care of Chicago's private charities. The official audit at the close of business showed $3,758,209 on hand. The report was made at a meeting of campaign workers in the La Salle hotel. The reports revealed that additional subscriptions from the real estate firms made that group the first to obtain their full divisional quota. John P. Hooker, chairman of the real estate group, brought in $7,000, bringing the total over the group's quota of $95,000.

Robert A. Gardner, chairman of the campaign, discussed the prospects of obtaining the full quota of the drive. He reminded the workers that other drives in other cities have fallen short of the fixed amount. He said he was hopeful of raising the full quota here.

Midnight Show to Raise Christmas Basket Fund

A midnight benefit performance to raise funds to buy Christmas baskets for 700 families on the south side, will be held tonight at the Regal theater, 47th street and South Park way. Amos and Andy, radio stars, Frankie Masters, orchestra leader, acts from the Uptown theater, a part of the Tivoli theater cast and the Palace theater have donated their services, according to Eneil F. Simpson, business manager of the Robert S. Abbott Publishing company.

$150,000 SAVING ON CITY CHARITY COAL PROPOSED

Reduced Bids Based on Indiana Fuel.

A saving of at least $150,000 in the charity coal bill in Chicago can be effected by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission without lowering the quality of the coal now specified for families on the relief rolls, it was learned yesterday. Three of the city's largest fuel companies are prepared to bid for contracts at a price that will make the saving.

The companies are the Consumers company, Edwin F. Daniels & Co., and the Eastman Coal company. They are prepared to deliver coal throughout the entire city for $5.45 a ton, which is about 50 cents a ton cheaper than the rates now in effect. The saving would be made on 300,000 tons needed this winter.

Seven Contracts Under Fire.

The commission has indicated its intention to void seven contracts for coal if charges that the contracts have been violated are proved. Specifications for new contracts are being prepared. The new specifications are understood to consider only Illinois coal. The bid of $5.45 a ton, however, is based on a high grade Indiana coal.

A spokesman for the three fuel companies said yesterday that the Indiana fuel is comparable in quality to the best Illinois coals. In proof of that statement, he said the mine operators who would furnish the coal under the $5.45 rate are prepared to guarantee that the coal will meet set specifications for moisture, ash, and sulphur content, and for the number of British thermal units (a heat measure).

Specifications Compared.

The guaranteed specifications that would be met by the Indiana coal, in comparison with the average of analyses of Franklin county, Illinois, coal, he said, are as follows:

	Indiana (in pct. as received).	Illinois (in pct. as received).
Moisture	8 or less	9.11
Ash	7½ or less	8.68
Sulphur	3¼ or less	1.39
BTU	12,000	11,815

The volatile and fixed carbon contents of the Indiana coal will average about 35 and 47 per cent, respectively, he said, in comparison to the similar contents in the average for Franklin county coal of 33.53 and 48.59 per cent. The coal operators also proposed a penalty of 5 cents a ton for each per cent if the ash or moisture content specified were exceeded by more than ½ per cent. An agent of the Illinois coal mine operators informed officials of the commission last week that they were prepared to bid for new coal contracts against Indiana operators if the quality of the coal were taken into consideration. The commission has the proposals under advisement.

Dealer to Be Prosecuted.

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman, and Joseph M. Cudahy, vice chairman of the commission, presented evidence gathered by the commission's auditors from the books of F. Bieschke & Sons to Assistant State's Attorney William A. Rittenhouse yesterday. Mr. Rittenhouse is investigating the charity coal situation. The Bieschke company is charged with delivering a cheaper grade of coal to the charity customers than its contract specifies.

"We expect the state to prosecute vigorously civil and criminal charges against the company," the relief officials told Mr. Rittenhouse. "At the same time we are going into the books of other coal companies delivering coal under contract to the commission. Our audit indicates that the Bieschke company never did deliver anything but the cheaper fuel."

Bieschke has attempted to make restitution to the commission, they said, but they have rejected his offers. Bieschke obtained an appointment with Mr. Rittenhouse for next Monday morning through his attorney.

URGE GOVERNOR OF NEW JERSEY TO SAVE BURNS

Telegrams Oppose His Return to Georgia.

New York, Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey pondered his course of action tonight in the move to return Robert Elliott Burns to the Georgia chain gang from which he escaped and of which he wrote. A blizzard of messages came from all parts of the country urging Gov. Moore to refuse extradition.

While his mother contemplated an appeal to President Elect Roosevelt, his former comrades in arms rallied to his support and declared that Burns, who served 21 months overseas, had "already suffered enough." The messages came from individuals and organizations, some from the south.

Escapes Camp in 1930.

Gov. Moore has received extradition papers signed by Gov. Russell of Georgia. They were brought up from Atlanta by Warden Harry Hardy of the Troup county prison camp, from which Burns escaped in 1930. According to Hardy there was "nothing daring" about the escape of Burns.

"Burns was never in chains while a convict," he said, "and the whip was not used because it was outlawed from Georgia chain gang camps in 1923. Burns was a pretty good prisoner. We had very little trouble with him except that he escaped twice."

Will Hear Case on Merits.

Gov. Moore has expressed the opinion that Burns, who escaped from the chain gang after serving some months of a sentence of from six to ten years for his part in a holdup that brought him $4.80, has been punished enough. But he also said he would "hear the case on its merits."

The supporters of Burns declared that the Georgia authorities are bent on getting even with Burns for the unwelcome publicity he has given their chain gang system through his book, "I Am a Fugitive from a Georgia Chain Gang," and through the motion picture based on it.

FIRST FLOOR, SOUTH, WABASH

$5,000 VALUE OF AMERICAN'S LIFE; MEXICAN, $15,000

U. S. Standard Is Set by Dry Slayings.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Five thousand dollars is the stock value which the federal government sets upon the life of a citizen killed by a prohibition agent.

Out of some 200 cases of persons killed by dry agents, coast guardsmen and customs officers since the prohibition law was enacted less than a dozen death claims have been paid by the government. And in no case does the sum allowed in compensation exceed $5,000.

An inquiry was taken into claims growing out of prohibition killings and violence when the state department, a few days ago, had introduced a bill to pay $15,000 apiece to the families of Emilio Cortez Rubio and Manuel Gomez, two Mexican youths who were shot by deputy sheriffs in Oklahoma in June, 1931. Rubio was the cousin of the former president of Mexico and the state department suggested that recompense be made "as an act of grace."

Pay $5,000 on Three Claims.

The sum of $5,000 was the benefit allowed Samuel Weinstein for the death of his son, Charles, which was caused by the reckless driving of a federal prohibition agent. The same sum was given Mrs. Senelma Wirkkula whose husband was shot down by a border patrolman while driving on a public highway near International Falls, Minn. The estate of Jacob D. Hanson, who was shot and fatally wounded "without cause or justification" while traveling on a highway near Niagara Falls, N. Y., on the night of May 5, 1928, was granted $5,000.

These three claims are the only ones that have been granted by the 72d congress to date as the result of deaths from prohibition killings, according to the house and senate claims committees.

Many claims when first entered have carried $10,000 damages, but the invariable congressional practice has been to substitute $5,000 for the larger amount.

$1,319.20 for an Eye.

According to government arithmetic, a left eye is worth $1,319.20 when it is shot out "by firing of a prohibition agent." A bill was introduced in the 69th congress seeking $10,000 for Mrs. Maude J. Booth of Baltimore. In 1924 prohibition agents raided a house near that of Mrs. Booth; there was firing. Mrs. Booth looked out of her window and was struck in the eye. The $10,000 was cut out of the bill and the $1,319.20 which covered only her necessary hospital expenses was substituted and subsequently paid.

Help in acquitting a federal prohibition agent, however, should be generously rewarded, according to some congressional lights. The following text of the bill introduced by Representative Robert S. Hall [Dem., Miss.] and now pending tells the story:

"That the secretary of the treasury be, and he is hereby authorized and directed to pay, out of any money in the United States treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $2,500 to F. W. Elmer Jr., which sum represents the amount due F. W. Elmer Jr. for services rendered the United States in the case of Mississippi against S. M. Taylor, a prohibition officer, who in the performance of his duty shot and killed a citizen and who was acquitted of the charge of murder in the United States District court for the southern district."

FEDERAL PROBE OF ILLINOIS LIFE FINANCES BEGUN

U. S. Seeks Facts on Tieup with Hotel Firms.

The tangled financial affairs of the Illinois Life Insurance company yesterday became the subject of a federal investigation. Dwight H. Green, United States district attorney, announced that he had ordered a thorough inquiry into the company's affairs to determine if any federal statutes had been violated.

Mr. Green made known his plans after a conference with Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who is administering the business of the company through Gen. Abel Davis, receiver.

Probe Hotel Connection.

The financial relations between the insurance company and the Stevens and La Salle hotels will be investigated, it was learned. The hotel properties were controlled by members of the Stevens family, who were also the principal owners of the insurance company. The report of Gen. Davis as receiver, filed on Thursday with Judge Wilkerson, showed that the insurance company had invested one-third of its assets in the securities of the two hotel enterprises. All of the securities are in default and both hotels are being operated by federal receivers.

Earlier in the day Judge Wilkerson issued an order directing Gen. Davis to make a more exhaustive inquiry into the loans which the insurance company made to concerns in which the company's officials were interested.

Known to State Official.

Leo H. Lowe, superintendent of the Illinois state department of trade and commerce, of which the insurance department is a unit, admitted last night that his attention had been called early this year to the serious situation of the insurance company. He was aware at that time, he said, that the company had invested 13 million dollars, or more than one-third of its assets, in the securities of the Stevens and La Salle hotel properties.

Mr. Lowe said the company had been carrying the securities in its portfolio for several years and that it would have been impossible to dispose of the holdings this year, when the properties were headed toward receivership.

"It was a situation which we were powerless to remedy," he declared. "It would have been impossible for the company to sell the securities without precipitating a crash.

"We sent examiners to look over the company's books, but there was nothing we could do. No formal complaint was ever made to the insurance department about the company and there was no request that we place the concern in receivership."

Acts to Reinsure Holders.

While the federal investigation got under way Gen. Davis announced that he was carrying on active negotiations to reinsure the company's 70,000 policyholders. More than 150 million dollars of insurance is carried by these policyholders.

Gen. Davis urgently requested that policyholders keep up payments on their policies. "I am confident," he declared, "that the Illinois Life's policies will be taken over by a strong company. If such plans fall through policyholders will be paid back in full. All premium funds accepted by the receiver are being placed in a separate fund pending the outcome of the present negotiations."

Gen. Davis said he hoped to reinsure all policyholders under a blanket policy for a period of sixty to ninety days pending the consummation of a reinsurance contract.

U. S. to Audit Books.

The investigation of the federal authorities, it is understood, will include an independent audit of the company's books by the government. The report of the receiver, officials indicated, while fulfilling its specific purpose, fails to develop the facts in which the government is interested. District Attorney Green issued a formal statement after his meeting with Judge Wilkerson.

"The preliminary report filed with the court in the receivership proceedings pending before Judge Wilkerson against the Illinois Life Insurance company indicates that there are circumstances which warrant an investigation by the government with a view toward determining if any federal statute has been violated. I have directed M. P. Purvis, special agent in charge, and James Egan, chief accountant of the United States bureau of investigation, to go into the affairs of this company."

Both Egan and Purvis are now engaged in making an investigation of the affairs of the Insull investment companies. However, it was learned that other investigators will begin work on the Illinois Life Insurance company's affairs.

Final Report Due Soon.

The final report of the receiver will be filed with court within a week, it was learned. It is expected that a federal audit of the company's books will be held up pending completion of the receiver's report.

It was learned that assistants of Gen. Davis are still searching for the records of the Lincoln Securities company, a dummy organization through which the Stevens family made loans to other enterprises in which they were interested. The preliminary report disclosed that this company had obtained loans of $1,160,000 from the insurance company secured by the bonds and stocks of the two hotel properties which the family controlled.

The impairment of the insurance company's assets because of bad investments may reach as high as 50 per cent, it is estimated. The nominal assets of the concern are $39,000,000. This figure, however, includes many doubtful items, among them the hotel

Tangled Insurance Affairs Bared

J. W. STEVENS.

R. W. STEVENS.

investments and collateral loans made to various individuals which were secured by stocks and bonds of the hotels.

Stevens Denies Irregularity.

James W. Stevens, former chairman of the company, denied last night that there was anything illegitimate about the relations between the insurance company and the hotels. Ernest J. Stevens, a son of J. W. Stevens, was president of both the hotel companies and a vice president of the insurance company, while another son, Raymond Stevens, was president of the insurance company.

The note which the insurance company received in exchange for $600,000 it turned over to the Stevens hotel in December, 1931, was not unsecured, James W. Stevens said.

"A dozen things were given in return for the bonds," he said. "We had quite a holding of bonds at one time—about $3,500,000.

"It's been one hell of a time these last two years, but they can't throw rocks at us. There was nothing criminal; nothing unfair. Farm loans were our largest single investment and they were awfully slow this year. It was not that alone, however. There were heavy loans on policies. The decline in the value of bank stocks held as collateral affected us adversely. The hotels did not default on their payments until this year."

Holds $10,237,000 in Mortgages.

The company holds farm mortgages and other mortgage paper of approximately $10,237,000. Of this total $7,500,000 are said to be "in trouble."

A survey of all the securities and mortgages held in the company's portfolio is being undertaken by Gen. Davis' assistants. Results of this survey are expected to be put in the hands of the companies which show a desire to make a bid for taking over the company's business.

A reinsurance of the company's business will necessarily call for some sacrifices from policyholders, according to the opinion expressed in insurance circles yesterday. It is known, however, that Gen. Davis is unwilling to close any contract which does not provide for payment in full of all death claims.

The loan privileges of policy holders probably will be canceled or suspended for a period pending the liquidation of the company's doubtful assets. Cash surrender values of policies will also be pared down or completely canceled.

The Lincoln National Life Insurance company was prominently mentioned yesterday as likely to take over the company's business. This company, whose head offices are in Fort Wayne, Ind., is one of the largest insurance companies in the middle west. It is known that its officials have been surveying the Illinois Life situation with a view to taking over the latter company's insurance of $150,000,000.

Horner Asks for Data.

Another development during the day was announcement by Gov. Elect Henry Horner that he had requested Gen. Davis to supply him with information concerning the Illinois Life Insurance company. The request of the governor elect was made with a view to drafting a program for legislative and administrative reform in the state to safeguard insurance company policyholders.

"I am studying the Illinois Life situation carefully," Judge Horner said. "Gen. Davis has supplied me with some facts and will keep me informed about developments in the case. I hope to be able to submit a law at the next session of legisauture which will help prevent a repetition of such a receivership. This experience emphasizes the necessity of a strong insurance law and strict administration of the state insurance department."

TUSCANIA SURVIVORS INVITE U-BOAT CHIEF TO CONVENTION HERE

Fifteen years ago the American troopship Tuscania was sunk off the Irish coast by the German submarine, U-77, with a loss of 225 lives. Capt. Wilhelm Meyer of Saarbrucken, Germany, gave the order that launched the fatal torpedo.

Approximately 1,930 war veterans will gather in Chicago on Feb. 4 for the 15th annual convention of the Tuscania Survivors association. If present plans are realized, the U boat commander will be their guest of honor at the three day meeting. At the convention last year in Milwaukee, a letter from Capt. Meyer was greeted with cheers and the German ambassador is now cooperating to help Capt. Meyer finance the trip.

"Any personal animosity toward the captain has disappeared," Arnold Joerns, 511 Oakdale avenue, president of the association, said yesterday. "We survivors realize that Capt. Meyer did his duty."

The sinking of the Tuscania was one of the few major disasters that marked the transportation of more than 2,000,000 American troops to Europe.

The coast of Ireland had been sighted when the torpedo struck and, although the ship remained afloat for almost two hours, a heavy list complicated the rescue work and made launching of life boats hazardous. There were a number of suicides and five Mexicans ran amuck and were shot down by officers. The rescue work was done by British destroyers.

Besides President Joerns, the officers of the association are Harry Schostak, Chicago, vice president; Tracey S. Greene, Milwaukee, secretary-treasurer; Leo V. Zimmerman, Milwaukee, historian, and D. R. Soular, Oklahoma City, sergeant at arms.

WIDOW LOSES ALL HER $1,900 TO CHARITY RACKET

Mrs. Mary Kera, owner of a delicatessen at 4091 South Wells street and a widowed mother of two children, reported to Lieut. John McGinnis at the detective bureau yesterday that she had been defrauded of all her money, $1,900, by two men, one of whom she knew only as George. She was informed she was the latest victim of the "charity racket."

The man "George" appeared at the delicatessen shortly after the death of her husband last May, she said, and told her he had known Mr. Kera in Rumania. Mrs. Kera welcomed him and George became a steady caller, often taking Mrs. Kera out to dinner and the movies.

Last Wednesday she accompanied him downtown. Near the North Western railway station George hailed the other swindler, who appeared to be a Mexican. This man said he would pay $10 a day to two honest persons who would help him distribute $70,000 to the poor. The persons he chose would be required to put up $1,000 or more to show good faith. George said he would put up more than a thousand and urged Mrs. Kera to do likewise. She agreed and went to her bank to get the money.

Later the three met and the money was placed in a suitcase. The men then gave Mrs. Kern the suitcase and told her to go home and wait for them. They never appeared. Mrs. Kera opened the suitcase and found it stuffed with paper and ten $1 bills.

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & CO

BEER BILL VOTE FIRST OF WEEK, LEADERS' PLAN

Repeal Move Gains Way in Senate.

by allied industries in rehabilitation work and in supplying raw materials needed to put beer on the consumer's table. It was asserted that beer would give work to 300,000 persons in the brewing industry alone and to many thousands in other fields. The psychological effect of beer legislation upon the country would be great, it was said.

In urging favorable action Chairman Collier asserted in the report that legalized beer sold at one-third the price asked by wildcat brewers of inferior beers would stamp out the illegal traffic in malted liquors and aid in hitting all kinds of illicit liquor selling.

As described by the report, this is the way beer would be marketed:

The beer would sell at approximately $25 a barrel. Of this the brewer would get around $6.25, the federal government $5, the state and local governments $5 and the retailer $8.75. On this basis, the committee report said, beer could be sold at 5 cents for an 8 ounce glass. Sold by the bottle beer would be higher.

Job Estimates Made.

"It is estimated," the majority report said, "that the legalization of beer of 3.2 per cent of alcohol by weight will give employment to approximately 75,000 men in the breweries and about 225,000 in its retail distribution. In addition, there will be a very large number of men indirectly employed through demands made by the brewing industry upon other industries. Reference has already been made to the necessity for certain farm products in the manufacture of malt beverages.

"The expansion of production in the brewing industry will require an estimated capital expenditure of 360 million dollars within the next year for rehabilitation and modernization of plants, and the provision for retail distribution would require a large outlay also. The money spent for production and distribution would give employment to men in many lines of businesses.

Business Benefits Cited.

"There would be a demand for bottles, barrels, hoops, crowns, labels, cases, glassware, refrigerating equipment, machinery, etc. The railroads and truck lines would be benefited by increased tonnage. The psychological effect of the stimulation of those industries upon business in general would no doubt be far reaching. According to a statement made before your committee by a representative of the committee on industrial rehabilitation three men are put to work in other lines of businesses for each man put to work in the capital goods industries.

"It is difficult to estimate the amount of beer now being produced in the home and in illicit breweries. It goes without saying, however, that it is quite large. This beer is made under unscientific and insanitary conditions and the alcoholic content cannot be controlled as it can in the high class breweries with proper refrigerating apparatus. Bootleg beer is offered for sale at prices ranging from $40 to $60 per barrel, and the federal government is not collecting a cent of tax from this illegal product.

"The legalization of good, wholesome, palatable nonintoxicating beer will go far toward stamping out this illegal traffic by making it unprofitable in competition with good tax paid beer at one third the price, and will enable the federal government to collect a large amount of revenue which it now loses."

Intoxicating, Hawley Says.

Representative Willis H. Hawley [Rep., Ore.], former chairman of the committee, issued the main minority report. He termed the bill unconstitutional and asserted he could not vote for it without violating his oath. The measure provided for intoxicating beer, he said, and would not yield sufficient revenue to balance the budget.

Other minority reports were issued by Representatives Charles B. Timberlake [Rep., Colo.], Frank Crewther [Rep., N. Y.], Heartsill Ragon [Dem., Tex.], Morgan G. Sanders [Dem., Tex.], and Jere Cooper [Dem., Tenn.] and Allen T. Treadway [Rep., Mass.]. Of this group Treadway said he would vote for the bill on the floor although he felt that the revenue it produced was not sufficiently large to warrant its approval by the ways and means committee. He urged combination of a sales tax with the beer bill. All seven in the minority voted against the Collier bill yesterday in committee.

States to Regulate Sale.

As introduced the Collier bill was announced yesterday when first voted by the committee. It provides a 3.2 per cent beer by weight and 4 per cent alcoholic beer by volume. No restrictions are placed on the sale of this liquor except those to be erected by the states. Dry states are protected from beer importations. The tax is set at $5 a barrel of 31 gallons on all beer, lager beer, ale, porter, and other similar fermented liquors containing ½ of 1 per cent of alcohol by volume and not more than 3.2 per cent of alcohol by weight.

Brewers are taxed $1,000 annually for a permit. Retailers are to be taxed $20. Wholesalers are to pay $50. Although state taxes are not mentioned, the federal tax was left low enough, in the opinion of the committee members, to permit a $5 a barrel tax by state and local governments.

Although no mention is made of the saloon, there is nothing in the act to prevent the sale of bear in saloons if no state law prohibits. A strong effort will be made to amend the bill so as to bar saloons.

"That there has been a considerable change of sentiment on the part of a majority of the people of this country with reference to the question of prohibition since the adoption of the eighteenth amendment can hardly be controverted," the majority report stated.

"Recognition was given to this sentiment in the platforms of the two great political parties in the last election.

"Whether the eighteenth amendment is to be repealed or changed is yet to be determined and will, of course, require the favorable action of two-thirds of the membership of both houses of congress and of the legislatures or conventions of three-fourths of the states.

"Pending the determination of this question the congress has the power to make such changes in the national prohibition act as it may see fit, keeping in mind the letter and spirit of the amendment. In other words, it may permit the manufacture and sale of any alcoholic liquor which may reasonably be said to be nonintoxicating in fact.

Source of Revenue Seen.

"Aside from responding to the popular demand for modification of the national prohibition act within constitutional limits your committee recognizes in the legislation of the manufacture of a palatable nonintoxicating beer a source of revenue which in the years prior to 1920 was a very fruitful one. The congress has been advised by the President of the state of federal revenues.

"In spite of the imposition of many new taxes at the last session of congress and the increase of existing levies, it has been found that the budget is still far short of being balanced, not only for the fiscal year 1933, but for 1934 as well. The congress is faced with the task of either finding new sources of taxation or increasing existing levies, and your committee feels that the tax on nonintoxicating beer, constituting a new source, will be a large factor in making up the necessary revenue.

Tax of $5 Proposed.

"The bill provides for a manufacturers' excise tax of $5 per barrel on all beer, lager beer, ale, porter, or other similar fermented liquor containing one-half of 1 per cent or more of alcohol by volume, and not more than 3.2 per cent of alcohol by weight, which is equivalent to 4 per cent by volume. The treasury department estimated that a tax of $5 would produce a revenue of from 125 to 150 million dollars in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934.

"These figures were based on a probable consumption of from 25 million to 30 million barrels of 2.75 per cent beer in the states in which its sale would be legal upon the enactment of this bill or in which its sale may reasonably be expected to be legal in the near future. These states have a total population of 75,521,000.

"The beer provided for in the bill is of a slightly higher alcoholic content, and, being more palatable, would be consumed more generally than 2.75 beer. Estimates made by the brewing interests placed the probable consumption at 40 million barrels within the next two years. On this basis the revenue would be in the neighborhood of 200 million dollars annually.

"It must be remembered that whereas in 1914 there were 1,392 breweries in this country, producing over 66,000,000 barrels, there are today but 164 plants equipped to produce the beverage taxed by this bill. Naturally, it will take some time for the breweries to be able to supply the probable demand.

"Per capita consumption of beer in the United States in 1914 was 20.92 gallons, but at that time its sale was not legal in all states. With respect to the total population of the states where beer was legally sold the per capita consumption was 24.42 gallons.

Estimate 60 Million Barrels.

"If this consumption were to obtain in states where beer can now be sold or where its sale may be expected there will be a demand for approximately 60 million barrels. At the rate of $5 a barrel the tax on this amount would produce a revenue of 300 million dollars a year."

At this point the majority group emphasized that with the federal tax at $5 a barrel it would be possible for the state and local governments to get another $5 between them without boosting the cost of 8 ounces of beer above 5 cents.

"There is a definite relationship between tax rates and the consumption of beer," the majority report continued, "and consumption is naturally affected by economic conditions also. Your committee feels that the rate of $5 per barrel fixed by the bill is a reasonable one and that it would be productive of the greatest amount of revenue. This view is shared by the treasury department and by the brewing interests.

Cost $6.26 Per Barrel.

"It must be kept in mind that the states and municipalities have in the past levied beer taxes, and the federal rate should not be placed so high as to make it impossible for them to continue this policy without placing an unreasonable burden upon the sale of nonintoxicating beer. Representatives of the brewery industry informed the committee that they could produce a barrel of beer and deliver it at the point of consumption for approximately $6.26, exclusive of federal, state, and local taxes.

"The expense of bottling is said to be about $3 per barrel, including labor, caps, bottles, cases, and so forth. A barrel of beer will produce 496 eight ounce glasses at a cost of approximately 1¼ cents a glass. The proposed federal tax of $5 per barrel would add 1 cent to the cost and state and local taxes of the same total still another cent. This would allow the retailer a margin of approximately 1¾ cents per glass of the size mentioned.

Amendments Outlined.

"To make legal the sale of such fermented liquor the bill amends the national prohibition act, as amended and supplemented, by providing that the term 'liquor,' 'intoxicating liquor,' 'beer,' 'ale,' and 'porter' as used in that act shall not include beer, ale, porter, or similar fermented liquor containing 3.2 per cent or less of alcohol by weight, or 4 per cent of alcohol by volume.

"Your committee believes that the proposed legislation is not in conflict with the 18th amendment inasmuch as beer of an alcoholic content of 3.2 per cent by weight is, on eminent authority, said to be nonintoxicating in fact."

CERMAK FINDS BEER FLAT DRIVE IS DISAPPOINTING

Says Police Make Move Unpopular with Public.

Mayor Cermak yesterday expressed dissatisfaction with the manner in which police had carried out his orders to close beer flats and harass boodlums in expectation of the return of legal beer. He said that the resulting activity was performed in a manner that made "the mayor's orders unpopular."

"However, I have no criticism of the police," he said, "and I believe they are cooperating. The trouble is that they become panicky when the mayor talks to them and run out and close places like the Playground in the Hotel Sherman building, where plunger machine games have been operated for three months. In that way the police mak the mayor's orders unpopular.

Aimed at Unlicensed Places.

"The order was that places with licenses could operate. I do not blame the police for existing conditions. I think we all are responsible. One cannot do everything at once in a big city like Chicago."

In speaking of the suspension of Police Captain Alfred Christensen, the mayor said that probably the captain should not have been treated differently from other captains.

"I assume, however," the mayor said, "that the suspension was due not only to his failure to close beer flats in his district, but was because of his failure to carry out other orders of Commissioner Allman.

Reveal Magoon as Borrower.

Investigation continued yesterday into the slaying of Policeman Albert Magoon of Sheffield avenue, who was shot to death in the north side speakeasy of Jerry Maas on Monday night. Despite the disclosure by police that Magoon had combined bootlegging with his police duties, intimates said yesterday that the policeman never displayed any large sums of money. Investigators found that Magoon was a habitual borrower of small sums from his fellow policemen and friends.

The suspension of Capt Christensen followed disclosures in the investigation of Magoon's murder.

Defendants seized in the police raids continued to appear in the municipal courts throughout the city yesterday. Mrs. Orietta Sanders, arrested as the keeper of a beer flat on the third floor at 2850 North Halsted street, was fined $100 and costs by Judge Leon Edelman. Victorian Ortigo, 40 years old, 64 West Huron street, was fined $150 as the keeper of a beer flat also by Judge Edelman.

Hunt Parents of Girl, 17.

Judge Frederick W. Elliott in Shakespeare avenue court fined one alleged beer flat operator $200 and found four other defendants guilty of keeping disorderly houses.

A search for the parents of Louise Murn, 17 years old, was started by police after her arrest in the alleged beer flat of Charles Lombard, 36 years old, at 2441 Prairie avenue. The girl told police that she ran away from home last June to live with Lombard. Her step-father, William Hellman, and her mother, lived at 2314 Blue Island avenue, she said, but moved recently.

Coincident with the drive against beer flats, the city council on Wednesday, at the request of the mayor, approved an ordinance increasing the license fees for retailers of malt beverages from $100 a year to $150 for six months. Yesterday the council amended the ordinance, providing that those to whom licenses are issued must post bonds of $2,000 with the city. The mayor signed the amendment immediately.

After that the aldermen applauded the remarks of Col. Ira L. Reeves, western director of the Crusaders, who expressed the opinion that congress would legalize beer in the present session, and that should the beer measure be vetoed by the President, enough votes could be mustered to override the veto.

DRY RAIDS UPSET BRISK TRADE IN HOLIDAY CHEER

Prohibition agents yesterday made secret raids on several bootlegging agencies said to be doing a rushing business in high grade "Christmas cheer."

The discovery of the so-called society bootleggers came through a raid made in room 1205 at 624 South Michigan avenue by Lieut. Edward Kelly of the detective bureau on Thursday. Documents in the possession of men found there, it was said, named accomplices and customers.

One of the three men arrested there is Joseph Gold. Another is Hohie Tumayama, Japanese masseur, who is alleged to have furnished liquor to the guests of loop hotels.

Prohibition Administrator M. L. Harney said he considered the raids important and declined to give out the details because he hoped to arrest more bootleggers. It is known, however, that a large quantity of good whisky and liquors was seized in n office on the third floor at 230 South Franklin street, where Julius Trock was arrested.

OLD INSTITUTE OF BREWING TO BEGIN CLASSES

The Siebel Institute of Technology, which was founded in Chicago in 1872 by Dr. John E. Siebel, will resume its regular course in brewing on Feb. 6, according to Dr. F. P. Siebel, president.

Dr. Siebel, who has been for years technical adviser to brewers, said that knowledge of brewing has been enhanced even during the period of prohibition and that American beer, when it is legalized, will be equal to the best of foreign brews.

He is the grandson of the founder of the institute, which trained a large number of brewmasters in the past sixty years. Among the things to be studied in the brewing course are chemistry, pure yeast culture, bacteriology, malting, brewing and applied refrigeration.

100 PUPILS GET FREE LUNCHES IN THIS SCHOOL

It's Just One of Many Aided by Fund.

An aroma that would make one hungry drifted from the third floor lunchroom of the Lincoln school, 2324 Geneva terrace, at noon yesterday. Inside, soup bowls were spaced neatly on the low tables, each flanked by a pile of jelly sandwiches, a sauce dish of stewed prunes, and a glass of milk. Outside there was the sudden clatter of small feet on the stairs and the hungry horde from the classrooms below swarmed in to partake of the meal.

Of the 130 checks collected at the door as the boys and girls trooped past members of the Parent-Teacher association who supervise the meal reported that 100 were free meals and the rest paid for at a dime apiece. This ratio indicates the necessity that exists, even in the better districts of the city, for the aid extended by the Hungry School Children's fund. Each case is investigated and the free meals are provided when the need is proved.

P.-T. A. Adds to Fund.

Mrs. Isabel Judd, 424 Belden avenue, is president of the Lincoln School Parent-Teacher association, which supplements the aid received from the Hungry School Children's fund with money raised from a bazaar. The group also has supplied clothing for numerous children.

All over the city these penny lunchrooms in the schools are receiving aid from the Hungry School Children's fund to provide hot lunches for those whose parents lack the money.

A benefit luncheon and bridge party will be given this afternoon at the House Within, 9 West Washington street, by Beta Gamma chapter of Alpha Sigma sorority. Miss Charlotte M. Farwell, chairman, announced that the proceeds would go to the Hungry School Children's fund.

Fund Gets $100 Check.

Donations to the fund yesterday got off to a running start with the $100 check sent by the United Light Employés' club, which contributed the same amount last Christmas. It represents the holiday party the members voted not to hold in favor of this gift to charity. Yesterday's contributions follow:

$100—United Light Employés' club.
$25—E. G Skinner, John F. Clark & Co.
$21—Employés of the Stationery Mfr. Co.

FREED OF SHOOTING CHARGE.

Charges of assault with a revolver against Thomas Lineen, manager of a restaurant at 4656 Broadway, were dismissed yesterday when Lineen told Municipal Judge Padden that three bystanders were shot accidentally when Lineen fought a gun battle with robbers several weeks ago.

Robber Forces 3 in Vault and Escapes with $1,027

Harry Greenstein, president, and two employés of the United Cleaners and Tailors, 3527 North Clark street, were forced into a vault yesterday afternoon by a robber, who fled with $1,027 which had been drawn from a bank for a pay roll. Those shut in the vault with Greenstein were Abe Oslan, manager, and Miss Sally Tucker, switchboard operator.

ROMANOFF GEMS UP FOR SALE AT BERLIN AUCTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—Trinkets which once belonged to the Romanoffs will be sold at public auction in Berlin tomorrow afternoon unless the Russian refugees surviving the Romanoffs succeed in obtaining injunction prohibiting the auction.

The jewels were advertised as "treasures from princely strong rooms." The auctioneer insisted that they belong to the old German dynasty. A police investigation revealed that the Russian trade commission in Berlin intrusted the jewels with a Berlin firm, leaving no doubt that they were jewels of the Romanoffs.

The collection, valued at $250,000, contains none of Russia's actual crown jewels. The trinkets include an enormous gold opera glass studded with precious gems, a gift of Abdul Hamid of Turkey to Czar Nicholas II., and a snuffbox of onyx and diamonds, a gift from former Kaiser Wilhelm II. to the czar and decorated with the former kaiser's portrait. A globe of carved rock crystal, which the slain czarevitch used to study geography, is also up for sale.

Bandit Shot in Holdup Dies at Joliet Prison

John Shawbeck, 32 years old, died yesterday in the Joliet penitentiary of a bullet wound suffered last October. He was shot and captured by Sheriff E. J. Welter of La Salle county and a deputy in a gun battle during an attempted robbery of the Lone Tree roadhouse near Ottawa. Shawbeck was serving a sentence of one to 14 years for the attempted murder of Sheriff Welter.

OLD TIME YANKEE CIRCUS THRILLS STADIUM CROWDS

Seats Nearly All Sold for Performances Today.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The "Old Time Yankee Circus," organized as a benefit for the emergency welfare fund by the women's division of the Salvation Army, began its performances in the Chicago Stadium yesterday afternoon and evening.

The attendance, composed of groups of children from various social centers and relief organizations, adult circus fans, society folk and flower selling debutantes, was large. Moreover, whatever areas of vacant seats appeared in the amphitheater failed to worry the committee in charge, for the advance ticket sale for today has almost approximated the Stadium's capacity, and an intake of about $50,000 is expected.

A Return to Simplicity.

A "Yankee Circus" is, in theory, a return to the simple tanbark entertainment of earlier days when even P. T. Barnum thought that one ring was enough and small town boys, now grandfathers, earned admission by carrying water for one lone elephant.

However, the show at the Stadium is bigger and better than that. It can boast of two rings, also a couple of "stages," and its elephants are three in number, trained in the modern fashion to hold tails in the parade.

This is, in fact, a lively and diversified program of skillful circus acts, recruited from professional ranks. All of the performers are contributing their services and giving their trained dogs, ponies, monkeys, horses, etc., a special pat on the head to inform them that they are working for charity.

Twenty-two numbers, or "displays," are on the bill, and they form an entertainment that runs for two and a half hours. Performances at which capacity audiences are expected will be given this afternoon and evening, starting at 2:30 and 8:30 o'clock, to conclude the benefit.

A Dress Rehearsal.

Yesterday afternoon's show was practically a dress rehearsal, for the necessary apparatus could not be set up until noon, and the performers had not had time to familiarize themselves with their equipment in the new environment. Therefore the many children in attendance, representing the charges of the Spalding School for Cripples, Olivet Institute, Medinah Center, the Boys' Brotherhood Republic, the Chicago Boys' club, Hull House and Chicago Commons, had a few special thrills to put an edge of excitement into the party.

Esma Wilson, "the girl who keeps you guessing" on the swinging ladders, was halted at the peak of her "loop the loop" feat by the erratic behavior of her trapeze. Then Harriet Hodgini, justly billed as "the sweetheart of the circus"—a pretty, adolescent bareback rider—fell off her horse and out of the ring in her first attempt to jump through a hoop. But she came up smiling, brushed the sawdust out of her curls, and tried it again, with success.

Nose Dive Into Nets.

The Flying Bertons, three trapezists of notable grace, added to their excellent routine several involuntary dives into the net, causing the juvenile observers to vary their "ahs" of admiration with "oos" of alarm. Then to prove that they liked dropping into nets the Bertons nose dived with intention.

Clowns are numerous in the "Yankee Circus," and also exceeding active. Mlle. Rosina does some fancy stepping on the tight wire. Mme. Addy Bedini, trainer of horses, includes in her stable an educated pony not much larger than an Airedale. Edna and Victor Bedini put two dozen dogs, no two alike in ancestry, through enthusiastic antics. Mabel Ellett, Lillian Burslem, and Cyse O'Dell appear in a brilliant threesome on the high trapezes. The O'Dell girl, in particular, wins applause with one armed gyrations on a swinging rope which equal the famous feats of the late Lillian Leitzel, who was regarded as world's champion in this difficult trick.

A Generous Entertainment.

Other performers are the Nelson family of acrobats and gymnasts; Carmencita Nelson, champion long distance tumbler and flipflopper; Mme. Lorette, who slides down from the roof by her hair, and Usarda's troupe of Indian bareback riders. Altogether this circus, although advertised as "Yankee," offers a generous amount of entertainment.

The side show consists of a "pageant of transportation," containing vehicles that represent the history of wheeled travel since 1700. It begins with an Indian drag [1700], includes a covered wagon [1835], a tallyho coach [1860], and a surrey [1880], and ends with the touring cars and sedans of today.

SLASH VETERANS AID 85 MILLION, HINES PROPOSES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Changes in veterans' legislation calculated to save the government $85,857,000 a year were recommended today to the joint congressional committee on veterans' affairs by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator.

An annual saving of $51,344,000 could be made in the first year, Gen. Hines told the committee, by amending the present laws to prohibit the granting of disability allowances to veterans with a disability of less than 50 per cent. Such an amendment, said the veterans' administrator, automatically would lighten the disability rolls by the removal of 365,555 veterans.

A saving of $15,000,000 could be realized by cutting in half the retroactive period for benefits or increases, Gen. Hines testified. Limiting the time for rerating insurance cases would save another $6,000,000, he said.

ROOSEVELTS PAY SOME NEW YORK CAMPAIGN DEBTS

Entertain Five Hundred at Dinner, Dance.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

New York, Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Franklin D. Roosevelt came to New York this evening to thank the workers who helped him to gain the presidency of the United States.

Mr. Roosevelt and his wife were hosts at two events tonight—a dinner and a dance—at which the President elect praised some five hundred men and women who had toiled for him during the campaign for their loyalty and industry in his behalf.

While riding by train from Albany to New York the President elect had summoned two members of his "brains trust"—Prof. Raymond Moley and Prof. Rexwell Guy Tugwell, both of Columbia university—to board the train at Poughkeepsie, and during the remainder of the journey to New York he discussed with them the latest developments in the war debts situation. He desires to be fully posted to guide the policy of the Democratic forces in congress when the issue is brought before that body.

Denies Hoover Conference.

In this connection Mr. Roosevelt added his denial to that made this morning by President Hoover to reports that another conference between the incoming and the outgoing Presidents would be held for the purpose of agreeing upon further action on the debts. A clase advisor of the President elect said the latter did not expect to see Mr. Hoover again until he greeted him in the pompous inaugural ceremonies which begin March 3.

The dinner at which Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt presided tonight preceded the dance, and was tendered in honor of Mrs. Mary W. [Mollie] Dewson, who directed the Democratic national committee's drive for the votes of American women.

Meets Labor Group Today.

The President elect plans to leave tomorrow morning for his Hyde Park home on the Hudson and will spend the week-end there. Among the visitors scheduled to see him are William Green, president, and Matthew Woll, vice president, of the American Federation of Labor, whose purpose, it is stated, will be to present for Mr. Roosevelt's consideration for the labor portfolio in his cabinet the name of Daniel J. Tobin. Mr. Tobin was in charge of the labor activities during the Roosevelt campaign, working out of the New York Democratic headquarters.

Police Captain Breaks Bone in Foot by Fall

Capt. Willard Malone of the Irving Park station fractured a small bone in his left foot and sprained his left ankle when he fell on the steps of the Oak Park village hall last night. He had gone there with a squad to get several prisoners suspected of robberies in his district. Capt. Malone went to his home at 4834 Monroe street. He will have the injuries X-rayed today.

EX-FOLLIES DANCER DENIES HUSBAND'S DIVORCE CHARGES

New York, Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Charges of misconduct which form the basis of Freddy Rich's suit for divorce from Peggy Lawton Rich, the former Follies dancer, are wholly fraudulent and without any foundation of fact, according to the dancer's counsel. This defense was offered today when the trial began in Supreme court.

The plaintiff, who is an orchestra director, charges his wife with misconduct with Jack De Ruyter, a wealthy sportsman, and the first witness called testified to two raids which he conducted upon an apartment at the Hotel St. Moritz last spring. Each raid, he said, resulted in his finding Mrs. Rich in the company of De Ruyter.

Head of Loan Company Slugged by Bandit Trio

James D. Lynch, 37 years old, head of the loan company bearing his name at 30 North Dearborn street, was the victim of a slugging late last night. He was taken to St. Bernard's hospital. Lynch said that three men jumped out of a cab in front of his home at 7319 Ridgeland avenue and attacked him in a robbery attempt. Mrs. Lynch, police said, told them that the attack took place in the living room of their home.

FRANCE SPURNS COMPROMISE ON WAR DEBT STAND

Deputies Refuse to Modify Chamber Resolution.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 16.—Last minute hopes that France would yet consent to pay its defaulted war debt installment, which were aroused last night by optimistic declarations by Camille Chautemps, minister of justice in the overthrown Herriot government, were shattered this evening when Chautemps reported to President Lebrun that he was unable to form a new cabinet.

In a formal statement he said that in his conversations with political leaders he had found it impossible to reach an accord which would permit Herriot to return to the government with a compromise formula on the debt question acceptable to parliament.

The president immediately requested Joseph Paul Boncour, war minister in the Herriot government, to try his hand at forming a government. Paul-Boncour provisionally accepted the appointment pending consultations with political leaders.

Spurn Any Compromise.

The "new information" acquired by the state department at Washington which caused adjournment of the senate debate this afternoon is believed to have been merely the conciliatory statements made by Chautemps. With the same ironical fatality which has dogged this affair since the beginning, the American senate's action, which is construed as indicating a desire for conciliation, became known in Paris too late to have any influence on Chautemps' decision to abandon his ministerial negotiations. It is doubtful, however, if the information would actually have changed anything had it arrived earlier.

A clear indication that the official attitude of the French chamber of deputies has not changed materially was furnished this afternoon when the foreign affairs committee convened to discuss the question. When the question was put to the committeemen by President Francois Albert whether they saw any reason to modify the debt stand already taken the answer was negative.

Paul-Boncour's negotiations with political leaders, it is believed, will be aimed at forming a left cartel government with Socialist participation. Such a government presumably would stand on the chamber's resolution of Wednesday morning insisting on acceptance by the United States of a debt conference before France pays the defaulted $19,261,423 installment.

The choice of Paul-Boncour to form a government is regarded as a second victory for the repudiationists. Chautemps had publicly declared that he was seeking a compromise which would permit resumption of debt negotiations with America. In fact, however, the postponement of his final answer to President Lebrun until tonight was to see what encouragement, if any, would come from Washington. It is stated here that agents of Chautemps engaged in unofficial negotiations with the American congress during the day. These negotiations evidently were no more successful than Chautemps' domestic consultations.

In his statement tonight Chautemps said:

"Having always been closely associated with the action of my friend Herriot, my determination was to maintain complete solidarity with him, at the same time respecting the decisions of the parliament.

Wanted Herriot Back.

"I strove hard to find between the thesis of the chamber and that of the previous ministry a formula of conciliation which would permit the return to political life of Herriot either as chief of the government or as a member of the government.

"It seemed to me that it would be highly desirable in the moral and material interests of the country not to permit to be prolonged the international uneasiness resulting from the conflict of France with the United States.

"Despite my efforts, an accord at present between the opposing theses revealed itself as impossible, and in these conditions, resolved not to desert the community of ideas which has united me to Herriot and which is the constant rule of my political life, I have preferred to renounce constituting a new government."

Socialists Hungry for Jobs.

Keen interest exists in the outcome of Paul-Boncour's negotiations. The Socialists, who were formerly unwilling to join any cabinet they could not run, have shown a more amenable disposition lately and a number of their leaders obviously are hungry for portfolios. Even if Paul-Boncour fails, the Socialists might yet collaborate with Edouard Daladier, minister of public works in the Herriot cabinet. He is a left wing member of the radical Socialist party.

Socialist conditions for joining in the government will be a sweeping program of social reform including, perhaps, nationalization of the railways, and a bold program of disarmament with or without security.

O'GRADY OFFERS COUNCIL BILL TO BOYCOTT FRANCE

D. F. Kelly Urges U. S. to "Buy at Home."

Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady (14th) introduced a resolution in the city council yesterday attacking France for defaulting upon its war debt payment, and memorializing congress to prohibit American touring in France and to call upon the people of the United States to boycott goods manufactured in France.

In introducing the resolution, which was referred to the committee on judiciary, Ald. O'Grady pointed out that the French expect to sell millions of gallons of wine in the United States if prohibition is repealed. He urged that regulations be framed to prohibit the import of wines from countries which have defaulted on their war debts.

Calls It "Kissing Game."

"It's all a kissing game," declared Ald. O'Grady, in whose stockyards ward kissing games are classed as nonessential sports. "When Pershing landed in France with the American armies that saved France from the Germans, the French rushed up and kissed our soldiers on both cheeks. Now they want us to do the kissing—to kiss our loans good-by.

"When Pershing got to Paris, he said, 'Lafayette, we are here.' The French misunderstood the sentiment and want to take us for keeps."

As a precedent for measures intended to punish France and other nations which default upon their debts, Ald. O'Grady's resolution pointed out that the refusal of the Russian soviet government to pay debts contracted by the old czarist government was one of the principal reasons for refusing to recognize the soviets.

Kelly for U. S. Products.

D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair store, yesterday urged that merchants throughout the country embark upon a "Buy American" campaign, modeled after the "Buy British" movement in Great Britain, to urge the American public to refuse to buy foreign made goods. One result of the movement, he admitted, would be to retaliate against France and other nations which have defaulted on their war debts.

"But a second and more important reason," Mr. Kelly said, "would be to make work for Americans who are out of jobs. If the people of this country will insist upon buying only goods made in this country, many factories now partially or totally closed will be able to open again.

Proud of Britain's Action.

"After a thorough investigation I have found that, with the exception of linens, there isn't a single article imported to the United States which can't be matched by a product made by American workmen, and our imports of linen, happily, are principally from the British Isles.

"I was greatly pleased at the attitude of Great Britain on war debts. I think every one of Irish or English descent will feel proud that England did exactly what we expected her to do. The countries which refused to pay their debts are welchers."

HOPE OF FRENCH PAYMENT HALTS SENATE CRITICS

See a Chance of Debt Stand Reversal.

the Treasury Ogden L. Mills and also of the Democratic leader, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, to whom Bernard M. Baruch, one of the arch-angels of the Roosevelt campaign, had telephoned from New York in much the same vein as Mr. Stimson's warnings to Mr. Borah.

Harrison Cancels Plans.

Just before the senate convened Senator Harrison disclosed that he would cancel his speech, explaining his understanding that Herriot might yet form a ministry if the chamber reindorsed its action, and remarking that the practical course "is not to stir up things." In the senate later he said:

"Mr. President, on yesterday I gave notice that today I intended to discuss the foreign debt situation. Since making that announcement there has been in my opinion, some change in the trend of events. Certain circumstances have arisen which I hope will work to the mutual advantage of both France and the United States and preserve the fine and friendly and cordial relationship that always has existed between the two countries. Therefore, it is my opinion that the wise thing to do at this time in view of that situation is to withhold any remarks touching that very important question, and to shape conduct myself accordingly for the present."

Reporters both Senators Borah and Johnson stated they had no intention of discussing the debt question at this time.

Assails France in House.

The only utterance in congress on the debts during the day was that of Representative Andrew J. May [Dem., Ky.], asserting that France is "amply and easily able" to meet her payments, Mr. May said:

"I say that when the United States government determines that we must have steel backbones instead of jelly rolls and says to them that they must pay and pay when it is due, the time will come when the war debts will be easily collected."

GREEK FINANCE CHIEF RESIGNS IN REPUDIATION ROW

Demands Private Loans Be Defaulted.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 16.—The French parliament's refusal to meet its war debt installment to the United States started a renewed reaction today against debt payment in this part of the world. The result is that Premier Tsaldaris is without a finance minister tonight.

With the argument that if a rich country like France cannot pay its debts how can a poor country like Greece, Finance Minister Anghelopoulos had a dispute with Tsaldaris and Foreign Minister Rallis at a heated cabinet meeting yesterday. This afternoon Anghelopoulos handed in his resignation.

Demands Repudiation of Bonds.

Anghelopoulos argued against payment of 30 per cent of the coupons due British and French bondholders on the refugee loans and he categorically opposed making any payment, even to the extent of 30 per cent, on the American 12 million dollar refugee loan granted Greece in 1929 and on which $440,000 interest was due Nov. 10. The interest was defaulted.

The American government considers the 12 million dollar refuge loan as similar to the refugee loans floated in England and France, but the Greeks call it a "war loan." The United States demanded that it 30 per cent were paid to British and French bondholders the same should be paid on the American loan.

Leaders Called into Parley.

This question will be taken up tomorrow at a meeting of all Greek party leaders which Tsaldaris has called. It is understood that former Premier Venizelos is chief of those opposed to paying interest on the American refugee loan and was the deviser of the argument that it was a war loan. Venizelos was the sponsor of the policy of heavy borrowing to aid refugees when he was in power against the judgment of his political opponents, who are now in power.

Anghelopoulos resigned today after demanding that before taking any steps to make even a partial payment on foreign debts Tsaldaris should convene parliament to get its approval. This was refused by Tsaldaris, who has been in power only six weeks and who fears the parliamentary maneuvering of Venizelos.

Seek United Front.

At tomorrow's meeting of all party leaders the aim will be to obtain a united front of all Greek parties against payment of the $440,000 interest overdue on the American loan.

Early this year the United States let Greece off with a 2½ years' moratorium on the regular war debt, on which $130,000 otherwise was due Jan. 1.

NEW YORK "RIDE" VICTIM LEFT AT POLICE STATION

Body in Stolen Auto Is Unnoticed for Hours.

New York, Dec. 16.—The body of a murdered man was found today in a stolen automobile which had been parked carefully and with seemingly calculated insolence at the door of police headquarters.

The victim, Joseph Weshefsky, a house burglar who had served term at Elmira and the city penitentiary, had been strangled hours before, with three strands of heavy twine, knotted around his throat.

His body had then been stuffed into a coffee sack in which it was found at last by one of the hundreds of detectives who had strode past the stolen car with its license plates crying out for discovery.

Police Commissioner Puzzled.

The crime left Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney and other high police officials flabbergasted, but reticent to advance theories.

The manner in which Weshefsky's body was left, less than 25 feet from the main entrance to headquarters, suggested to some the possibility that he might have been a "stool pigeon," who paid with his life for betraying underworld secrets. There had been no mutilation of the victim's tongue or mouth such as usually is visited upon the informer who is discovered.

Commissioner Mulrooney and Inspector Francis Kear joined in denying a report that was pinned to the dead man's coat was a note reading as follows:

"Here is your informer. Sorry we had no time to dump him in your lap."

All that was found on Weshefsky's body, according to the commissioner, was a letter from an inmate of Attica prison, signed, "Your brother, George," and a picture of the dead man's two and a half year old son.

TWO BROTHERS ARE SENTENCED FOR ARSON DEATH

Louis Samaros, 3152 Fifth avenue, and his brother, John, were sentenced to one to 14 years each in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge Rudolph F. Desort on charges of manslaughter.

There were arrested after John Protopapas, 623 South Halsted street, was found burned to death in the ruins of their restaurant at 3156 5th avenue, on June 5.

The state charged the brothers hired Protopapas to burn the restaurant. Testimony showed that an $11,000 insurance policy on the building had but four days to run at the time of the fire. A can of gasoline, which Protopapas had purchased shortly before the fire, was found beside his body. The brothers, who were found guilty by a jury, were given sixty days to perfect an appeal. Their bond was fixed at $25,000 each.

$220,000 GREENVILLE, MISS., FIRE.

Greenville, Miss., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Fire of undetermined origin today destroyed the Hotel Roslyn, Greenville's largest hotel, and the Mississippi Power and Light company's local and district offices in an adjoining building. Damage was estimated at $220,000. Seventy-five guests in the hotel fled into the biting cold that had laid a 3 inch snow on the ground.

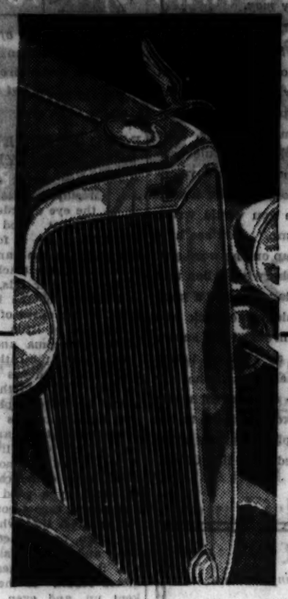
BRITISH PROPOSE DEBT RECORDS BE EXCHANGED

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 17.—[Saturday.]—The London Times in an editorial today suggests that the exchange of notes on the war debts has not gone far enough and that it should be followed by an exchange of parliamentary records.

The problem, it argues, has become a question between legislatures, rather than executives, and it should be a comparatively simple matter to arrange that members of parliament should be supplied with the congressional records on war debts and the members of congress receive in return copies of the relevant British Hansard.

"The issues containing Wednesday's debate might well be made a beginning," the Times says. "Doubtless such an arrangement would involve the risk that mischievous, in addition to helpful, speeches would receive [illegible] ignorance."



THE LEADER CAN ACCOMPLISH WHAT OTHERS DARE NOT TRY

TODAY CHEVROLET PRESENTS A NEW SIX

Longer · Larger · Faster · Smoother · New in Styling · More Economical · Featuring Fisher No-Draft Ventilation

THE questions America has been asking for a month will all be answered today. You'll learn what the world's largest builder of cars has developed for 1933. You'll find out what happens when the leader builds a car to increase its leadership. You'll see the automobile that millions have been watching and waiting for: The New Chevrolet Six! And you'll discover a new scale of low prices—several models now selling at the lowest figures in Chevrolet history.

Front, side, rear—inside, outside—everything about this new car is advanced, improved, exciting. Longer wheelbase makes it the biggest automobile in today's low-price field. The latest principle of car design—"Aer-Stream" styling—gives it a totally different, ultra-modern appearance—as fine-looking as anything ever introduced at any price. The new Fisher bodies are larger, wider—faultlessly stream-lined—swung lower to the road for greater smartness and roadability—and offer the first basic improvement in travel comfort in over ten years: Fisher No-Draft Ventilation.

Chevrolet performance in every gear is faster, flashier, more brilliant. The time-proved six-cylinder engine is more powerful as well as more economical. Improved Free Wheeling is combined with a "silent second" Syncro-Mesh gear-shift. And Chevrolet engineers have stepped out ahead of the industry with a remarkable new patented development that wins, not a halfway, but a complete victory over vibration: The Cushion-Balanced Engine Mounting.

Chevrolet is able to do all this because Chevrolet has the advantage of being the world's largest builder of cars for 4 out of the past 6 years. Chevrolet builds cars in greater volume. Chevrolet buys materials in greater quantities. Chevrolet does everything on a bigger, more economical scale. Hence, Chevrolet is in a position to provide a better car at a better price than could possibly issue from any other source! Come, see this Great American Value for 1933. Let your eyes confirm the fact: The leader can accomplish what others dare not try!

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY.

X. Ocean and Lake Carriers.

The advocates of the St. Lawrence seaway have commonly assumed that large seagoing vessels will crowd into the lakes for cargoes the moment the new and larger locks in the river are completed. That is assuming a good deal. It assumes, in the first place, that cargoes will be available as has been noted before; and in the second place that navigation of the river will present no considerable obstacles to ocean shipping once the locks are completed.

The fact, of course, is that navigation of even the lower reaches of the St. Lawrence is difficult and dangerous. The rush of the tide, the swirling currents of the river with its enormous discharge of water, the rocky channel and, above all, the treacherous fogs make for high insurance rates. Only the other day the newspapers reported four ships aground at various points along the river. If business is available, to be sure, shipowners will not hesitate to risk the river to get it, but they will have to charge something more than ordinary ocean rates to compensate for the dangers incurred.

If the lower river has what might be called natural dangers the upper river, above Montreal, will present others of a different sort. An ocean ship will have to enter seven locks, and perhaps eight, in passing from Montreal to Lake Ontario and then go through as many more locks before entering Lake Erie. Locks are hard on ships. The difficulties of running a ship into a concrete basin which is only a few feet wider than the ship itself and which may allow no more clearance fore and aft are familiar to all shipowners on the great lakes if not to all congressmen.

The risk is reflected in insurance rates and it is also visible to the naked eye. A glance at the hull of almost any vessel which frequently passes through the locks at the Soo or the Welland canal will disclose battered plates. Commonly the captains of lake vessels accumulate a number of such minor injuries before repairs are undertaken. Repairs can be postponed as long as the ships continue in the lake service, but no ship captain would dare venture on the high seas, with their much heavier swells, without first repairing the damage to plates done by canal walls and gates. Repairs mean delay and a considerable cash outlay in addition.

Just as these obstacles will tend to keep ocean ships out of the lakes, so there are good reasons why the existing types of lake ships will not, and indeed cannot, be used in ocean service. The typical ore and grain carrier to be seen on the lakes is unsuited to ocean service. The lake type is, essentially, a canal boat built strongly enough to survive the strains imposed by the worst of Lake Superior storms but unable to withstand the strain imposed by heavy North Atlantic seas with their greater wave lengths. A lake cargo vessel is in danger of snapping apart in an Atlantic blow. This is not the place for an extended discussion of how lake ships differ from ocean ships in details of construction; suffice it to say that the types are greatly different and that only the fewest of the vessels now engaged in the bulk cargo trade on the lakes can be thought of as usable in the export trade.

Of course, these lake vessels are far more efficient in carrying bulk cargo on the lakes than any ocean type would be. Because of that fact it is not at all unlikely that even if the St. Lawrence seaway were built lake vessels would carry bulk cargo for export to Montreal or perhaps Quebec or even Rimouski for transfer to ocean ships for export. Such a use of the canalized St. Lawrence would not result in freight savings nearly as large as the advocates of the seaway are claiming. Indeed, if that is to be the principal use to which the seaway is to be put, it seems hardly likely that the outlay can be justified economically.

GUN ARGUMENT IN WASHINGTON.

Representative Maas of Minnesota, by a bit of quick and tactful persuasiveness, induced a sharpshooting Pennsylvanian in the house gallery to toss him a .38 caliber revolver with which the inspired citizen was about to compel his right to address the house on the state of the nation. Mr. Maas succeeded in catching the already cocked pistol without letting it explode, and the incident was over with the seizure of the gentleman in the gallery. Word from his home town of Allentown rates him as a first-class squirrel hunter, and what he might have done if he had started shooting from the hip can be left to the imagination.

Last week an incensed senate clerk went hunting for a newspaper correspondent who had made a three line reference to this petty official's allowance for an official automobile. He was seeing red and intended to do some insect exterminating. When complaint was made that the gentleman was out of order, the officials of the senate were inclined to make very little of it, and Vice President Curtis in one of his lighter moods said that it was a pity the clerk had not been turned loose in the press gallery for ten minutes. Mr. Curtis rallied later to explain that it was just his little joke, but he is notably heavy in his humor, and being a bit timid as well as more than a bit bewildered most of the time, it was thought that he had a suppressed wish truly expressed in his witticism.

If official Washington is to grant indulgences for the rebuttal of criticism by gun play, it can hardly object if a critical citizen moves a machine gun into the gallery and indulges in a bit of rebuttal himself. Then a couple of coroners can be added to the parliamentary system and the casualty list can be reported with the roll calls.

THE CARRIE NATIONS.

Women in Kansas have instructed a committee to inform Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt that her recent speech on prohibition and its effects "has put a severe strain upon the loyalty of countless American women." Kansas has long put a severe strain upon the Union sentiment of many more Americans than its ladies would ever be able to count. The difficulty of reconciling the Union to the determination of these Kansas people to impose their standards of life and their ideas of social good on other American territory than their own has been very grave. The willingness of the country that Kansas should be in itself everything desirable to a Kansan is seldom compensated by any reciprocal willingness in Kansas to pay any attention to its own business. There are many times when an exasperated wish would make this offensive commonwealth a neighbor of Liberia.

The report of Mrs. Roosevelt's speech which irritated the smugness of the Topeka complex attributed to her the statement that since prohibition it had become necessary for young girls to redouble the precautions necessary as safeguards with respect to intoxicants. The change in social habits upon which she remarked has been generally noted and without approval. The older taboos which governed young people have been broken down by the illicit values placed upon alcoholic beverages which in another generation were subject to rules of propriety in themselves more powerful than any law which could be passed to regulate them. When the law stepped in, self-discipline stepped out. That might have been expected. It was inherent in human nature.

SHAKESPEARE ON THE PLANNED SOCIETY.

A radio orchestra was playing the overture to "Oberon." It happened that the listener was near a shelf of books and the Bard was behind him. He picked up "The Tempest" instead of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and opened, by chance, on scene I., act II. Gonzalo, Sebastian, and Antonio are talking.

Gon.—I' the commonwealth I would by contraries
Execute all things; for no kind of traffic
Would I admit; no name of magistrate;
Letters should not be known; riches, poverty,
And use of service, none; contract, succession,
Bourn, bound of land, tilth, vineyard, none;
No use of metal, corn, or wine, or oil;
No occupation; all men idle, all;
And women, too, but innocent and pure;
No sovereignty;—
Seb.—Yet he would be king on't.
Ant.—The latter end of his commonwealth forgets the beginning.

The immortal Will forever proves his immortality. There is nothing truer of the planned society than that the end of it forgets its beginning.

Editorial of the Day

MANY FAMILIES KNOW HOW.

[Decatur, Ill.]

Charles G. Ross, the able Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, brings a tremendous financial problem down to understandable figures when he discusses the saving of one billion dollars in the federal budget.

Expenditures are now running $4,000,000,000 a year. But throw off some ciphers and use a homely illustration. A family with an income of $4,000 a year has got to effect a saving of $1,000. Now everything is in proportion.

The family starting in to economize finds, of course, that it has a lot of fixed charges. For instance, $1,160, or 29 per cent, of the income is pledged to the interest on a mortgage and the retirement of the principal. That cannot be cut without losing the home. Twenty-four per cent of the income goes to support needy relatives. This corresponds to the claims of veterans and their dependents. Sixteen per cent, or $640, corresponds to the cost of maintaining the army and navy, is the family's burglary insurance. A little over 5 per cent, or $200, goes to capital investments. For other purposes, food, clothing, heat, light, amusements and education, there is left 26 per cent of the $4,000, or $1,040.

"Where," asked Mr. Ross, rather despairingly, "shall the harassed householder turn to save his $1,000?"

But John D. C. Weldon, writing on the same subject in the Magazine of Wall Street, declares that "necessity knows no law and no mercy."

"The harassed family's alternative is either to increase its income or slash its expenditures if it wishes to avoid a complete economic collapse ending in bankruptcy."

Mr. Weldon, to continue the figures of the family, would cut the gifts to the poor relatives in two and save $500. He would reduce the maid's and the furnace man's wages 10 per cent—that is, reduce the government salaries—and save $120. Big Sister Postoffice is a useful member of the family, but something of a spender. She must spend just $100 less. The family goes in rather heavily for landscape gardening, or what would be called, in government language, "nonmilitary public construction," such as rivers and harbors, canals and flood control. Some of these things are desirable. In fact, nearly all can be argued as absolutely necessary—but there is the bankruptcy alternative. . . . There can be a saving of $50 here. Another $50 can be saved in gardening expense, which strangely enough includes road building. The department of agriculture dispenses road money with a free hand, one dollar for every dollar that the states expend.

Families, of course, are not departmentalized. They do not employ consuls and commercial agents, and commissions. But if we can imagine father hiring a group of retainers and mother hiring another group to do about the same thing we shall have a picture of overlapping bureaus and agencies such as exist in government. If the family would reorganize and consolidate some of its work there would be a saving of $100.

The total saving is close to the desired $1,000, or in government figures, one billion. If the government thinks it can't be done, there are plenty of American families that know better.

"YULE SHOPPERS CROWD STORES."—Headline. Observe, now, class in Journalism A, that any shopper who goes out to buy Junior a mechanical monkey for a Christmas present is a Yule shopper. There are also Yule merrymakers, Yule skaters, Yule autoists, Yule cooks, and Yule bandits. In your present stage of journalistic development, if asked by your professor to write a sentence containing the word Yule you would write, "Yule be sorry when you miss me." You see how crude you are. You must study up on the word and have it always in your mind. Otherwise, when told to go out some cold December day and get a good story about shoppers, you would come back and start off: "Christmas shoppers thronged the snowy streets yesterday, buying toys as well as useful gifts for the loved ones at home." Then the city editor would toss you right into the nearest waste basket and the janitor would take you down to the furnace. Yule is the word, pupils, and you must not try to substitute an outmoded word like Christmas in its place.

This is the end of shimmering levities;
Of magic horns that pour
Luxuriant store into rat-ridden barns.
This is the end of scorn's
Mocking of them that plod.
Behind a glistening door
Chance turns no more a dazzling wheel
Or pipes the dance that made our bodies reel.
This is the end of august lotteries.
The fires ascend
From the bright haunts of our idolatries.
But now it is the god who burns.
Dazedly to the sea the priests descend.
This is an end,
A precipice, a black abyss
To set the senses spinning.
An end, this is an end;
An end, and a beginning.

WASHINGTON has a joke and is laughing merrily. Oh, most merrily. It says very cautiously that it cannot vouch for the joke, but still it is very comical and is as follows: Ambassador Claudel of France said to the President, apropos of the debt question, "I hope you will remember Lafayette," and Mr. Hoover wisecracked back, "Yes, we will. Lafayette came across." All we can say is, if the thing really happened, that Mr. Hoover has certainly changed.

THE LINE'S NEW, patriotic, popular, and pleasing geography for use in the schools, business office, and library will soon be ready. There are handsome full page maps of Great Britain, Czechoslovakia, Italy, Finland, and Lithuania in gold, blue, orange, and green surmounted by myrtle wreaths and with the neat inscription at the top of each page, "I Will Keep Faith." There will be found five places where maps have been torn out. At first we thought we would not include in our new geography the maps of France, Poland, Belgium, Estonia, and Hungary. But we finally put them in the book. And then we tore hell out of 'em.

Buckaroo Bill of the Bar None Ranch.

II.

His chaps were the toughest of batwings,
His Stetson was wide as a door—
Such was the raiment of Buckaroo Bill
In the Wild Western days of yore.

His spurs were traceried silver,
His belt was a rattlesnake skin—
And gambling at stud or draw poker
Was Buckaroo's littlest sin.

The heels on his boots were the highest
That Yavapai County could boast,
And in every saloon on the Row
Bill was the barmaids' toast.

His kerchief was knotted hard-boiled,
His shirt was a heart-breaking red,
His holsters were tied back and grim
For the slinging of sure-death lead.

But times, dear Waddies, have altered—
And so have Buckaroo's clothes—
And adopted a dude-ranch pose.

His chaps and his Stetson have vanished,
Discarded, his old Levis;
He's taken to wearing plus fours
And sober, little bow ties.

And in lieu of chewing tobacco
He's smoking a tailored fag,
While in place of a smoke pole holster
He's packing a golf club bag!

FOOD DEFICIENCY AND THE EYES.

No small part of our eye troubles results from improper diet. Among the eye disorders that are charged against food deficiencies are: Night blindness, a form of ulcer of the eye going by the name xerophthalmia, a good part of the trachoma, and still more of the granular lids, sties, and redness and itching of the borders of the lids, some of the cases of hemorrhage of the retina and of iritis, and, possibly, some of the glaucoma and cataract.

Of these, ulcerations of the cornea and night blindness are best recognized. In fact, it is said that several thousand years ago Greek physicians recognized that night blindness was due to food deficiency and the standing remedy for it was a diet rich in liver. The other conditions listed are not generally thought of as being either caused by wrong diet or cured by a good one.

A recent report coming from Japan is to the effect that when the deficient diet has been maintained for only a short time, and the eye is only starting to react, it is the cornea that goes wrong, ulcers result. If the same deficiency is kept up, and even made worse, other parts of the eye suffer. Among these are the lens, the iris, the retina, and, finally, the optic nerve goes under.

The error in a diet may consist in its proteins, starches, fats, or minerals, but the vitamins are the principal sources of trouble. Vitamin A heads the list. A prolonged deficiency in this vitamin is the cause of night blindness and xerophthalmia. To this possibly may be added sties and inflammation and irritation of the border of the lids. Among the sources of vitamin A are carotin from carrots, butter, and other yellow oils, milk, cream, and cod liver oil.

We now speak of vitamin B as a complex or mixture of several vitamins, one of which is called vitamin E by many. A deficiency in this vitamin causes neuralgia in the eyes, the eye changes of pellagrins, iritis, some trachoma, and granular lids and perhaps some glaucoma.

Dr. Stucky attributed much of the trachoma that he reported from the mountain districts of Kentucky as due to diet deficiency. The people cooked their meat and vegetables in a pot. The pot liquor they gave to the pigs and they themselves ate what was left. The pigs had good eyesight, could see a revenue officer a long distance off. Their good vision and their athletic abilities made them thief proof. In fact, they could be used as sentries. On the other hand, their owners, because of errors in diet and drink, had poor vision and some of them were caught by "revenoors."

The foods rich in this vitamin are yeasts of various kinds, some yeast products, but not all, sprouted grain, grain germs, nut germs, whole grain flours, meals and cereals, and most lean meats and eggs.

The principal eye damage charged against vitamin C deficiency is hemorrhage of the retina. Some of that condition, though by no means all, may be due to scurvy and vitamin C deficiency. This also applies to some of the cases of detached retina and of iritis.

Vitamin D deficiency causes rickets and its eye troubles. It may be a factor in some cases of cataract. The best preventive agency is some form of fish liver oil. The best known of these are cod liver oil and halibut liver oil.

FIND PRIMARY CAUSE.

M. E. K. writes: How can one avoid swallowing air?

REPLY:

The simple answer is that swallowing air is a voluntary act. We can restrain it just as we keep from swallowing food or water or keep from doing other voluntary acts.

But the case is not quite so simple. The habitual air swallower and belcher has some discomfort in his stomach and swallowing air seems to give him some momentary relief. That's the reason for the habit.

MAY MODIFY.

D. G. A. writes: 1. Is there any cure besides operation for infected tubes?

2. If not taken care of what will the result be?

REPLY.

1. In many cases the inflammation subsides and the case settles down to one of inactivity and few symptoms. In that sense nature cures.

2. Sometimes peritonitis, sometimes rupture, usually sterility, sometimes spontaneous subsidence of symptoms.

CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—[Friend of the People.]—1. "A" was born in Poland in 1910 and is married to an American citizen since Jan. 25, 1928. Her father was naturalized in January, 1924. Does she assume citizenship by marriage or her father's naturalization? 2. When registering she was told that she acquired citizenship by reason of her father's naturalization and to give record of same. Is this correct? 3. Is there an act of congress giving her citizenship by marriage? A. S. W.

1. "A" became a citizen through the naturalization of her father if she was residing in the United States at the time.
2. See answer to 1.
3. No; not since Sept. 22, 1922.

No, he is not responsible for such debts.

FAMILY EXPENSES.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Last August my husband, a traveling salesman, was taken suddenly ill in a small town in Iowa. The physician who was called pronounced it appendicitis and said an operation was necessary. The operation was performed but my husband passed away. He left no estate but numerous debts. He also left me life insurance amounting to $3,935 which I have used in great part in settling these debts. In due time I received a bill from the attending physician amounting to $240, on which I paid $100. As my husband left no estate, can this physician garnishee the bank for the remainder and levy on my small bank balance? J. C. K.

Iowa law is similar to Illinois law in making family expenses a charge against both spouses. Necessary medical expenses have been held to be family expenses. Hence we incline to the opinion that this bill can be collected from you unless you can show that the amount is unreasonable. If you have paid a part without objection this would prejudice your chances of defending on the latter ground.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 17, 1916.

NEW YORK.—Not less than 5,750,000 salaried employés and wage workers will have occasion to rejoice during the holidays over the widespread prosperity prevailing in the United States. This estimate of the number of persons affected by the increases in salaries and wages, bonuses, profit sharing plans, and insurance benefits is made by Secretary of Labor Wilson, based on reports received by his department. While no estimate of the aggregate amount of money distributed under these various plans for helping employés to celebrate the coming Christmas and to enable them to meet the high cost of living is made by the government, facts collected here indicated that it will exceed $300,000,000. The reports indicate that the increases in wages average 10 per cent.

PARIS.—Every foot of the twelve square miles of territory north of Verdun won by the French in their brilliant stroke of yesterday has been maintained. On the right bank of the Meuse the French obtained two more successes today. The village of Bezon Vaux suffered the fate of its fortifications, which were seized yesterday. And in the Carrieres wood, to the west of Bezon Vaux, the French lines were advanced substantially. The Germans made a desperate assault today against the French positions on Cote du Poivre [Pepper hill], between Vacherauville and Louvemont. Gen. Nivelle stopped the attack with a machine gun barrage fire. The Germans are now back very close to the line from which they started their present offensive in February of this year.

OTHER WAR NEWS.—Heavy artillery firing followed by spirited infantry attacks took place in the region of Monastir, but neither side reported an important success. Steady progress of the Teutonic forces in Wallachia is reported. They are making a clean sweep of the Russian and Rumanian forces from the Transylvanian Alps to the Danube. Further to the southeast in Dobrudja the Russians continued to retire to make their line conform with that of the retreating Rumanians north of the Danube. In the wooded Carpathians there were continued bombardments. Advances attempted by the Teuton forces were driven back in the region of Jezupolia and Rafailov.

BERLIN.—The German, Austro-Hungarian, and Turkish residents of the Greek island of Syra were arrested by an entente detachment that landed there, a Berlin report says. "The German consul," the statement adds, "died twenty-four hours later from the effects of the abominable treatment he received."

ATHENS.—The Greek government's reply accepting the demands of the entente allies is a complete compliance with their ultimatum and an expression of the hope for resumption "of traditional relations with the entente nations, based on reciprocal confidence."

LONDON.—A fog which settled over London yesterday is described as being the most dense in fifty years. From early morning until a late hour London was a city of perpetual night. The inconvenience was greatest in the evening, owing to the light restrictions.

A PLAN OF FARM RELIEF.

Jackson, Mich., Dec. 14.—The editorial in today's paper, "A Plan of Farm Relief," is the most sensible to the writer's mind of anything that has been suggested that we know anything about.

Try to get this editorial in the hands of every lawmaker who is a thinking man and really working for a recovery of conditions and you will have given them something to ponder over. Having been in business for over twenty years dealing with farmers and extending them credit, and having farm land of my own, I realize it is a most critical time and conditions are just as you say.

Something out of the ordinary should be done and quickly and business men, politicians and everybody should realize that there can be no appreciable recovery until there is some paying and buying power in agriculture. G. W. MAYES.

A FARMER ON FARM RELIEF.

Mount Morris, Ill., Dec. 6.—Mr. Edward A. O'Neal certainly doesn't speak for me in advocating the so-called domestic allotment plan for raising the prices of certain farm commodities even though I am a member of the farm bureau. Of course my interest in it as applied to wheat and cotton which I do not produce is purely from the standpoint of the consumer. However, my real objection to the plan will be if it is applied to products like hogs which I do produce. Has the American farmer lost all his independence that he wishes to give the management of his farm into the hands of the government? It seems to me that is what one would be doing if he signed the contract which it is proposed to require in order to get any benefits from the scheme. I, for one, will never sign the right to manage my farm over to any government official. Then where will I be? My idea would be that the excise tax to be collected from the processors would depress the open market price so that I would probably get even less than I do now.

Why can't congress quit trying to relieve the farmer? I should think they would be tired trying by now. What have they succeeded in doing? The stabilization efforts certainly are partly responsible for the present low prices. In depressing prices they had the effect which I anticipated. Now they are going to keep them down.

The practical measures to relieve the farmer are twofold. First, encourage holders of notes and mortgages to be fair with those who owe them. The way prices have gone lenders cannot expect to get back one hundred cents on the dollar. This has been advocated by many in the last year, but the action which would help the farmers who are not in debt as well as those who are would be a real reduction in taxes. And this can be done; for a very large per cent of the direct tax is for local purposes. I suppose it is easier to try to get relief in Washington, but the only place to find real relief is at home.

ROBERT FRIDLEY.

PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—According to today's TRIBUNE the assessor is trying to have a law passed which will practically enable him to delve into all the personal transactions a person might make in order to tax every available item. To me it sounds like Russia, when all a person's private business must be made public and taxed also. This law is going to drive a lot of business concerns out of Cook county, as they are also required to pay a heavy tax on stock and equipment which they have on hand.

THE PENALTY OF NONPAYMENT.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—I want to get my New Year's resolution in early.

A bas la belle France: journeys to and sojourns therein, its steamship lines; its fashion fripperies and personal doodads [both male and female]; its perfumes and its savons; its language on bills of fare; its wines and cordials [as, if and when]; in other words, let's do a bit of repudiation of our own. Bye-bye, France; not buy, buy French. FINIS.

A BOUQUET FOR THE POLICE.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—It occurs to me that the citizens as a whole heap a great deal of criticism on our police department, and I feel when the occasion presents itself we should not hesitate in making note of our appreciation of their services.

I wish to express my appreciation for the services that the police rendered me when my car was stolen between 9 and 9:30 o'clock on the night of Dec. 1 while making a call on Wellington near Sheridan road. The police located my car and returned it to me in good condition the following morning at 11 o'clock, taking special pains to get in touch with me so I could drive the car home and thus circumventing the usual difficulties of being towed and subsequently paying not only towing but storage charges.

JOHN E. SIEBEL, M. D.

PARK GOVERNMENTS IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—I notice that the map on page 12 of today's TRIBUNE shows Hawthorne and Clyde to be among Chicago's park districts. These two districts are located in Cicero and should not be included with the park districts located within the city. This will leave twenty-two park governments in the city of Chicago.

There are, however, three additional governmental agencies in control of the city's parks and playgrounds which you do not include in your list. These are the city of Chicago, which operates approximately 75 parks and 45 playgrounds; the board of education, which operates 45 playgrounds, and the forest preserve district. The latter is essentially a park district, and, while it embraces the entire county, it has control over part of Chicago's recreational facilities, owning 1,378 acres of ground within the city limits.

We thus have in Chicago one phase of governmental activity—the provision of recreational facilities—under the control of 25 governments. I. TENNER.

COLD COACHES.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—Is there not some law which will compel the Chicago Motor Coach company to equip their coaches with sufficient heat to at least make it possible for the public to ride in a small degree of comfort? This week it has been almost unbearable riding to and from the loop.

The only heat furnished is a small heater at the door which does nothing for the driver or the passengers, especially those riding in the middle or back of the bus. How these drivers still retain their courteous and pleasant manner is beyond me.

The Chicago Motor Coach company has gotten away with many things in their service to the public, but the idea of furnishing the public with refrigerators to ride in and charging for it is just too much.

'Human Being' Is a Whimsey in Best Sense

Christopher Morley Offers Story of Richard Roe.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Human Being," by Christopher Morley. [Doubleday-Doran.]

"HUMAN BEING" is the kind of book that is the despair of the reviewer's life. There is no nicely labeled pigeonhole into which it can be shoved or from which it can be taken and inched and millimetered by the literary measuring stick; none except one which has such a tarnished label over its almost vacant spaces. Until "whimsey" became a finger down the throat of most of the intelligent reading public, when it was a good lusty word meaning what the dictionary proclaims it as meaning, "a sudden freak, an unreasonable notion, a caprice," such a book as "Human Being" could have dwelt in honor in the critical box marked "Whimsey."

CHRISTOPHER MORLEY.

In the most delightful and purest Websterian interpretation of the word, "Human Being" is just that. It is a sudden freak and an unreasonable notion and a caprice all in one, like the elderly naval man in the Bab Ballads who was "a cook and a captain bold and the mate of the Nancy brig, and a bo'sun tight and a midshipmite, and the crew of the captain's gig." (Incidentally, there is a grand new edition of "The Plays and Poems of W. S. Gilbert" just published by Random House.)

The very idea of the book is fantastic. It purports to be a biography of Richard Roe, "the fellow who always gets just a little the worst of it in contracts with John Doe," but a biography that was never written. The book is given over to the gathering of the material for that possible volume by a man who was an accountant and came into a bit of money and was able to indulge himself in a "sudden freak," a whimsey. Being inexperienced in the art of biographical research and experienced in methodical graphs, having seen his proposed "hero" only once, he set about the business of discovering the essential Richard Roe in a new fashion, summed up in an angry justification of his strange methods: "I guess it's all done with mirrors."

And yet "Human Being" is as far from the usual mirror trick method of fiction writing as it is from any of the standard plans and specifications. It is not only the Richard Roe he was supposed to be, as reflected in his wife's idea of him, his daughter's, his brother's, his mistress', his fellow salesmen's, that Christopher Morley has put into words but the "unreasonable notion" of a human being, the whimsey of a man so ordinary that he was not even a type, only a synthesis of ordinariness. And "Human Being" is not only the story of that man but, by the author's "caprice," a picture of the world today as it seems to the characters and to the biographer and to the author himself. It is about everything, made up of countless nothings.

Technically the book is as whimsical as it is in its material, for one page makes the reader feel that he is reading a novel, the next that a delightful essay is singing through his mind, the next that satire is stabbing his intelligence, the next that buffoonery is jabbing his sides. (That word "whimsical" is nauseating, I keep realizing, in its modern misuse; but, I pray you, take, just for this once, Mr. Webster's unemotional reactions to it rather than your own!)

For quite another reason "Human Being" is the despair of this reviewer. It has given her such immense delight that she is suspicious of her own reactions to it. The ending is bad, and sometimes Mr. Morley is too much given to his greatest fault, that of being a little smart-alecky, but page follows page of utter joy. The publishing business was never written of with more wit. There are enchanting short essays on timetables, and the charms of Jules' speakeasy, and Chicago, and advertisements, and women's passion for open-work stockings, and the need for what Mr. Morley calls the "iron ration" in life—the dream of release from life when it becomes unbearable—and hundreds of other things. And there is the description of a human being as "a folder of Unfinished Business," followed by a paragraph which is a masterpiece.

To this reviewer "Human Being" is everything that all of his admirers have claimed for Christopher Morley. It has charms and brilliancies and allure which have been, to her mind, fragmentary or evanescent in most of his previous volumes. "Human Being" is her nomination for the superbook of whimsey.

The year gave us another volume with Christopher Morley's name as author. The lectures which he delivered at the University of Pennsylvania on book collecting are published in a volume titled "Ex Libris Carissimis." It comes from the university press, and it contains, besides the lectures, a list of the 85 "Golden Florins" of literature according to his catholic taste.

New Literature Magazine Published in Chicago

The first issue of a new magazine, "The Midwest Review of Literature," has just been published, with Thoda Cocroft as editor, George Morris Jr. as managing editor, Rob Dell as art director and Daryl C. Doran, a new Chicago publisher of books, as publisher. It will be published monthly. "This magazine is not intended for the academic, ponderous or pontifical," its readers are told in "Meet the Magazine." "We know a good book when we find one. We tell our friends it's a SWELL book and wish there were a lot more like it."

"Lovely Laughter" Collects 17th Century Love Lyrics

"Lovely Laughter," edited by Earl E. Fisk [Knopf], is a beautiful anthology of 17th century love lyrics. The poems included are not generally known but are typical of the gayety and vitality, the elegance and exquisite formalism of 17th century verse. The verse is divided into nine sections, subtly telling the story of 17th century love. Vera Willoughby does the exquisite decorations and pastels for the book.

JOSEPH W. BEACH EVALUATES NOVELS OF THE 20TH CENTURY

Joseph Warren Beach, professor in the University of Minnesota, has written a brilliant evaluation and analysis of the twentieth century novel. He traces the development of form in the European, the English, and the American novel since 1900. The names of George Meredith, Charles Dickens, Thackeray, George Eliot, Victor Hugo, and Guy de Maupassant are mentioned among many others to represent the tradition behind the modern novel and whose works reveal the various types, realistic, romantic, thematic, epic, of fictional development.

The book is not only arranged in chapter heads that indicate the trend of fiction of the time he is studying but also in sections that present the individual author and his separate and distinctive works.

The whole is divided into five main sections, "Preliminaries," "The Dramatic Ideal," "The Well Made Novel," "Transition," and "Expressionism." The order of the discussion is not chronological alone, because the author follows the inception of a literary movement down to its modern expression. The contemporary novelists he considers are, among others, James Joyce, John Dos Passos, Aldous Huxley, Virginia Woolf, Theodore Dreiser, and Sigrid Undset.

It is a brilliant and fascinating book, "The Twentieth Century Novel" [Century], written in a smooth and adept style.

New Sherlock Holmes Books Stir Students

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—The publication of several books dealing with Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson has led to a great deal of excellent fun over this pair—fun always arising from respectful love for two classic characters. Whether the higher criticism of Conan Doyle's masterpieces began first at Oxford or Cambridge has been gravely debated [A. A. Milne taking a hand], and whether Holmes himself was or was not a Cambridge man. The discrepancies between the various tales have been considered, and really astonishing learning has been displayed.

CONAN DOYLE.

That is not surprising when one considers that at least one contributor to the discussion has been S. C. Roberts, who is secretary to the Syndics of Cambridge university, a great Johnsonian, and a fellow of Pembroke college, Cambridge; while another is probably Bernard Darwin, the golfing correspondent of the Times, and one of our leading authorities on criminal literature.

Mr. Darwin, who was to have been Miss Joyce Wethered's partner in a recent tournament [which shows his class as a golfer] and who has just published a charming book of golfing essays called "Out of the Rough," is a grandson of Charles Darwin and a son of Sir Francis Darwin. He, too, is a Cambridge man; and the expertness of Cambridge men in the matter of Sherlock Holmes evidently galls the Oxonians as much as Cambridge's recent run of success in the university boat race does.

It would, however, be a handsome act on the part of Oxonians [their leader in the matter of Sherlock Holmes is Father Ronald Knox] if they were to set on foot active proposals for the establishement of a Sherlock Holmes society, courteously pressing for the appointment to its presidency of a Cambridge man [for example, Mr. Darwin]. From recent illuminations of the present state of Holmes scholarship it is clear that such a society would provide a welcome vent for the enthusiasm of many thousand Watsonians.

The Holmes discussions have served pleasantly to diversify a publishing season which has been of fair interest and success. The other day I was visited by no fewer than four London publishers [I was in hospital, and they called to "inquire"]; and each of the four admitted that business in London was better than he had expected it to be.

Miss Strobel Reviews New Poetry Works

"The Furioso" Is Good Enough to Reread.

BY MARION STROBEL.

[Author of "Once in a Blue Moon" and "Lost City" (volumes of verse) and "Saturday Afternoon" and "A Woman of Fashion" (novels).]

IF you like poetry, biography, drama, humor, wisdom, and philosophy get Leonard Bacon's "The Furioso." Open it dubiously, if you will. I did. I thought: "This is a long narrative poem, and I don't usually like long narrative poems." I read a few pages and thought, "Well, Mr. Bacon's a good craftsman anyway." A few more pages and I was thinking the book good enough to give away for Christmas, and a few more and it was not only good enough to keep but to reread, to quote from, to pencil mark, to make stump speeches about.

MARION STROBEL.

Mr. Bacon has complete control of his material. In following the life (the changing of the poet's name is no real attempt to hide his identity) he juggles his climaxes with bewildering balance. The scenes follow fast one on another. There is the "gloomy, liquorish, little hole"; later there is the Solari palace, "a large affair like many another plaster wedding cake." Here there is a rollicking encounter between the poet and the duchess with the huge eyes and the tone that "allured him as she coiled a cobra nattily about her forearm."

Later the scenes in Venice, the Foscarina standing "among the shadows with the gift, herself, in her eyes." Still later the scenes with the dancer Arabella (everybody will recognize her) concluding with a description more exciting than any dance;

"She moved all music. Brazen cymbals clashed
When her hands rose. She was death and wrath that night.
Around her loins the slithery filaments lashed
Like serpents. Her eyes were full of dreadful sight,
Pools of black fire. And as she swirled about

It is perhaps more amazing when a man's tremendous power is not abused. This book makes me confident that Mr. Bacon's powers never will be.

"Rip Tide," William Rose Benét's "novel in verse," is a story that in less than one hundred pages deals lyrically, with marriage, love, illegitimacy, incest, business, pleasure, and death. The reader skims the romantic pages, his emotions happily afloat on the rhythm. The book is good entertainment, ingratiating poetry. To be sure the plot is unfangled by a most propitious intervention of the sea (the boy Barry being killed while trying to rescue his half-sister sweetheart), but Mr. Benét's concluding stanzas are so confidently rhapsodic that the reader finds himself disarmed, and against his better judgment almost believing in them.

In "A Tale of Troy" John Masefield, the poet laureate, tells of the taking of Helen by Paris, of the sailing for Troy, its siege, Odysseus' plan to build the horse, the entrance into Troy in the belly of the horse. It ends with the sack of Troy. The well known story is clearly and at times movingly told. Klytemnestra's lament for the sacrifice of her daughter has the vivid climax:

In her preface to "Barabbas" Sara Bard Field says she felt "an urge to express, however inadequately, my burning consciousness and my gratitude for both that racial aggrandizement and personal spiritual wealth contributed by 'the Hebrew nation.'" The sincerity of Mrs. Field's feeling is apparent through the book. Indeed her sincerity, her high intention, the infinite pains that she has gone to in accurately presenting historic events, are unquestioned. Unfortunately, she set herself the further task of telling her story in a close woven pattern of exacting rhyme. Her attempted variations within this pattern are creditable but also rather labored.

I want to conclude with a loud hozannah for Miss Harriet Monroe's revision of her anthology, "The New Poetry." If you want a panoramic view of twentieth century verse in English I know of no anthology that touches this in the wisdom of its selections, its scope, and the flavor of its biographical notes.

If your interest goes further into the past you might supplement Miss Monroe's volume with that of Mark Van Doren's which gives his personal selections of American poets from 1630 to 1930.

DEMOCRATS JOIN FORCES IN ALL CHICAGO AREA

Chiefs of 6 Counties Will Act on Patronage.

The six counties in the Chicago metropolitan area are to be united in Democratic political activity under the new state administration.

This was announced yesterday following a meeting of the Democratic committee chairmen of Lake, McHenry, Kane, Du Page and Will counties with the Cook county central committee at the Hotel Sherman. An agreement for close coöperation was said to have been reached unanimously.

Will Act on Patronage.

As in most political business, the starting point for the new entente is to be state patronage. Since the election it has developed that while the Cook county organization is not asking for anything like a full proportionate share of the spoils of victory to be dispensed by Judge Henry Horner and other Democrats who will take state office on Jan. 9, there is a general feeling that the plums should be divided between Chicago and downstate. Such a territorial division, it was suggested, might result in discrimination against the big counties immediately adjoining Cook.

These counties are all heavily Republican in normal times, but on Nov. 8 the Democratic vote multiplied and it was suggested by some of the leaders that if full advantage were taken of the shift this entire territory might be kept friendly to the Democratic cause.

On this basis the agreement was that Cook and its five neighbors will act as a unit in all state patronage matters just as the downstate unit with headquarters at Springfield will act for the rest of the state. The Cook leaders expressed their readiness to help the organizations of their neighbors in every way possible, the ultimate aim being coöperation in future campaigns.

Park Board Discussion.

Although Judge Horner and other state officials-elect have denied persistently that patronage committees and similar units will be more than fact finding bodies to present the names of possible appointees and their qualifications, the subject of organization recommendations still occupies leaders in Chicago because of the belief that they will be followed whenever they are acceptable.

In that belief a meeting the Democratic ward committee of the west side will be held today to discuss recommendations of candidates for the west park board which Judge Horner is expected to make soon after he takes office.

Because of the tangled affairs of the present board and the feeling that a new board will be hampered seriously by a lack of funds, it is said, there have been extremely few aspirants for these commissionerships. Today's conference is to determine just what material is available and possibly to make indorsements for the presidency and other positions.

Proposals for the consolidation of 1933 elections in the name of economy were advanced another step by a meeting held in the offices of the board of election commissioners. Those present included a committee appointed recently by County Judge Jarecki to draft bills carrying out the plan, Mayor Cermak, Chairman Fred V. McGuire of the election board, and T. B. McGrath Jr., representing the small park districts of the county.

Will Submit Legislation.

It was agreed to introduce in the opening days of the new general assembly a group of bills that it is estimated would save between $750,000 and $100,000 for the taxpayers. One of these would postpone the first aldermanic election from April until June 5, the day of the judicial election. Another would eliminate the registration now required before the aldermanic election and permit affidavit voting by qualified but unregistered voters.

To these now are added the bills necessary to postpone the elections of the small park districts—19 in number—and the numerous township elections in the county until the judicial election.

BOY CORN CHAMP LOSES MONEY ON HIS PRIZE CROP

Cook county's 1932 boy corn champion grew his corn at a loss, and yet had the lowest per bushel cost of the 500 youths who competed in the annual contest, according to the announcement which accompanied the selection yesterday of Wilfred A. Schaller, 18 years old, of Chicago Heights as the best Cook county junior corn grower for the year.

Edward J. Tobin, county superintendent of schools, County Farm Adviser O. G. Barrett, and M. E. Tascher, assistant farm adviser, served as judges of the project and presented the boy farmer with a $20 bank account.

The 56.9 bushels of corn which Schaller raised on his one acre plot was valued at 12 cents a bushel, making the total value $6.83. The cost of cultivating the acre, including labor, fertilizer, and seed was $15.55, so that Schaller actually lost $8.72 on his crop. The receipt of the $20 prize money, however, gave him a net profit of $11.28 after deducting his loss.

PUT $25,000,000 PHONE RATE CASE UP TO U. S. JUDGES

Quiz Company Lawyer on Rate of Return.

Federal Judges Evan A. Evans, Will M. Sparks, and James H. Wilkerson, sitting en banc, took under advisement yesterday the telephone rate case involving a possible refund of 25 million dollars from the Illinois Bell Telephone company to the users of two and four party line coin box telephones and a rate reduction amounting to two million dollars a year.

Closing arguments were made yesterday by attorneys. The case has been in the courts since 1923, having reached the United States Supreme court, which sent it back to the three judges for a further finding of fact. It originated when a temporary federal injunction was granted restraining the Illinois commerce commission from enforcing a rate reduction it had ordered.

Valuation Is Issue.

The issue in the case is the total valuation on which the Illinois Bell Telephone company was entitled to make a reasonable profit. Yesterday Attorney Edward L. Blackman of New York, representing the American Telephone and Telegraph company, said that, based on the ease of attracting capital, the Illinois Bell company was entitled to an 8 per cent return for the years from 1923 to 1927, to 7 per cent from 1928 to 1930, and 8 per cent in 1931 and 1932.

The three judges spent thirty minutes asking questions as to the company's reasons for insisting that utility rates must be kept at former levels when other industries are not earning operating expenses. Judge Evans said it was apparently more of a hardship for the public to pay $1 today than it was to pay $2 three or four years ago.

Attorney Benjamin F. Goldstein, special counsel for the city, who is advocating that the original reduction be enforced and the company be directed to pay back the 25 million dollars held in escrow, handed the court a table of figures computing the returns to telephone stockholders under the company's claims.

High Rate Is Shown.

According to the table, if the 8 and 7 per cent return should be allowed on the companies' claimed valuation, the real annual rates of return for eight years on the actual capital and surplus of the Illinois Bell company and its holding company, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, would be as follows:

Year—	Illinois Bell.	A. T. & T.
1923	25.17 per cent	33.04 per cent
1924	23.55 per cent	31.76 per cent
1925	24.01 per cent	54.02 per cent
1926	22.34 per cent	30.99 per cent
1927	21.25 per cent	24.70 per cent
1928	16.19 per cent	21.37 per cent
1929	16.05 per cent	22.16 per cent
1930	14.51 per cent	20.03 per cent

In summing up Attorney Goldstein and his associate, George I. Haight, claimed judgment should be given them for four reasons, as follows:

1. That the telephone company violated a commerce commission order of 1920 fixing depreciation rates.
2. That the A. T. & T. was overpaid for services to the Illinois Bell company.
3. That the A. T. & T. did not give a proper share of long distance and toll revenue to the local company.
4. That the Illinois company earned 8 to 15 million dollars a year more than the average of the other 24 companies in the Bell system.

Government Installs Target Range for Postal Guards

A target range was opened yesterday on the 16th floor of the Federal building to improve the marksmanship of postal guards, secret service men, customs agents and deputy marshals. Recognizing the increase in banditry, the government officials installed a quarter-inch steel target bearing the figure of a man on which the vital spots have been marked. The target is illuminated by floodlights.

Is War Veteran

Linton Keith, 36 years old, a world war veteran and the father of two children, was found to have the highest scholastic aptitude among the 750 freshmen at the University of Chicago when results of a psychological test given the students were posted yesterday.

Keith's grade in the test of 365 out of a possible 382 was the highest scored by any of 200,000 college freshmen to whom the tests have been given at some 200 colleges in the last ten years.

Keith was the valedictorian of his pre-war high school class in Princeton, Ill. He enlisted in the marines when the United States declared war, but never reached France.

After the war he came to Chicago, attended business college and for 12 years, until he lost his job last summer, was a clerical employé of a correspondence school and other business houses. He lives with his wife and two children, Joan, 4 years old, and Lindon Jr., 3, at 4255 South Maplewood avenue.

SENTENCE BANDIT WHO PREYED ON BEAUTY PARLORS

Morris Silver Must Serve 1 to 10 Years.

CRIMINAL COURT.

James Varechia, murder, sentenced to death by Judge John Prystalski.

Charles Allen and Charles Jackson, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Ilus Mariano and O. Sarigor, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

Daniel Armstrong, robbery, sentenced 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Elmer Graham, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Sam Aronowitz, assault, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell and fined $1,000; Mike Sciales, rape, sentenced to 5 years in the penitentiary by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Morris Silver, 42 years old, who used TRIBUNE want ads to obtain information which he used in the robbery of beauty parlor owners, was sentenced to serve one to ten years in the penitentiary yesterday by Chief Justice John Prystalski in the Criminal court.

Testimony showed that Silver located his victims through advertisements offering to buy beauty parlors. On receiving a reply he would go to the shop, the state charged, pose as a prospective buyer and rob the owner. The state also charged Silver with a criminal attack on one of his women robbery victims.

The defendant was tried and sentenced on a charge of grand larceny for stealing from Hilda Zackrison, owner of a shop at 5061 North Clark street. Attorney Clarence Darrow, who emerged from retirement to appear in the case, served as counsel for Silver. He explained that Arthur Silver, a son of the defendant, once did him a favor and that he had taken the father's case out of gratitude.

Attorney Darrow produced witnesses in an effort to show that Silver was once of good character and operated a butcher shop until forced to close by financial difficulties.

Silver's mind was affected by the failure, Attorney Darrow said, and he pleaded that the depression was to blame for the crimes of his client. Assistant State's Attorney Robert L. Donigan made the closing argument for the state.

Judge Prystalski said that he could not accept the defense that the depression had caused Silver to commit the crimes. "Hundreds of people in the same situation have been getting along," he said.

The judge agreed, on the plea of Attorney Darrow, to change the charge from robbery to grand larceny and passed sentence.

COD LIVER OIL IS ADDED TO MILK BY NEW PROCESS

Cannot Detect Taste, Scientists Say.

New York, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Cod liver oil bread and cod liver oil milk, two new health foods, products of 10 years' research at Columbia university, were described in detail tonight for the first time at a meeting of the American Institute of Chemists.

The foods are made by adding to bread or milk a few drops of the vital essence of the fish oil, its vitamin D, sometimes called its bottled sunshine.

A quart of milk so treated was claimed to be equal to three teaspoonfuls of cod liver oil, but without the least trace of the oil taste. The bread is still "experimental," with two commercial firms testing its baking. But the milk was reported as already having cured 40 babies of rickets, the disease which softens the bones.

Method Is Patented.

The report was made by Dr. Theodore F. Zucker of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia, who developed the extraction processes. The method, he said, has been patented by University Patents, Inc., a Columbia university institution, for the purpose of making sure that commercial development is administered "for public good."

The cod liver milk is the third method recently developed by science for putting the "sunshine" vitamin D into cow's milk. A few days ago the University of Wisconsin reported consummation of a process for cascading milk in front of strong ultra-violet light, whose beams cause formation of vitamin D. The other method is to feed cows with yeast containing this vitamin.

All aim primarily at eradicating rickets from children. This disease, Dr. Zucker said, is still widespread despite popular belief to the contrary. He quoted the Journal of the American Medical association as stating that rickets "remains all too prevalent in many communities."

Removing Flavor Big Job.

The big job with cod liver oil has been to remove the flavor, milk being peculiarly suspectible to bad taste. Now, Dr. Zucker said, expert tasters have been unable to recognize the milk contining the fish vitamin.

"The sale of such milk," he said "has been put into actual operation in Detroit. Dr. Barnes of the Detroit health department, has conducted a series of tests on rachitic infants and has found that a quart of milk having 150 units of vitamin D, and also amounts corresponding to about 100 units, give excellent results. One hundred fifty units are equivalent to about three teaspoonfuls of standard cod liver oil.

"In 15 rachitic infants he demonstrated that in about two weeks a definite improvement can be noticed in the X-ray picture of bone and in the inorganic phosphate level of the blood. In about 40 days a return to normal bone condition and normal blood phosphate was established."

An Appropriate CHRISTMAS GIFT for $1.50

If you have out-of-town friends or relatives who are interested in antiques or interior decorations, an ideal Christmas gift for them would be a subscription to the Saturday edition of The Sun containing the Antiques and Interior Decorations Pages.

These Pages will be a weekly reminder of your greetings and will bring pleasure and enjoyment many times in the new year. They are edited by Charles Messer Stow, the nationally-known antiquarian. In addition to his own weekly writings they contain valuable contributions from other authorities on furniture, glass, silver, textiles, etc. They contain several regular feature columns such as: The Quester, giving interesting and amusing sidelights on rare things and old customs; Questions and Answers, where puzzled collectors may have their questions answered; Next Week's Auctions, telling when and where the auction sales will take place.

Further, the Saturday Sun has many other special features and pages on such subjects as music, art, books, stamps, the theater, radio, television and finance, each of which is edited by an authority on his respective subject.

A subscription to the Saturday Sun is a tasteful gift, one that will be appreciated by cultured people. It costs only $1.50 a year and is therefore an economical gift as well as a valuable one.

Yellow Cab

NET EARNINGS AND PROVISION FOR DIVIDENDS FOR PUBLIC PROTECTION 4.9¢
TAXES 5½¢
INSURANCE 9¢
RENT 7¼¢
GASOLINE, LUBRICANTS AND TIRES 5½¢
ADMINISTRATIVE 3.3¢
MECHANICS, TRAFFIC AND GARAGE WAGES 10.2¢
DRIVERS' WAGES 38½¢

Look over this diagram and see how your dollar is divided when you pay it to YELLOW CAB.

If you think the major portion of it is profit, then guess again and again. If you have any idea that YELLOW CAB is becoming fabulously rich on the fare it charges today, see what the diagram says.

Realize, if you can, that YELLOW CAB'S net earning is two cents per passenger. If your cab fare in Chicago costs you a few cents more than you pay to irresponsibles in other cities, just remember that part of that fare is for insurance protection for you.

Also remember that those cabs in other cities which charge a lower rate, have no protection to offer you, and that every cut-rate cab in the world has died out, leaving a long list of unpaid public liabilities.

Moreover, these cut-rate cabs are flimsy affairs or are second-hand, built-over affairs which are at once unsafe and unsanitary. They have no financial responsibility and, as a matter of fact, YELLOW CAB is the only taxi-cab company in existence that has.

YELLOW CAB could not be the great system of local transportation that it is today had it ignored any of the factors shown in the diagram. True, these irresponsible cabs can offer you a lower rate, but you've got to sacrifice every other desirable feature to get it.

NATION'S GOLD TEETH VALUED AT MANY MILLION

Metal Is Mostly Used for Monetary Purposes.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Gold, as the miner remarked, is where you find it—which means in America that besides being in coins it's in gold teeth, fountain pens, eye glasses, and jewelry—but just how much is an unanswerable question. At any rate, the amount of gold in teeth is worth many millions of dollars.

One bureau of mines employé, who qualifies as a gold expert and declined to give an estimate of what the country's gold teeth could be hocked for, remarked:

"If some enterprising dentist pulled all the gold teeth, he'd have a lot of teeth—and considerable money."

A dentist once estimated that as a national average there was at least one tooth per person with some gold in it.

Worth $20.67 a Troy Ounce.

Since anywhere from 10 to possibly 100 grains of gold might go into a tooth, these figures can be tried out if you're curious to know what your mouth's worth for its metallic contents:

One troy ounce, by which gold is measured, contains 480 grains and is worth $20.67 at the mint.

Jewelry, mint officials estimated, takes about half of the gold not used for coinage purposes or to support monetary systems. The rest goes into optical goods, dental supplies, scientific uses, and odds and ends, along with plate and gold leaf articles.

About the only positive facts—and these include estimates as well as checked points—about the world's gold as summarized by various federal agencies are:

22 Billions Has Been Produced.

That since 1492, about $22,000,000,000 in gold has been produced in the world, and of this $11,670,000,000 is now in monetary use and the rest either in manufactured products or lost, with no estimate on the losses.

America's monetary stock as of September, 1932, given by Secretary Mills in his annual report, is $4,230,000,000. Estimates of gold otherwise in use about the country ranged from $1,000,000,000 to $2,000,000,000.

The mint said gold coins struck off in the first 11 months of 1932 totaled 352,245,000, and estimated industrial use in 1931 at $29,157,865.

NORWEGIANS MAY EXHIBIT TRAINING SHIP IN CHICAGO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 16.—The Norwegian-America line today decided to contribute 10,000 kroner [$1,102] towards the expenses of sending the training ship Soerlandet to the Chicago Century of Progress in 1933.

The Norwegian Shipowners' association will meet next week to consider the contribution of a similar amount. Total expenses are estimated at 50,000 kroner ($8,510) and there is every indication that the amount will be raised.

N. A. Grevstad, editor of the Skandinaven, Norwegian newspaper of Chicago, has concluded a successful campaign here for the exhibition and is returning to Chicago. Mr. Grevstad came to Norway as a representative of the Chicago fair and to attend the Bjornsen centennial at Oslo on Dec. 8.

HAROLD TEEN—POOR LITTLE RICH BOY

GIRL STANDING ON SAFETY ISLE KILLED BY AUTO

A 21-year old girl, standing on a safety island in Roosevelt road at Lawndale, was struck and fatally injured by an autombile last night. She was Miss Betty Vrdsky of 2818 South Ridgeway avenue.

The driver of the car was Sanford Bower, 34 years old, of 2944 Flournoy street. He told police that just as he reached the safety island, another car passed close to him on the right, forcing him to swerve upon the island. Bower took Miss Vrdsky to the Mount Sinai hospital, where she died.

There were two other deaths in Cook county yesterday, increasing the automobile toll for the year to 1,059. The victims:

Romaine Kateley, 26 years old, 2439 Union avenue, Blue Island, a machinist. Died in the Little Company of Mary hospital. His car collided with a street car at 108th street and Western avenue.

Walter Marsimow, 47 years old. Fatally injured last night in front of his restaurant at 2366 Clybourn avenue, by a car driven by Fred Wagner of 1483 Larrabee street.

TRAINMAN BARES WOUNDS TO PROVE HIS WOLF STORY

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Graham McLeod, fireman on the Algoma Central railway, today told of capturing a timber wolf with his bare hands while traveling on his regular freight run.

McLeod saw the wolf from his engine cab about 500 yards ahead. The engine overtook the wolf as McLeod crawled out on the pilot and as he neared the animal, he grasped it by the tail. He succeeded in getting it back to the engine and put it in the tank box, but not before the wolf had badly bitt n his fingers.

The scene of the capture gave McLeod an advantage. An 800 foot cliff rises on one side of the track and the Agawa river runs on the other side, forcing the wolf to keep on the right of way.

American Wife Wins Divorce from Hindu

Mrs. Margaret K. Roy of Albany, N. Y., was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Craig A. Hood in the Circuit court from Sharat K. Roy, 5519 Everett avenue, a Hindu employed as a geologist on the staff of the Field museum. She charged desertion, and asked alimony and support for her son, Derik, 2 years old. "East is east, west is west, and never the twain shall meet—and I'll grant you payments of $60 a month," ruled Judge Hood. He dismissed a cross bill in which Roy charged desertion.

EJECT LAWYER FOR EVANSTON BOY IN RAPE CASE

Attorney Frank McDonnell was ejected from the court of Justice of the Peace Max Borchardt of Evanston by two policemen yesterday after he had made a heated argument in behalf of his client, Eugene Schoos, 17 years old, 1423 South boulevard, Evanston. The boy is charged with the robbery and rape of Mrs. Helen Holzfein, 28 years old, last Tuesday night in the Ridge avenue elevated station, Evanston.

Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter had transferred the case to Justice Borchardt with the announcement that he had been accused of prejudice. The latter continued the case until Dec. 23 and raised the bond from $10,000 to $25,000.

Attorney McDonnell protested the bond was too high but was overruled. His motion for a change of venue also was denied. "Then we'll waive examination," the attorney said, "and have the case sent directly to the grand jury."

"I'm going to hear the case myself," the justice announced. Attorney McDonnell made such a heated protest that Justice Borchardt ordered two policemen to escort him from the court. Attorney McDonnell said that he would seek a writ of habeas corpus in the Criminal court to have the bond lowered.

FIGHT TAX FOR CONSERVATORY IN GARFIELD PK.

A protest against a new special tax of 3 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation for maintenance of the Garfield park conservatory has been forwarded to President William R. James of the west parks board by Alfred Cowles, president of the Civic federation and bureau of public efficiency.

This levy, Mr. Cowles stated, is being made by the park commissioners for 1931 and 1932. It has never been made before.

"We note no difference in the conservatory now and in previous years, when no special taxation was attempted," the letter stated. "We do not think the present an auspicious time to add an additional museum tax on citizens of the west side."

Mr. Cowles expressed the opinion that the special tax was illegal and urged that the park commissioners rescind it. He asserted that the rate for the conservatory alone was the same as that applied by the south parks board to support the Art institute, Field museum and Shedd aquarium. Also, he pointed out, the west parks system now has a higher pay roll for civil employés than the south parks, which have three times as much area and twice the boulevard mileage.

HESLER, LAKE CO. PIONEER, TO BE BURIED MONDAY

Funeral services for George Hesler, 92 years old, 2380 South Green Bay road, Highland Park, a Lake county pioneer, will be held at 1:30 p. m. on Monday from the residence. Burial will be in the County Line cemetery.

Mr. Hesler, who died at his home on Thursday after a year's illness, came here in 1848 from Germany with his parents. After prospecting for gold in California he returned to Lake county and became a farmer. He served many years as a highway commissioner and school director in East Deerfield township.

Surviving are three sons, John J., James G., and George W. Hesler, 23 grandchildren and 28 great-grandchildren.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 16.—Following a two weeks' court martial Herbert Wilford, 23, son of J. T. Wilford, publisher of the Havana American, was acquitted by a vote of 3 to 2 today of a charge of throwing a bomb into the home of Police Captain Estanilao Mansip last August. The Wilford residence adjoins the Mansip home. Mansip was later killed when a bomb he was examining exploded.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Benjamin H. Cozine, 89, died in his home here today. Many years ago he founded the Jackson Plain Dealer at Jackson, Tenn., and was its editor and publisher for ten years. Later he edited several papers in Kentucky. Among the survivors are two sisters, Mrs. Amelia Conger and Miss Molly Cox, both of Jackson.

ORDERS PAYMENT TO DEPOSITORS IN CLOSED BANK

Circuit Judge Joseph Burke yesterday ordered J. M. Appell, receiver of the closed Hubbard Woods Trust and Savings bank, to pay in full all depositors whose accounts with the bank accounted to $2 or less. The order stated that 273 depositors would be paid. The action was taken to save costs of mailing and bookkeeping. Judge Burke also authorized Norman O. Geyer, receiver for the Second Northwestern State bank, to make a payment of 5 per cent to all depositors. The order will distribute approximately $12,000 among 800 persons.

FILES PETITION TO OUST BANK AS A TRUSTEE

Robert L. Straus, former professor of English at Cincinnati university, filed an intervening petition yesterday before Superior Judge William J. Lindsay, seeking the removal of the First Union Trust and Savings bank as foreclosure trustee of the Bryn Mawr Building corporation, owner of the Edgewater Beach apartments at 5555 Sheridan road. The petition stated that the income from the building amounted to $500,000 from January to August of this year. For operating expenses and attorney's fees $261,000 was expended, the petition states, but none of the remaining funds were distributed to bondholders in dividends.

The petition, which was presented by Attorney David Brill, stated that the original trustee of the corporation was the Foreman Trust and Savings bank. The First Union bank became successor trustee without consent of the bondholders, the petition alleges. It also set forth that Benjamin Marshall, architect, is a director of the building corporation and also of the bank, and is president of the National Realty company, present managers of the building. The building was placed in foreclosure a year ago when installments on the $6,000,000 first mortgage issue were defaulted. Judge Lindsay set Jan. 16 for the hearing of the charges.

QUEEN, LAST OF SOVEREIGNS OF SOUTH SEAS, DIES

PAPEETE, Tahita, Dec. 3.—(AP)—[By Mail.]—The last of the sovereigns of the south seas has passed with the death of Terrimaevarua II., queen of Bora Bora island in the Society group.

She was born in 1871 and succeeded her aunt, Terrimaevarua I., on the latter's death Feb. 12, 1873. Although a child, she reigned as absolute monarch until March 19, 1888, when the island was taken by France. From that time until her death she resided in Tahiti.

The queen was a member of the royal family of Pomare, paramount chiefs of the Society and neighboring islands since the voyage of Capt. James Cook, famous British explorer, in 1768. She died Nov. 19.

14 Pallbearers Needed for 400 Lb. Engineer's Funeral

A scaffold and fourteen pallbearers were required yesterday for the funeral of James O'Grady of 8207 Elizabeth street, who weighed about 400 pounds. He was 39 years old and was a locomotive engineer for the Pennsylvania railroad. To remove the casket containing O'Grady's body from his home a scaffold was constructed beneath a window. Then the regular six pallbearers were assisted by eight neighbors. Burial was at Mount Olivet cemetery.

ENGLAND FIRES LADY SNOWDEN FROM RADIO JOB

"I've Been Axed and Don't Know Why," She Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 16.—Lady Snowden, wife of Viscount Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer in the old Labor government and lord privy seal, who left the national cabinet because he refused to swallow the Ottawa tariff agreements, in her own words, "has been axed" from the board of governors of the British Broadcasting corporation without notice.

The broadcasting corporation is the governmental radio monopoly in Great Britain. Appointment of directors nominally is in the hands of the privy council, subject more or less to the automatic approval of King George.

She Doesn't Know Why.

"Please make it quite clear I have not resigned from the board of governors," Lady Snowden said. "I have been retired. I have been 'axed,' if you like, and I don't know why."

Her successor on the board is Mrs. Mary Hamilton. She is a literary figure, chiefly known for an extremely laudatory biography of the prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald. She wrote under the pen name "Iconoclast." Mrs. Hamilton has also been a Labor member of parliament.

King O. K.'s Appointments.

"I have no reason to assume that Mr. MacDonald was actuated by any other than friendly feeling toward me," the new board member said. "The fact remains it is the prime minister who really authorizes appointments to the board and I suppose also retirements."

Other new appointments to the radio board approved by the king were Ronald Collett Norman, brother of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and Viscount Bridgeman, a former cabinet member. A board member's salary is 750 pounds a year [$3,750 at par].

Engagement of Carroll Slade to K. C. McKeown Announced

Bethrothal of Miss Elizabeth Scaife to Albert J. Beveridge Jr. Also Is Made Known Today.

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO engagement announcements concerning young people who have a wide circle of friends in Chicago are being made this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Slade of Evanston are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Carroll, to Kenneth C. McKeown of Hubbard Woods. Miss Slade has been a popular member of the younger north shore set since her graduation a year ago from the Wheeler school at Providence, R. I. Mr. McKeown attended the University of Michigan.

Word of the second engagement comes from out of town, but the news is of great interest here to friends of the families. Mr. and Mrs. Roger L. Scaife of Milton, Mass., announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Albert J. Beveridge Jr. of Indianapolis and Beverly Farms, Mass. Miss Scaife is a granddaughter of Charles James Sprague. She was graduated from Milton academy and made her debut in Boston in 1928. She is a member of the Junior league and the Vincent club.

Mr. Beveridge is the son of the late Senator Albert J. Beveridge and Mrs. Beveridge. He is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Eddy of Chicago and a great-grandson of Franklin F. Spencer of Chicago. He prepared for college at St. Mark's school and was graduated this year from De Pauw university, his father's college. He is attending Harvard law school at present. With his mother and his sister, Miss Abby Beveridge, he is a frequent visitor to Chicago.

Elizabeth Beale to Be Bride Today.

A wire from New York yesterday informed us that the marriage of Mrs. Elizabeth Caruthers Beale to Aubrey Tealdi will be solemnized quietly this morning at the Church of the Resurrection in New York City. Mrs. Beale, who is the widow of the late William G. Beale, Chicago attorney, who drafted the famous Marshall Field will, is still identified with Chicago society and has many friends here, although for several years she has resided in New York, Bar Harbor, and Aiken.

Mr. Tealdi is a professor of landscape design at the University of Michigan. They are to depart for the south immediately after the ceremony, which will be attended only by members of the families.

Luncheon for Three Debutantes.

Mrs. W. Victor Young and Mrs. Welch Dickinson are to be hostesses today at a luncheon at the Arts club for Miss Mary Young and the Misses Barbara and Caroline Bullard. The party will really be an informal debut for Miss Young, who is to arrive in Chicago this morning from Vassar. Barbara and Caroline Bullard made their bows at a tea in the early fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Medill Patterson are to give a small dinner dance this evening for their debutante daughter, Miss Josephine Patterson, at their apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive.

The Cliff Dwellers will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their club tonight with a party that the entertainment committee has been boasting about for several weeks.

The celebration will be held in the organization's quarters on the top floor of Orchestra hall, and we have every reason to believe that those persons who have been invited will find it a memorable affair. Herbert Hyde is chairman of the entertainment committee.

Mr. and Mrs. George Corson Ellis of Lake Forest are to give a buffet supper tomorrow evening for Miss Laura Thorne, Mrs. Ellis' debutante sister.

Mrs. Offield to Be Hostess.

Mrs. James R. Offield and her daughter, Miss Betty Offield, are to give a debutante luncheon on Monday for Miss Julia Kramer, who was formally introduced to society several weeks ago.

Lake Foresters identified with the work of the Lake Forest Y. W. C. A. are keenly interested in a program to be given at the Y building this afternoon, featuring a play entitled "The Little Shepherd's Gift," and written by Miss Virginia Frost, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Frost of Lake Forest.

The play, consisting of three short acts, is to be presented in costume by the girls of the Y, and those who have attended rehearsals say it is a charming work. Miss Frost is one of the most active members of the Lake Forest Y. W. C. A. committee and is greatly beloved by the girls whom she has assisted. The play is dedicated to the Mother's club of the Y. W. C. A.

Members of the Indian Hill Country club are to hold their annual Christmas "sing" tomorrow at sundown on the lawn bordering the clubhouse. After an hour of singing the old familiar Christmas carols everybody will go inside for tea.

Mrs. Frank E. Tours, who arrived from London last week with her husband, Lieutenant Commander Tours, and their 2 year old son to spend the Christmas holidays with her mother, Mrs. Charles Howard Bealy of Hinsdale, is to remain here for the entire winter. Her husband will leave shortly after New Year's for his new post

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright, 1932, By News Syndicate Co., Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case-book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

CLASS DAY.

"Old 'Mike,' the parrot, gave us the clew to the murder of Miss Spencer," said Prof. Fordney to his class. "She was an eccentric, wealthy old spinster, who lived with Miss Egan, her nurse; Hedges, a man of all work, and Mrs. O'Brien, the cook.

"While Miss Spencer was stone deaf and couldn't hear the bird, she enjoyed watching his antics. She had been confined to her room for a year and 'Mike' was her constant companion.

"The neighborhood was genuinely shocked when on the night of Dec. 5 they learned of the old lady's murder.

"Well, Kelley," I remarked after we'd interviewed Mrs. O'Brien, "we can rule her out—her alibi's perfect." We were conducting the investigations in Miss Spencer's room. "Call the nurse next."

"'I wish that dern parrot would shut up,'" exploded Kelley. "'Miss Egan,'" he remarked in more gentle tones to the girl who entered, "'tell us what happened.'"

"'As Miss Spencer paid all bills in cash she kept a large sum of money in the wall safe. While Hedges was out mailing a letter I had given him the grocer telephoned advising he had received a counterfeit bill when Miss Spencer's account was paid that morning. When Hedges returned I hurried to the store only to find the grocer knew nothing of the phone call. When I got home I found Miss Spencer dead."

Miss Egan was dismissed and as Hedges entered the parrot cried, "'PLEASE DON'T, HEDGES PLEASE DON'T, HEDGES!'" The servant went deathly pale.

NOW, YOU FELLOWS, WHO DID KELLEY ARREST AND WHY? Quickly!

The above story was sent by W. H. Sheridan, Astoria, L. I., for a class day problem.

Perhaps you have one you would like Prof. Fordney to submit to his students. If so, send it to him in care of this paper. He will be delighted to see what they make of it.

[See solution on page 29.]

Lecture on Theater.

Henry Hull of the cast of "Springtime for Henry" will speak on "The Contemporary Theater" at a tea tomorrow afternoon at International house at the University of Chicago.

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

Not very long before a lot more children's toys and youngsters' paraphernalia of all kinds will be coming into the house—and where to put it all! Even the simplest and plainest of playrooms in the basement is a boon, indeed, to an overcrowded house, not to mention the joy it gives the kiddies. For such a little playroom, install a closet—for it is, of all conveniences, the biggest—to house toys and trains and mechanical gee jaws of all kinds. If the basement floor needs covering, a very simple wood floor can be laid in the playroom area. An electric outlet will be needed. And, if possible, a separate door leading outside where the children can come and go at will.

2,000 Attend Silver Screen Ball at Drake

Welcome Good Time at a Moderate Cost.

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

The Silver Screen ball given last night at the Drake by the Association of Arts and Industries proved again how glad people are this year to be entertained and to have a good time without spending a vast amount of money.

There was dancing to splendid music in two ballrooms, a show in which almost all the stage and radio stars in the city and the cleverest amateur in society, Ethel Dixon, took part; supper and accessories that transformed conventional formal evening clothes into interesting, amusing costumes, and all for $5.50 per person.

More than 2,000 persons took advantage of the opportunity to enjoy all that fun. Shortly before midnight several hundred already were having a good time and the entrance was thronged with others anxious to join the merrymakers. The starting hour for balls becomes later and later and unless something is done about getting people to leave their gay dinners early enough to reach the balls before midnight the morning papers may have to stop "covering" them entirely.

The gold coast room and ballroom of the Drake looked entirely different last night with their silver screen decorations, and after the light which Andrew Rebori had installed in the center of the gold coast room started revolving that room changed its appearance every few seconds. There was a continuous cabaret in the ballroom and shortly after midnight the "big show" was staged in the gold coast room.

Masques, hats, canes, capes—several of the girls who had them in their gay colored cellophane packages tied them around their waists instead of around their necks, giving a decidedly festive atmosphere to their garb—mustaches, saxophones, and megaphones comprised the accessories furnished to make the guests into stars of the silver screen. There were hundreds of Garbos, Chaplins, Durantes, Dietrichs, Menjous, Anna May Wongs, Tom Mixes, directors, fans and others of the movie world.

Some of the early arrivals were Mr. and Mrs. William N. Pelouze—the former is president of the association and he said last night he could not estimate the proceeds of the affair—Miss Medora Pelouze, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pynchon, who entertained a large party for her daughter, Miss Edith Atwater, Lady Hastings, Mrs. Townsend McKeever, Howard Whitehouse, Miss Betty Whatley, Miss Caryl Bloomington, Miss Marion Gordon, Miss Julia Kramer, Mrs. Harry Spencer-Brown, Mrs. Edward A. Leicht, Miss Helen Bell, Miss Emily Larned, and Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Christopher, who were with a group of Winnetkans including the Mellen C. Martins, the John Hookers, the Hill Blacketts, and the Warner Robinsons.

Then there were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence T. Selpp, Miss Olga Menn, the consul general of Italy and Mme. Guiseppe Castruccio, Miss Noreen Rebori, Miss Dorothy Lentz, Miss Elizabeth Baum, Miss Nancy Lawton, Andrew Rebori Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Warner Conn, Mrs. William H. Bush, Miss Emeline Bush, Count and Countess Ruggero Visconti, Mr. and Mrs. David Tuber and Mrs. Taber's brother-in-law and sister, the Horace Wetmores, the Fletcher Durbins, Dr. and Mrs. William H. Gale, Aldis Hatch Jr., Talbot Wegg, Mr. and Mrs. Gail Borden, Miss Dorothy Morehead, Miss Katrina Mauff, Mr. and Mrs. Scott J. Dow Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Horatio B. Hackett, Mr. and Mrs. Burt A. Massee, Miss Catharine Noyes, Miss Lillian Dudley, Miss Jeanne Wingfield, and Mr. and Mrs. McClure Kelly.

Announce Finance Plan for Temple to Music on Lake Front

Plans for the financing of the new building for summer music on the site of the Century of Progress were set into active operation yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Friends of Music in the foyer of Orchestra hall. Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank presided, stating that the money would be raised through individual dollar subscriptions, though gifts of a larger amount would be accepted gladly.

Frederick Stock, the principal speaker, announced that the Chicago Symphony orchestra had held a meeting a few hours before and had agreed to subscribe to the extent of $1,000. Mrs. Archibald Freer contributed $100 and the Society of American Opera $50, both as memorials to the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick. It is planned to make an intensive campaign with the intention of raising the $100,000 needed by Feb. 1.

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Hiram White sails his four-masted ship, the Abigail White, in search of a ship filled with pearl oysters, sunk by a French captain before the world war in a lagoon in a South Sea island. Arielle Mordecai, the French captain's granddaughter, has brought him complete instructions for finding the ship. Arielle is accompanied by an English woman of title known as Ladybird. In his crew are Adam Eden, an unemployed engineer; Roberta Millbank, and Peter Cavan. Roberta's father died after his bank failed and Peter was his trusted employe. Benby, a cook, hires up for his keep. Henery Sheppard, backer of the venture, fills the boat with a cargo of his own choosing, including a lot of used cars and launches, and plans to stop at certain ports to trade cargoes. One owner of an unused car sends his French chauffeur, Raoul, along. Ladybird, who is a naval officer's daughter, is made mate. The ship is seized by four stowaways on the high seas. A warning comes in over the radio about four bank robbers being at large and the captain realizes he and his crew are in their hands. After several days the bandits are overpowered and set adrift. The ship reaches Cape Town, where Henery's cargo is traded, through Peter Muller, a banker friend of Roberta's father, at a large profit. Their next destination is Sydney, Australia.

INSTALLMENT XXIV.

MONEY GREED.

Capt. Hiram said briefly: "Mates, it seems our stowaways brought their plunder aboard. Peter and Roberta have just found it. I was wrong in not trying to find out from Cape Town what bank it was they robbed and killed the watchman. Wanted to forget all that and to keep out of it."

He paused and Ladybird asked eagerly, "How much is there?"

"We don't know. Except that it is money. Peter brought it straight to me. I haven't so much as looked at it. What's more," he added slowly, "we're not going to look at it."

"What?" cried Ladybird.

Again Peter caught the avid glare in her blue gray eyes. That, he perceived, would be Ladybird's obsession—avarice—and he feared a strain of unscrupulousness when it came to that canker that is money greed. She was capable, efficient, harder on herself when it came to work than she would be on any other. Her courage was proven to be of the highest order physically. Nothing could daunt her but money.

Capt. Hiram went on in the same brief inexorable tone they had heard when he had ordered the bandits over the side: "We are not going to touch this stuff. Not so much as take it out to examine it. I am going to tie it up and seal it in the presence of all of you here. Peter can draw up a statement that shall be signed by all of us."

Ladybird burst out, "But we don't know what bank it was stolen from. If we examine it we can probably find out that much."

"We don't need to find it out. This sealed package is to be sent to the U. S. treasury department through the United States consul at Sydney."

"Captain," said Ladybird in a hard voice, "we don't even know that this particular money was stolen from any bank. We have no proof that it was really these men who robbed the bank. Smith claimed to be a rum runner, Captain, and he showed that he was a sailor."

"He gave us proof enough that he and his crowd turned bank robbers, too."

"But they might have hidden whatever they got from that job somewhere ashore," she protested. "For all we know this may be rum money and that is a catch-as-catch-can game. If so, why haven't we as much right to it as anybody else."

Before he could answer Capt. Hiram said, "Never mind what Peter thinks. It's what I say."

"But remember how badly we need just what's here." Ladybird's voice was frantic. "Besides, we'd be fools not to have a check on what we hand over."

"My seals will be check enough. The rest is up to the federal authorities."

If Peter or any of the others present thought that Ladybird had a certain amount of reason on her side they did not venture to make such a statement.

"Adam, go get me some small stuff out of the bosun's chest. Something to parcel these brief cases."

Adam went silently out. "Sit down here, Peter," said the captain, "and write this statement. Make it brief. To the effect that we were seized by four stowaways on the high seas and managed eight days later to get the upper hand and set them adrift in a proper boat with all due necessities. Then state how you found the money, and the action taken."

Peter prepared the statement. The captain and after him the others affixed their signatures in silence.

By the time this was done Capt. Hiram had securely parceled the brief cases and sealed them, using Ladybird's heavy ring that was deeply engraved with the arms of her family, whatever that family might be. She had never told them.

Peter examined the motto. He remembered his Latin enough to translate it. But he kept the knowledge to himself. It seemed a cruel irony that this treasure so badly needed for the carrying on of their venture should be sealed by the family motto of the only partner who had opposed the captain's rigid uncompromising honesty. And that this translation should read, "Honor before all."

Their cargo was discharged. Roberta gathered that the voyage had fully realized their expectations. The captain, Henery, and Peter, whose services or business help were indispensable, seemed tremendously busy.

The schooner was assigned a berth in the magnificent bay, which is entered between the Heads and expands into twelve hundred miles of impressive shore line.

A courteous and well dressed Japanese gentleman came aboard and there were long consultations in the captain's cabin.

That night the captain called a conference of the whole ship's company. Even Benny was included. In actual seafaring experience the grizzled old cook ranked senior to them all.

"We've got another break," said Capt. Hiram. "This time it's a chance to make some real money."

"If we connect," amended Henery.

"There's always that if, old dear," said Ladybird.

"I've been digging into the ship's war chest to pay some radios and cables," said the captain, "but the answers are O. K. Muller and his company will back the venture with their interest. Japan has started something with China and the old Dragon is sitting back and blinking. The powers don't seem to know just what to do. Japan needs quite a lot of stuff that's all warehoused here ready for shipment. She can get a better price and quicker delivery. Her commercial agent will guarantee the price spot cash if we get the goods to Yokahama by the first of February. It's a long haul, 4,375 miles from Sydney via Guam on the steamer track. The prevailing winds are northeasterly, and hard. But the Abigail is a good sailer and by getting well off to windward we ought to make good enough weather of it close hauled. Anyhow, that course takes us clear of all the storm tracks at this season."

Ladybird voiced the unanimous sentiment of the conference. "Nuff said, Skipper.—Let's carry on."

Directions for Artichoke Salad Given.

BY MARY MEADE.

Here are a few of the many questions which have come in this week—ones which seem best adapted to our question clinic.

First a query from Mrs. E. J. F.: "Will you please suggest some ways of fixing artichoke hearts [which now come in cans] so they can be served as a vegetable or a salad?"

How about an artichoke tomato salad? Mrs. F. means, by the way, the part of the globe artichoke called the "bottom" or, in French, the "fond." This particular salad calls for three artichoke bottoms sliced in half cross wise and marinated for an hour in a little French dressing. At the same time have six even slices of tomatoes also standing in French dressing. Just before serving set up the salad in this wise. Start with a curly leaf of lettuce for the plate garnish. On this place a slice of tomato, then a slice of artichoke, and on top a slice of hard cooked egg. If desired crisp escarole or water cress may be substituted for the lettuce.

A similar but more simple salad yet may be made by letting artichoke bottoms stand in a spicy paprika dressing until well flavored and then serving them on lettuce hearts—one to each diner—with a garnish of green pepper curls.

Artichoke bottoms are also delicious served hot as a vegetable. Merely offer drawn butter or Hollandaise sauce as an accompaniment.

Next from Mrs. L. G.: "Can wheat cereal be used otherwise than as a cereal—in bread or perhaps muffins?"

Both cooked and uncooked cereals of various kinds can be made into many scores of delicious dishes, cookies and bread stuffs. Three-fourths cup of cooked cereal plus an additional egg may be added to a regular muffin recipe. Or here is another suggestion as a starter. I am sending you several more with that stamp you sent me.

CEREAL ROAST.

2 cups cooked rolled oats or other cooked whole grain cereal.
3 well beaten eggs.
¼ cup melted butter.
1½ cups milk.
1 cup finely chopped nut meats.
1½ tablespoons minced onion.
1½ cups diced celery.
1 teaspoon salt.

Blend all the ingredients and add the milk until a moist packable mixture has been obtained. Turn into a greased pan and let stand half an hour. Then bake in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees F.] another half hour. Serve with tomato sauce.

Question No. 3 comes from Mrs. H. S., who writes: "They always say that spinach fondue should be baked by putting it into another pan of hot water. Why is this? Could it be baked without?"

No, this is the proper method. Eggs, you see, are temperamental and the direct heat from the bottom of the oven is likely to cook the outside of the fondue too quickly, lessen the volume, and hurt the fluffiness. The water helps to equalize the heat.

Next a question from Mrs. A. R. F.: "Just what is the correct method of making oyster soup? I put the oysters in cold milk and heat very slowly for about twenty minutes but never let it boil. Is this correct?"

That is one way. I have found better success, however, in heating the oysters carefully in their own strained juice until the edges curl, and then adding them with the seasoning to the barely scalded milk. You are right in keeping the soup just under boiling.

Also from Mrs. F. a question on beef. She asks, "Will adding a cup of hot water to a beef roast after it has cooked one hour make it tough and dry? I use an iron self basting pan. I added the water and potatoes and cooked one hour longer."

In the first place, roasts should not be covered. First simply rub the piece with flour, salt, and pepper and heat in a very hot oven for half an hour. Then reduce the heat to 250 degrees F. [a slow oven] and roast uncovered until rare, medium or well done. Potatoes may be added forty-five minutes before the meat is done. A little additional fat and a little hot water may be added at the same time. There is no advantage in adding cold water, though it would probably not cause the drying you mention.

Pat O'Malley Builds House for Daughters

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—With a name like Pat O'Malley, a man ought to be an artist with bricks. At least, that's what Pat O'Malley, the actor, decided. So he built a brick playhouse and recreation room for the three O'Malley daughters, a structure that can double for garage, gymnasium, or any similar purpose, and after it was all done, Pat had spent only $7.80. Some of the brick bats came from the rear yard of Blessed Sacrament church on Hollywood boulevard, where some thought fewer boys would have lumpy heads if the ammunition were cleared away. Some from a contractor's dump up one of the Hollywood canyons, and others from studios where Pat knew the wrecking gangs intimately. "I never knew I was a bricklayer until I got started," Pat said, "and then it came to me naturally, like acting."

Cliff McLaglen, one of the younger of the seven six foot McLaglen brothers, has left for Germany to launch his screen career anew on that side. He played a number of subordinate parts here, and cooperated with his big brother, Victor, on some of the latter's business enterprises.

"To bad I'm such a little fellow," was the sentiment of George A. Arthur, pint size comedian, as he successfully pushed his court complaint against Thomas Beyrle, a taller, and huffier antagonist, for poking him in the eye in a traffic altercation. A municipal judge fined Beyrle $10. "If I had been bigger he might have been fined $125," Arthur said.

Everyone in Hollywood was saddened yesterday by the death of Daphne Marquette, writer on movie affairs, and one of the best known and best liked women in the film colony. Miss Marquette was president of the Screen Women's Press club and for four years from the end of the war acted as a confidential agent for American military intelligence in the Hague, Berlin, and Madrid. She was president of the Screen Women's Press club at the time of her death. She died of pneumonia four days after contracting the flu. Her husband, William D. Mann, attorney for film people, also is seriously ill with the flu.

Seven feet of snow caused Wally Beery to turn the prow of his plane right around and fly back to Hollywood when he attempted to land it near his cabin at June lake in the high Sierras yesterday.

WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Barbara Childs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Childs of Hinsdale, to Warren Tilden Stanford will be solemnized at 8:30 o'clock this evening at the Childs residence in Hinsdale. The bride's attendants will include Mrs. George J. Brown, matron of honor, and Miss Deborah Childs, Miss Katherine Shernacker of Madison, Wis.; Miss Katherine Mench of Hinsdale, and Miss Helen Mueller of Portage, Wis., bridesmaids. Roland Stanford will serve as best man for his brother and John Bailey of Princeton, Mass., and Dr. Evan Barton will usher. After a wedding trip Mr. Stanford and his bride will reside at 2600 Lake View avenue.

Betty Brawley Makes Debut

Ivory Lace

Miss Betty Brawley wore an ivory lace gown trimmed with iridescent sequins at the presentation tea which her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Frank M. Brawley, gave for her yesterday afternoon at their residence at 1448 Lake Shore drive. Mrs. Brawley was gowned in brown lace, and the debutante's sister, Mrs. Harold Walker Lewis, who assisted in the receiving line, wore a casino red crêpe frock with ermine trimming and held an old fashioned bouquet of sweet peas and gardenias. Miss Brawley held an arm bouquet of yellow roses.

Good Morning!

How our authors ARE digging into the files of the newspapers for material these days! And what a smart thing it is for them to do!

Truth being strange lends itself readily to fictionization. "The Match King," adapted from the novel by Einar Thorvaldson, is an engrossing fictional presentation of the life of the late Ivar Kreuger.

"He began in the gutter. He rose to fame and wealth. He ended in the gutter."

So says one of the characters at the end of the picture—and those lines, in brief, spell the whirlwind career of the story's hero.

Paul Kroll is a street sweeper in Chicago. While sweeping he conceives a bright idea which he passes along to the right party. It works. Not so long afterward, via thefts and betrayal of those who trust him he is enabled to return to Sweden where his uncle owns a small match factory that is in dire straits for need of cash . . . Kroll is shortly on his way to the monopoly of the match business in Sweden, Poland, Germany. His brain is never idle and his conscience never busy.

He is not above doing anything that will advance his interests. He builds a huge, temporary fortune by borrowing from one to pay another; by forgery, by blackmail; by murder. He is loved by many women who become his dupes. He cares for only one—and she . . . never mind. . .The lusciously Lili Damita plays this indifferent and much desired siren with understanding and good taste.

One day the hand starts writing on the wall. An old inventor makes an "everlasting match." Kroll, in whom, for the first time, you sense panic, strikes swiftly and poisonously, as is his wont. Then, harassed, and boiling over with unsavory plans, he sails for America. Here again he meets his love—now a successful cinema star—and finds what he finds.

Forged bonds, for which he killed, and on which he makes an enormous loan, are directly responsible for the final fall of the trick financial giant.

Warren William is the perfect article as Paul Kroll. He is such an aware actor! So responsive always to the demand of the rôle he plays! He makes "The Match King" an entirely credible and a completely, repellantly fascinating person. He's expressive from his head to his toes.

Note the scene toward the end where the man changes in a split second from a dominant human into a shrunken, weak-kneed, panic stricken one. His very face caves in, and his eyes appear to recede into their sockets, as the ghosts of his evil past swarm forward to accuse him.

This photoplay was intensely interesting to me from start to finish. It has been intelligently directed. Dialogue, photography and supporting players please. The pieces all fit and the result is a vivid, arresting and symmetrical pattern.

See you tomorrow.

Gift to Museum.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 16.—(AP)—A valuable collection of butterflies and moths assembled by Dr. William J. Holland, director emeritus of Carnegie museum, who died this week, was bequeathed to the museum.

Here Are Last Minute Ideas for Gift Buyer

BY RHEA SEEGER.

YEAR after year the frantic last week of shopping swings around with a lot of hardy shoppers looking for new and different last minute ideas of what to buy . . . after extensive research the following brilliant finds are now offered for general circulation:

Are you hunting for some sparkling new gloves . . . there are some gold, silver and white star-dust affairs for very festive evening gowns. They are long and made of a knitted mesh material, they sparkle by day, but they are glittering spangled beauties by night . . . other new gloves for swagger street and sports wear are made of dark brown suede on the outer side and contrasted with very supple beige pigskin on the inside—a new half and half get-together that is stunning. A darker brown contrast is supplied with the hand sewed seams.

Delightful copies of romantic, old fashioned, dul gold jewelry are tremendously effective with the puffed sleeved frocks and gowns of the season . . . these lovely copies have all the old twisted motifs, the carvings, the rosebuds and the tiny beaded edgings that your grandmother was thrilled over.

You can buy old fashioned fat lockets of tuscan gold, with two spaces for small photographs. You can buy gold and black lockets with frames of seed pearls and you can buy brooches and old time breast pins that are complete knockouts and the prices are very modest indeed.

Bracelets, earrings, pins, and clips, all replicas of bygone finery, are now available in the smartest shops.

Some Unusual Afternoon Bags.

One shop has some very unusual afternoon bags, pouchlike affairs for soft velvet dresses . . . one puffed model is fashioned of amazingly supple, warm brown suede and has a frame and clasp made of seed-size coral beads . . . another with gunmetal pearled frame against black velvet or suede. The same shop is showing two unusually good looking sports bracelets made of shining chromium open squares contrasted with coral pink and powder blue half circles.

This is the year you can buy culture pearls for phenomenally low prices, a breath taking, lustrous necklace or earrings, or a ring, each a flawless globe of beauty. These culture pearls are as desirable as any fabulous deep sea pearls, even though they are contrived and connived by man and a mutinous oyster.

Bargain Time for Fur Buyers.

If you are going to plunge, not recklessly but wisely and effectively, you couldn't ask for a better season to invest in furs . . . look for the bargains and values in muff and collar sets . . . you can find sleek Persian lamb capes and matching muff . . . exquisitely designed mink duets with fashionable flat and ruffled edged muff . . . swanky leopardskin sets, and other short sports furs, all with delightfully reasonable price tags.

For the male and female lounge lizards on your well thumbed list we suggest some of the newer lounging robes . . . for the particular male you will cheer loudly about the well-tailored flannel robes with a faint Chinese accent . . . these can be found in all good, solid, very decided colors, red, green, blue (in two shades), black, and brown. The Chinese influence is taken on the back, where a ferocious dragon of contrasting color tries frantically to bite his own tail.

The gala will wear them if they are left in sight, but the snappy velveteen robes or dressing gowns ought to take first honors. Feminine velveteen creations have bound collars, pockets, and cuffs and a wide, winding sash and some have monogrammed pockets.

Carroll Slade Is Engaged to K. C. McKeown

Miss Scaife to Be Bride of A. J. Beveridge.

with the British navy at Hongkong, China.

Miss Balmer Is Engaged.

An interesting announcement to be made in New York tomorrow is the engagement of Miss Caroline Balmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Balmer of Sunnyside lane, Irvington-on-Hudson, N. Y., to Joseph Smith Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Willard Thomas of Quincy, Mass. The Balmers were Chicagoans and Evanstonians until they moved east several years ago and Mr. Balmer is well known throughout the country for his writings.

Miss Balmer was graduated from the Roycemore school in Evanston before entering the French school at Middlebury college in Vermont, where she specialized in French languages and literature. Later she spent a year of her college course at the Sorbonne in Paris. After finishing her course at Middlebury she did graduate work in French at Columbia and then returned to the Sorbonne and completed her graduate work there last June.

Mr. Thomas is a graduate of Bowdoin college and is now completing a course in chemistry in the Harvard graduate school.

The Wellesley club will hold its annual Christmas party this afternoon at 50 East Huron street. Mrs. William Sherman Hay, Mrs. Raymond Koch, and Mrs. Wallace Flower, who play the violin, piano, and cello respectively, are to give a program.

The Alliance Francaise will meet at noon today to hear a lecture on "The Treaties Among the Books," by Prof. Henri David of the University of Chicago.

Society Helps Benefit Circus.

Most of the boxholders to last night's performance of the old time Yankee circus at the Stadium were going to the Silver Screen ball, too, and instead of having an early dinner and seeing the circus and then going on to the ball they gave their tickets away for the circus and confined their evening's entertainment to dinner and the ball.

But that really helped the circus which is being staged by the women's division of the Salvation Army for the benefit of the Emergency Welfare fnud, for all those who missed last night's show will be at one of today's—it was given twice yesterday and will be given again this afternoon and tonight.

The matinée today will be when the youngsters will be there. There were several boxes occupied by young people last night, not ones as young as those who will be there this afternoon, but young ones just the same.

Miss Jane Valentine, Miss Rosamond Baker, Miss Betty Brown, Miss Theodora Shaw, Stanley Fetcher, Gerald Gibbs, Charles Y. Freeman Jr., and Joseph C. Belden Jr. were in one party, and near them sat Miss Alice May Dickinson, Miss Louise Neff, Miss Janet Ayer, Talcott Griswold, William Collins, and James Bateman Jr.

Miss Ethel Dixon, who later entertained the guests at the ball with her inimitable dancing and singing, was one of the girls selling flowers at the circus, some of her coworkers being the Princess Rostislav, Miss Letitia Channon, Mrs. S. Louis Rainhardt Jr., Miss Eleanor Litsinger, Miss Suzanne Morris, Miss Kathryn Evans, Miss Peggy Glidden, Mrs. Malcoln McAdoo, and Mrs. Leslie Olmsted.

Girl Tells Fib to Boy Friend, Then Retracts

BY DORIS BLAKE.

First, she told her sweetheart that she was out that night with some one else. He had a date himself and she was just trying to show off that her evening would not be a long drawn out one either.

Well, that was all right if she'd stuck to her story. But not being a practised liar, she up and confessed that she was home alone the evening under discussion and it was lonesome, too. Instead of taking this for what it was worth in flattery, sweetheart believed the first story. And he won't be convinced to the contrary.

It seems his date was a dud so far as a good time was concerned. Which may have something to do with his visions of a rip-roaring good time being had by his girl. Anyway the romance is in a wobbly state at the moment. There was a fight. Each is in his and her own corner at the moment, nursing sore feelings. The girl, with comic feminine inconsistency, demands that her word be believed or she'll have nothing to do with the B. F. This after trying to make him swallow a whopper!

Lies are just something that never should be trafficed in unless one is skilled in the art. Even then we're not recommending them as assets of value. But there are occasions when "another engagement" may serve a useful purpose in affairs of the heart. Only we recommend no details offered with it. Let it be another engagement, and no explanations. The audience may believe what he chooses. In this way you save your face and perhaps the beau, too, if you don't attempt to explain.

One of the Ways to Beauty

Lie on the floor, face down. Raise the arms and legs and stretch from finger tip to toe tip. Don't overdo on this at first.

Couturier Gives Checked Details to Utility Frock

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Sports and practical styles seen around Paris suggest a checkered future for fashions of this sort. Schiaparelli's checkered wool sports jackets that are worn over plain sports frocks are seen mornings in the Bois, decorating the smartest backs in the French capital.

Chanel's adorable checkered velveteen suits are favorite costumes for distinguished women. Scarfs of checkered wool, wound round and round like Davy Crockett used to wear his, are the last word in chic with the sports coat of fur.

Marcel Rochas adds a personal kind of chic to lots of his plain wool dresses by giving them details of checkered wool. The Rochas checkered sports gloves are celebrated parts of the sports fashions of midwinter. The dress, shown in our sketch today, is a Rochas sports model with a complete outfit of checkered wool accessories. Incidentally it offers a capital idea for giving new life to any simple practical outfit you may have on hand.

The dress is made of dark blue djalap, the Rodier material that has rabbit fur in its weave and is incredibly soft and beautiful. It is a simple, fitted dress with a two gore skirt and long sleeves with cuffs at the elbows. The childish turnover collar is made of blue and beige checked wool, and the bertha, which gives the wide shoulder line, is of the same stuff, held together in front by two big gold safety pins. The gloves also are made of the checkered wool.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover this afternoon received the new Bolivian minister and Señora de Finot in the blue parlor. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Heinz of Pittsburgh and Mr. and Mrs. Will Irwin, who were overnight guests at the White House, returned to their homes today.

Vice President Curtis and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gann, were entertained at dinner tonight by the secretary of commerce and Mrs. Roy D. Chapin, who had among other guests the secretary of war and Mrs. Hurley, the Hungarian minister and Countess Szechenyi, and the Canadian minister and Mrs. Herridge.

Wake Up Your Muscles by Stretching 'Em

They'll Respond Quickly to Exercises.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday we had you raising only the upper part of the body off the floor. Today, try lifting both arms and legs off and giving a long pull on the muscles. Better begin again simply lying face down, hands stretched forward and toes stretched down.

Stretch the finger tips as far forward on the carpet as you can make them go, toes down as far as they'll go. Then relax. Repeat. Relax. Take your time between these movements. There's no hurry. The stretching is what does the work.

Now then, raise the arms off the floor and the legs, too, and stretch. Of course you feel a pull on the waist muscles, on the leg ones; on all the muscles, in fact. You may feel an inch longer. All of which is what you are expected to feel. And all of which is going to make you pull yourself up taller when you get back on your feet.

Don't overdo this exercise to the tired point. If you think it is too much for you just now, leave it alone and confine yourself to the flat floor stretching. You can take this up later. But give it a trial. You may find with all the other stretching you've been doing all week that it comes easy, that your muscles are being shaken out of their lethargy, that you're ever so much more supple! That it's easy to do.

We don't expect miracles to happen in a week! We don't expect any appreciable reduction in inches in a week's time. But I'll wager that if you've been doing the stretching work daily, you already feel less crowded around the waistline, under the arms, and in other spots. You might get out the tape measure today and see if there is any change, just for fun.

One thing will have happened—you'll be in a more receptive mood, muscularly, for the better posture suggestions due next week. You'll fall into them easier after the week's stretching work.

You understand that there is a new reducing trend, don't you? That yesterday's good figure, good as it was made with diet, does not quite conform to today's ideal unless it has been made lithe, flexible, and agile with exercise?

Three Exhibits Get Attention of Art Critic

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Three exhibitions of interest have just opened. Possibly the most important is that of bird paintings by Karl Plath in the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street. Mr. Plath has developed a new manner of handling backgrounds for his picturesque feathered subjects which enhances their beauty many times. The background of "Silver Pheasants" illustrates well the neutral yet attractive setting he has devised.

It is to be doubted whether any painter knows more about his subject than does Karl Plath. Mr. Plath keeps an aviary of tropical birds, and he knows them thoroughly, not only their coloring and form but their characters and personalities. Birds are as individual as are children, and the artist lets nothing of their humor, their intelligence, and their various other qualities escape him.

The "Pink Cockatoo" is still the wisest and most amusing of the group, in addition to his decorative qualities. But none of the others should be overlooked. Great beauty of plumage [exquisitely handled], alertness of pose, balance of composition, and, above all, always a justified flair for their decorative possibilities are found in these paintings.

Marguerite Kirmse is showing in the Carson Pirie Scott galleries her new series of six dog etchings. She tries cocker spaniels and shows a jolly winter scene, with three of the dogs enjoying the drifts. Her Scotties are, however, better than her cockers. The "A Family Affair" is fascinating—mother and five pups take the air.

The All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts is sponsoring the exhibit of pastels by Leo E. Ruckle in the Florentine parlor, Congress hotel. Mr. Ruckle is, I understand, a member of the Chicago Symphony. His pastels have great charm. In particular the still-life compositions are of value. They are beautifully handled.

Pattern Combines Sophisticated and Demure Features

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This nun's type dress is enjoying much popularity, and the original model was unusually smart made of one of the rough black crêpes combined with strawberry red. The wide belt was of patent leather.

The pattern, No. 3224, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material with 1⅝ yards of 35 inch contrasting.

THE STAGE

The Garrick theater, which has not been used as a "legitimate" playhouse for more than a year, will reopen Christmas day under the management of Raymond H. West, who has taken over the lease. He will offer as his first attraction a comedy called "The Family Upstairs," by Harry Delf, with Thomas W. Ross as its star. Others in the cast will be Helen Carew, Leonard Doyle, Elsa Ryan, Gilbert Morgan, Eileen O'Day, Florence Ross, and Celia Law.

Mr. West has been for many years the treasurer of the Adelphi theater.

After the three weeks' engagement of "The Good Earth" under the auspices of the Theater Guild, which begins Dec. 26, the Erlanger theater will offer Cecil De Mille's cinema spectacle play, "The Sign of the Cross." Exhibitions of this film will begin Jan. 15.

INTERSECTIONAL GAMES END GRID PROGRAM TODAY

Georgia Tech Eleven Meets California.

Coast vs. South

Three intersectional games between southern and Pacific coast elevens today will conclude the regular 1932 football season. Georgia Tech will meet the University of California at Berkeley, Cal.; Louisiana State university and the University of Oregon will battle at Baton Rouge, La., and the University of California at Los Angeles will invade Gainesville, Fla., for a meeting with the University of Florida.

Berkeley, Cal., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Georgia Tech and the University of California will meet here tomorrow with no championship standing to worry about, but keyed up over an intersectional football rivalry that began four years ago in Pasadena.

Four years ago the Bears lost to the Engineers in the tournament of roses game, best remembered by the 75 yard reverse run by Roy Riegels, California center. Last year at Atlanta Georgia Tech fell to pieces, 13-6, before a highly geared California eleven.

Bears Have Better Record.

The Bears this season won six games, lost three, and tied two. Georgia Tech brings a standing of four wins, four losses, and one tie to the west coast.

The Bears are overwhelming favorites in the eyes of local fans, but Coach Bill Ingram has warned all to "watch out for those tricky southerners."

Coach Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech welcomed the role of under dog. "This isn't the strongest team we have had," he said, "but it has as much fight per square inch as any I've coached."

Rain started falling today with prospects of a wet field tomorrow.

Bears to Have 2 Teams.

The Bears will have the advantage in weight, both on the line and in the back field. They also have a two unit system, with a complete eleven starting and retiring in favor of a second team some time during the first half.

Starting lineups:

GEORGIA TECH.		CALIFORNIA.
A. Williams	L. E.	Jones
Tharpe	L. T.	Ransome
Lackey	L. G.	Carlson
Nesbett [C.]	C.	Baldwin
Lawe	R. G.	S. Gill
C. Williams	R. T.	Tozer [C.]
Goldsmith	R. E.	C. Gill
Dean	Q. B.	Verdueed
Hart	L. H.	Schaldach
Phillips	R. H.	Castro
Galloway	F. B.	Quisling

L. S. U. MEETS OREGON

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 16.—(AP)—All the football speed, deception, and determination Louisiana State university's undefeated Southern conference team can muster will be matched tomorrow against the University of Oregon's driving power and weight in a cold, wet intersectional game on a soggy field.

Tonight found the Oregonians, on a far flung invasion of the south, favored to win by virtue of a weight advantage of about 10 pounds to the man, a factor calculated to swing the scales decidedly in their favor in the certain wet going.

Both teams wound up game preparations today, with Oregon receiving final instructions from Coach Callison in New Orleans before taking a late day train to complete the remaining 99 miles of their trip to Baton Rouge, and Louisiana State winding up practice with final orders from Coach Biff Jones.

U. C. L. A. INVADES FLORIDA

Gainesville, Fla., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Florida's sophomore eleven, seeking to climax a disastrous season with an intersectional triumph over a representative of the far west, faces University of California at Los Angeles here tomorrow.

In point of distance this battle brings together the most widely separated teams enjoying intersectional gridiron relations this year, and also marks the first time a California squad has played on Florida soil.

The Californians, who detrained here this morning and went through a short drill, were looked upon as favorites to repeat their decision of a year ago over the Alligators. Florida slightly outweighs the visitors in the line, but the visitors hold a large advantage in the back field.

Fight Decisions

At Rochester, N. Y.—Steve Halaiko stopped Frankie Petrolle [6]; Bucky Lawless and Tony Smith drew [10].

BEARS, SPARTANS FIND STADIUM PERFECT AS GRID

Why Not Dodge Snow and Ice Tomorrow?

It's no secret, of course, but the Bears and Spartans are unanimous in their approval of the decision which brings the game for the professional football championship to the stadium tomorrow night. While the players were willing to do their stuff on snow or ice, they have more zest for the battle in the indoor arena. Then, too, there's no danger of the game being secret practice and that's just what might have happened at Wrigley field.

The Stadium gridiron lacks 20 yards in length and several feet in width in comparison to regulation measurements, but there is sufficient height so that the kickers can cut loose. The 80 yards is more than enough, however, for the passers and runners to operate.

A Break for Doehring.

Bringing the title battle indoors not only is a break for the customers, but it will help the Bears' passing attack, which centers around John Doehring. Doehring's phenomenal passes are made by gripping the ball. In a game such as last Sunday's the only pass that could be thrown was one by which the ball was laid loosely on the hand. This accounted for Doehring's inability to control the ball. Doehring will be a threat, particularly with such pass receivers as Grange, Molesworth, Hewitt and Johnson.

The indoor game also will help the lighter Portsmouth line, for on a slow field the heavier Bear forwards would have had an advantage.

Tomorrow's game will be the first regular league contest held indoors. Two years ago the Bears and Cardinals played at the Stadium in a charity contest which did not figure in the league standings. That game was marred by an attempt to move the ball back 20 yards each time the ball passed over. By this method the length of the gridiron theoretically became 100 yards, but the innovation resulted only in confusion to the spectators. Tomorrow night the game will be played without any change in location.

Spartans Miss Clark.

With the exception of Dutch Clark, Portsmouth's regular quarter back, the Spartan lineup will be the same as that which faced the Bears in the game at Portsmouth, which ended in a 7 to 7 tie. Ace Gutowski will replace Clark at quarter back. Heretofore Gutowski has substituted for John Cavosie at half back. Father Lumpkin, the best defensive back on the Spartan squad, will be at full back and Glenn Presnell at left half. Presnell is the key to the Spartan attack.

Randolph will start at center. McKalip and Ebding are the ends; Davis and Emerson the tackles, while Bedenger and Christenson are the guards. The Spartans worked out yesterday at Mills stadium. They will take a final brief outdoor drill today.

Coach Ralph Jones has announced that the team which opened the game against Green Bay last Sunday is his choice to start tomorrow night. All the players are in condition and their practice in zero weather at Wrigley field has served only to make them appreciate the advantages of the indoor game.

President Carr Arrives.

Joe Carr, president of the National league, arrived in Chicago yesterday. He will confer with Coach Potsy Clark of Portsmouth and Coach Jones to complete preparations for the title game.

The Stadium will seat approximately 15,000, with all seats cleared from the main floor. The opening kickoff is scheduled for 8:15 o'clock.

Cooper Ties for Golf Lead at Pasadena

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Three of golf's veterans and a youngster ravaged par to take the lead after the first 18 holes of the Pasadena $4,000 open tourney today. Each had scores of 68.

Leo Diegel of Agua Caliente, Mexico, former National P. G. A. champion; Harry Cooper of Chicago, defending title holder, and Fred Morrison of Pasadena, Agua Caliente open winner of last January, were forced to make way for little Dick Metz of Deal, N. J., in a round of play which saw par shattered half a dozen times out of the field of 171 starters. Half a dozen others equaled perfect figures of 71.

In the case of the leading veteran threesome it was a matter of expert approaches but rather casual putting. Metz, on the other hand, sank long putts to gain a tie.

One stroke behind the leaders was Craig Wood, Mets' employer at Deal, N. J. Wood, fresh from his victory in the San Francisco open, finished with a 69, while Willie Hunter of Los Angeles, former British amateur champion, came in with a 70 for sixth place, two strokes back.

Olin Dutra of Santa Monica, present National P. G. A. champion, was suffering from a cold and had trouble with his putter, but finished in even par for 71, along with five others, including Frank Walsh of Chicago, from whom he won the professional title in the last round. Leading scores:

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Allow me to present a few excerpts from the Chicago Woman's News, Feb. 6, 1892, concerning the then coming World's Fair of 1893:

Four thousand men are at work on the Fair buildings at the Fair grounds.

Mrs. Potter Palmer has completed an estimate of the amount of money she will need from congress to carry on the work of the board of lady managers during the next fiscal year, beginning July 1. The figures reach nearly twice the sum appropriated last year.

The World's Fair is to have a post-office large enough to supply hourly mails to 150,000 exhibitors, and the force to manage it will be as large as that of the Milwaukee postoffice.

Miss Emma Sickles, special World's Fair commissioner to the Indian agencies of Dakota, reports to the woman's committee of the World's Congress auxiliary that she has secured the enthusiastic cooperation of the Sioux Indians, who promised to give accounts of their history, legends, etc., and to sing their native songs.

C. W. Hinman.

Back in old Brown school days we kids made our playground at Union park, testing the ice in winter to see if it was strong enough for skating. As a result we got ice cold duckings without number and not infrequently Shaw, the caretaker, fished us out of the water with a pike pole. Then he took us to his little hut, where we took off our wet clothes and hung them around the barrel stove to dry. He often gave the small boys hot coffee and sometimes he took larger ones behind a screen where perhaps it wasn't coffee that was served to keep them from taking cold.

C. H. MacAulay

Intercollegiate football was first played at Lake Forest college in 1888. That year the Foresters defeated Northwestern university, 18-4, and Racine college, 32-0. There also is record of a game: Harvard, 22; Lake Forest, 6. Just what Harvard it was or the circumstances I am unable to state. Perhaps some former alumnus can tell you.

In the 44 years since, 54 different teams have played, including such major opponents as Northwestern, Chicago, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Notre Dame, Nebraska, Purdue, Marquette, Indiana, and Michigan State. Lake Forest now confines its schedule largely to colleges of about its own size. 1932.

JOE TRINER NEW HEAD OF BOXING BOARD, REPORT

Stadium Executive Said to Be Horner's Choice.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Joseph Triner of Oak Park, friend of Mayor Cermak and former amateur boxer and wrestler of note, is to be the new chairman of the Illinois athletic commission, according to reports which came from close friends of Governor Elect Horner yesterday.

The appointment will be made soon after Horner takes office, it is understood. Triner will succeed Gen. John V. Clinnin, who, according to information from the same source, may be appointed to membership on the commission of which he has been the chairman for the last four years.

Gen. Clinnin has not indicated whether he will be willing to serve under Triner. Triner, who was in a box adjoining the one occupied by Mayor Cermak's party at the charity boxing show in the Coliseum last night, declared he would be highly honored if tendered the position.

Old Wrestler, Boxer.

Triner, who is in the chemical manufacturing business in Chicago, is 38 years old and gained fame as an amateur boxer while a member of the Columbia university team. Later in 1914, after he had been graduated from Columbia, he was a member of the Illinois Athletic club wrestling team and since then has been an enthusiastic follower of both wrestling and boxing.

With the building of the Chicago Stadium a few years ago, he became a stockholder in the corporation, later was made a member of the board of directors, and now is serving as a member of the executive committee. He has been closely associated with Sidney N. Strotz, president of the Stadium corporation, in shaping the policies of the world's largest indoor arena. Last summer Triner joined with Strotz in the promotion of outdoor boxing shows in old Cermak park at 21st street and Kostner avenue. The venture was said to have been successful.

Holds Army Captaincy.

Triner served with the United States forces throughout the world war, first in the intelligence section of the army and later in the naval intelligence department. He now holds a commission of captain in the army reserve corps.

Since the Democratic victory in the November election there has been much speculation as to the makeup of the athletic commission, which governs boxing and wrestling in the state. Many names were mentioned in connection with the post of chairman. Until yesterday, however, it was not generally known that Triner aspired to the post.

The makeup of the present Illinois Athletic commission is Gen. Clinnin, chairman; George Getz and Fred Gardner, members of the commission, and William Troxell, secretary.

HOWLEY TAKES TORONTO CLUB MANAGERSHIP

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Dan Howley, former manager of the Cincinnati National league club, today announced he will manage the Toronto International league club for the 1933 season. He refused to disclose the amount he will receive. Agreement on the contract was reached at the major league meeting in New York, Howley said.

Kansas State Subdues Davis-Elkins in 2d Half

Manhattan, Kas., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Kansas State followed up last night's 35-34 conquest of West Virginia with a 30-19 victory over Davis and Elkins here tonight. Davis and Elkins led at the half, 15-9.

Arkansas Five Defeats U. of Nebraska, 41-24

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 16.—(AP)—University of Arkansas defeated University of Nebraska basketball team, 41 to 24, tonight. Arkansas led, 25 to 12 at the half.

NEW RING BOSS?

JOSEPH TRINER.

McLarnin Puts Fuller Away in 8 Rounds

New York, Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Sammy Fuller, husky Boston lightweight, tried the impossible tonight. He undertook to spot Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver welterweight, nine and one-half pounds in weight, proportionate advantages in height and reach, and tremendous advantage in hitting strength.

The natural consequence followed. McLarnin knocked him out in the eighth round before 11,000 in Madison Square Garden.

McLarnin's devastating right to the jaw dropped Fuller and Referee Pete Hartley counted him out after the eighth round had gone 2 minutes 58 seconds. Fuller, knocked almost through the ropes, was up, feebly, just as the ten count was completed, and faced McLarnin, unaware that he had been counted out.

Fuller Fights Gamely.

Fuller was led to his corner, beaten but not disgraced. I. was his second defeat in three years of fighting, but he earned many new friends by surviving McLarnin's vicious drives for almost eight full rounds in a handicap match, the result of which was early forecast.

Floored twice, once in the first round and again in the second, by left hooks to the jaw, Fuller recovered to face McLarnin and rally strongly.

He rallied in the sense that he became angry where he had been indifferent, and he frustrated McLarnin's best efforts to drive home a finishing blow through every round up to the eighth, though McLarnin pressed him hard and battered him harder.

Down Three Times.

McLarnin's left hook and stiff jabs to the head jarred the game little fighter's defense out of gear and exposed Fuller's jaw to the finishing drives.

Out of nowhere in the eighth McLarnin's right crashed to the jaw and Fuller went down in his tracks, for a count of nine. Arising, Fuller had no chance to defend himself. Out of a neutral corner bounded McLarnin like a panther, his right poised and his target sighted. That right swished through the air, landed flush on Fuller's jaw, and draped the game little Bostonian across the middle rope, almost driving him out of the ring.

Inert, unconscious, Fuller slid heavily off the rope to a position flat on his back near McLarnin's corner, where he was counted out.

Halaiko Cuts Petrolle's Eye; Referee Stops Bout

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Pittsburgh's itinerant basketball team, which in past seasons has flashed through the central states leaving only defeat in its wake, last night bumped into Northwestern at Patten gymnasium and received a thorough trouncing. The Wildcats took the lead after a slow start and never were headed. The final score was: Northwestern, 31; Pittsburgh, 22.

The battle was the roughest and best of the new season, revealing Northwestern in a give and take mood, which matched Pitt's frequent deliberate fouls, all of which turned the game into a miniature Tournament of Roses.

Reiff Leads Wildcats.

Joe Reiff, Northwestern's captain, as usual led his team's attack. Reiff scored four times from the field, evenly divided in the first and second periods, and he also dropped in four free throws in as many opportunities. Reiff had a close second in the scoring in Elmer Johnson, who made three field goals. However, Johnson could count only one of his four foul penalty shots.

Northwestern used six players, Al Kawal replacing Marvin Moonshower at back guard in the closing minutes. Moonshower was the only regular who failed to place in the scoring columns, while Kawal scored two free throws in his brief time on the court.

Pittsburgh was the most aggressive and possessed far more ability than either of Northwestern's previous opponents. The fact that Pitt didn't win was due solely to ineffective shooting, for the general play of the quintet created enough opportunities. But the ball rolled from the hoop or bounced back into the playing space with monotonous regularity, while Northwestern, particularly when Reiff took aim, seemingly couldn't miss.

Smith Fastest on Floor.

Donald Smith, Pitt forward, was the fastest man on either team. But his speed was minimized by his poor shooting and also by Don Brewer's close guarding in the second period. Smith's two goals were scored in the first half as also were his two penalty tosses. Claire Cribbs, the center, tied Smith for team honors with three goals from the field. Cribbs finally was sent from the floor with four personal fouls with three minutes left to play. The final foul on Cribbs was a double affair with Moonshower penalized for Northwestern.

The game started slowly, with each team seeking to penetrate to the goal with floor plays, none of which was effective. Smith's free throw on Johnson's holding foul was the first point, but Brewer then sent the Wildcats to the front with a long toss from the side. Smith's second free throw tied the score and a minute later the teams still were deadlocked at 5 all, Reiff accounting for Northwestern's gain by three successful single points from the 15 foot line.

Reiff, Johnson, and then Brewer collaborated to send Northwestern into a 10 to 5 lead. After Cribbs' long goal, Culver connected twice from far out on the floor, which, with Reiff's one hand toss under the goal, gave Northwestern a lead of 16 to 7. The first half ended 18 to 11 for the Wildcats.

Pitt Rallies Near Finish.

Pitt's most dangerous rally came at the start of the final period. In less time than it takes to write the detail, Pitt brought the count to 19 to 17. Johnson gave Northwestern one point after Cribbs' second foul of the night, while McCamant, Cribbs and Oehsenhirt scored Pitt's field goals.

But the Panthers could not maintain this pace. Culver counted on Hughes' foul. Johnson batted in a short shot and Brewer stepped to the free throw line for a point when he was held by Cribbs. To make victory certain Johnson and Reiff took turns working the pivot play under the backboard and Northwestern led, 27 to 17.

SHIELDS LEADS YORK HEAVIES TO 29-15 VICTORY

Lights Lose to Riverside Five, 20-9.

York High school's heavyweight basketball team, with Kenneth Shields scoring four baskets, continued its march toward a second successive West Suburban league championship by defeating Riverside, 29 to 15, at the Riverside gymnasium last night. It was Riverside's second defeat. The York lights, however, suffered their first defeat, losing to Riverside, 20 to 9.

Downers Grove and West Chicago won in other West Suburban league heavyweight games. Downers Grove scored in an overtime period to beat Hinsdale, 33 to 31, on the winners' court, while West Chicago handed Glenbard its second setback of the season, 22 to 20, at Glen Ellyn. Downers Grove defeated Hinsdale, 20 to 15, and Glenbard won from West Chicago, 29 to 8, in the lightweight games.

University Loses Pair.

University High's lightweight team scored only one basket and two free throws as it lost to Bloom, 22 to 4, in the opening of the South Suburban league race at Chicago Heights. The Bloom heavies, led by Aronowitz, who scored five field goals, defeated University, 24 to 22.

It required two overtime periods to determine the winner of the Lindblom-Waukegan lightweight game at Waukegan. Lindblom scored in the second extra session to win, 23 to 21. Waukegan whipped the Lindblom heavies, 47 to 27.

Lake View, Lane Win.

Lake View and Lane Tech heavyweights were the victors in the only two Chicago Public High School league games scheduled yesterday. The games opened their north section schedules. Lake View, with Swanberg, right forward, scoring five baskets and one free throw, defeated Senn, 27 to 15 on Lake View's court, while Lane Tech routed Roosevelt, 40 to 26, at the Lane gymnasium.

DICK TRACY—It's the Suspense

Durva Leads All the Way at Jefferson

New Orleans, La., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—The featured fifth race at Jefferson Park today was won by the Lone Star stable's filly Durva, ridden by J. Neel. Sandwrack was second, and Huraway third. The winner paid $8.80. The time for a mile and a sixteenth was 1:51.

Durva rushed into the lead from the barrier and was in front all the way, winning by a margin of three lengths. Blue Law, which Hank Mills was to ride, was scratched just before the time limit. Johnny Gilbert's mount, Buck Hero, was fourth. The track was muddy, and there was a drizzling rain most of the afternoon.

Lady Sweet Wins.

J. V. Pons filly, Lady Sweet, with Jockey Horn up won the fourth race, distancing Gilbert's mount, Hal Riley, the odds-on favorite, by five lengths. Dr. Billy was third, five lengths further away. The winner paid $27.20. The time for the mile and a furlong was 1:59 3-5. Lady Sweet took the track early and held the field safe all the way. Dr. Billy closed fastest of all.

Mrs. R. L. Rogers' Lofty Heights, alertly ridden by M. Dupuy, won the third race, catching Arrow in the stretch to get the decision by a neck. Iskum was third, beaten two lengths. Gilbert's mount, W. J. Balmer, which was favorite, bled and was pulled up. The winner paid $10.40. The time was slow, six furlongs in 1:16 1-5.

High Pockets Pays $84.60.

M. C. Rush's High Pockets won the second race by a head, with J. W. Frye in the saddle, paying $84.60. Grand Baby was second, a head in front of Potabit, the favorite, with Gilbert up. Others of the field were strung out. Lord Rockville set a fast pace, but quit in the stretch. High Pockets was close up all the way.

Gilbert won with McGonigle in the seventh race and now leads Mills in the battle for the jockey championship 195 winners to 192. Mills rode Portain to victory in the first event.

POSTPONE RACE MEET AT TAMPA UNTIL MARCH 11

Tampa, Fla., Dec. 16.—(AP)—A mid-winter horse race meeting, scheduled to open at the Tampa Shores track Dec. 30, was postponed today until March 11 because of inability to get the plant in shape, R. M. Williams, vice president and general manager of the operating company, announced tonight.

Before the announcement of the cancellation, the Tampa Tribune says, a group of Kentucky racing men, who came to Tampa to be associated with the track, had resigned. Two of them, Andrew G. Leonard, steward, and Brownell Berryman, racing secretary, both of Lexington, left tonight for their homes.

Goodloe McDowell of Lexington, steward and superintendent of construction, is still in Tampa and it was indicated he would appear before the state racing commission here tomorrow to explain why he and Leonard and Berryman had withdrawn.

AVELIS RESIGNS FROM CAGE TEAM AT TILDEN TECH

Flash Avelis, veteran member of the Tilden Tech heavyweight basketball team, reported to be one of the players who violated Chicago Public High School league rules by participating in Catholic Youth organization games, turned in his uniform yesterday. The move precludes any chance of a suspension and Avelis will be eligible for other sports. Avelis was one of Tilden's star baseball players last season.

Three other Tilden players were cleared of the charges that they had played with another team after their names had appeared on the league eligibility list. They are Capt. Frank Szymanski of the lightweight squad; Lee Corbett, and Embleton. Officials continued their investigation at other schools whose players are said to have engaged in outside games.

CLEVELAND CLUB BOARD TO VOTE ON BROADCASTS

Cleveland, O., Dec. 16.—(AP)—A recommendation to ban radio broadcasts of games played here by the Cleveland Indians will be placed before the board of directors of the club, President Alva Bradley said today.

"In my opinion such broadcasts hurt attendance at the games," Bradley said.

He said he has been opposed to play by play broadcasting of big league games for some time, but did not take any action last season because the club was under contract to a local station.

Claim Wire Clears Name of Didrikson

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 16.—(AP)—All evidence in the case of Mildred Babe Didrikson, 19 year old athlete, recently suspended from amateur competition by the Amateur Athletic union, was forwarded today to Lawrence di Benedetto, chairman of the Southern A. A. U. registration committee at New Orleans.

It included a photostatic copy of a telegram from E. Gordon Perry, motor car dealer of Dallas, to a New York advertising agency authorising the use of Miss Didrikson's name and picture in an advertisement, together with information that the original telegram was on file at a Dallas telegraph office.

Suspension to Stand.

Suspended because of the advertisement, Miss Didrikson asserted she did not authorize it. A. A. U. officials announced the suspension would stand until she had furnished more information about the original telegram, on the basis of which the advertisement was prepared.

Homer Mitchell, head of the firm that employs the girl, said:

"The telegram removes any doubt about Babe's amateur status. She did not authorize the use of her name and picture in the advertisement for which the A. A. U. suspended her."

Claims Others Do It.

Miss Didrikson asserted today A. A. U. authorization had been given for photographing of other amateurs for advertising purposes. Citing a letter from the Central association of the A. A. U., to "Miss Waterman" of the Illinois Women's Athletic club to that effect, she asked officials "to explain."

Roy E. Davis, chairman of the Central A. A. U. registration committee, replied that the letter she exhibited here was not a true copy of his original letter, written four years ago. He said it specifically stated pictures were not to be used for advertising purposes.

Loyola Freshman Quintet Meets Gary College Monday

The Loyola university freshman basketball team opens its season Monday night at Gary, Ind., against Gary college. The freshman team is reported to be one of the best Loyola ever has had. While Coach Alex Wilson has not settled upon a starting lineup yet, likely starters are Ralph Bolton or Bernard Coyle, center; Bruno Kudla and William Lang, forwards; Emmet Sheridan and Robert Jerick, guards.

NOW'S THE TIME TO PRACTICE FOR TRIBUNE SKI MEET

And It's Also Timely to Enter It.

Now is the time for all skiers to practice for THE TRIBUNE'S tournament New Year's afternoon. The weather couldn't be better for those who love outdoor sports, and the early snows have increased the number of boys who will compete for the gold medal awards.

While the list of entries will not close until midnight Dec. 27, the earlier you send in your name the better. The tournament is not limited to Chicago boys. Any boy, no matter his residence, is eligible to compete. In the past there have been entrants from the surrounding suburban towns. This year it is likely that boys from a greater distance will enter THE TRIBUNE meet.

It's for Beginners.

The tournament is designed for novices who ordinarily would not have opportunity to compete, since the slides used for the major tournaments are too difficult for beginners. The Riis park slide is splendid for this boys' tournament. Experienced jumpers, however, may enter the meet, the only regulation being that previous winners must compete in the next advanced class, regardless of their ages.

There are four age classifications which will group the contestants, so that all will have equal opportunity to win the championship of their division. The first class is for boys 12 years of age and under. Then comes the group of boys 13 and 14 years of age. Those 15 and 16 years of age are in the next class, while the senior division is composed of boys 17 years of age and over.

Gold medals are the first place prizes in each class while silver and bronze medals are offered for those who finish second and third, respectively.

Norge Club to Defend Title.

The boys from the Norge Ski club won the silver cup emblematic of the team championship last year. Their title will be disputed, however, by several outstanding organizations this year. Another trophy will be presented this year to the winners. First place in each of the four divisions counts five points. Second place is three points while third place is one point. The total points in all classes determine the title.

Another popular innovation last year, which will be continued in this tournament, is the gold medal for the longest jump. Each contestant is required to make at least two jumps and his standing is based on points awarded for distance and for form. Frequently the boy making the longest jump does not finish in first place, so with that in mind, THE TRIBUNE will present a medal to the contestant who sets the meet record.

TRIBUNE SKI TOURNAMENT

Please enter me in THE TRIBUNE'S third annual ski tournament for boys at Riis park, Fullerton and Meade avenues, Sunday, Jan. 1. Print name plainly with pencil. Check your age division. Mail entry to Ski Editor, Sports department, Chicago Tribune.

Entries close at midnight, Dec. 27.

- ☐ 12 years of age and under.
- ☐ 13 and 14 years of age.
- ☐ 15 and 16 years of age.
- ☐ 17 years of age and over.

Natalie Jolts Caras' Chances for Cue Title

New York, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Pasquale Natalie, Chicago veteran, put a deep dent in young Jimmy Caras' hopes of winning the national pocket billiards championship by defeating the 21 year old Wilmington, Del., player tonight, 125 to 3.

The victory shoved the Chicagoan into undisputed possession of third place with five victories and one defeat. The defeat was Caras' second in six games.

Natalie's high run of 67 failed by four balls to equal George Kelly's cluster of 71, made in the latter's 125 to 63 victory over Walter Franklin of Kansas City in the afternoon. In the other matinée contest Bennie Allen, also of Kansas City, came from behind to defeat James Mills of San Jose, Cal., 125 to 99, in 22 innings.

CONCORDIA WINS FROM CHICAGO QUINTET, 29 TO 24

Concordia college basketball team of Milwaukee defeated the American College of Physical education at the American college gymnasium yesterday afternoon, 29 to 24. A rally in the last seven minutes, during which Capt. Fierke, Pohl and Schmidt scored 12 points, turned the tide.

The Chicago team held at 17 to 12 lead at the end of the first half. It was the third victory in three starts for the Milwaukee team. Lineups:

CHESROW FIVES PLAY.

BADGERS LEARN TONIGHT WHAT SEASON HOLDS

Games Tonight

St. Louis at Purdue.
Marquette at Wisconsin.
Carleton at Iowa.
Pittsburgh at Minnesota.
Michigan at Kalamazoo Teachers.
Wabash at Illinois.
Alumni at Chicago.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Wisconsin's possibilities of contendership in the Big Ten basketball race will be more or less definitely decided tomorrow night when the Badgers meet Marquette here in the 12th game of their series.

Wisconsin's defeat last Saturday by Carleton retarded title hopes, leaving Badger adherents without a definite line on their squad. Marquette, with one of the outstanding nonconference teams in the west, will offer sterner opposition than Carleton and provide Wisconsin with an opportunity to decide whether the Carleton defeat was due to a laxity of team play because of a lack of practice, or whether Wisconsin is not as strong as previously believed.

Meanwell Is Irked.

Marquette has won two of the last three games played with Wisconsin, winning one and losing one last year. It defeated the Badgers by three points in the first game last season and was nosed out by two points in a subsequent meeting. Late in the 1930-31 season, it rallied to win, 16 to 14, in the closing minutes.

Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, who has coached the Badgers to eight Big Ten championships in 18 years, is admittedly irked by the fact that one of his former pupils, Bill Chandler, Marquette coach, has been so successful against Badger teams. Chandler, on the other side of the argument, knows his Marquette supporters would rather win from Wisconsin than from any team on the schedule. Lineup:

WISCONSIN		MARQUETTE.
Poser	F	Marstadt
Rewer	F	Gorychka
McDonald	C	Kukic
Ramana	G	Ronzani
Miller	G	Zunmach

PURDUE GETS TEST

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Purdue's basketball team will receive its first real test tomorrow night when it meets the strong St. Louis university quintet which has startled the Missouri valley with decisive triumphs over Kansas State and the Arkansas Aggies. St. Louis is coached by Mike Nyikos, former Indiana star, who has developed a fast breaking offense built around Leo Grandone, 6 foot 2 inch center, and Marty Gorman, guard, co-captains.

Coach Ward Lambert is hopeful that the Boilermakers will make a more finished performance against Nyikos' five than against Miami. It is probable that Dutch Fehring, apparently rounding into shape after the football season, will be back at center. Lineup:

PURDUE.		ST. LOUIS.
Kellar	R. F	Wynne
Stewart	L. F	Dirkson
Fisher	C	Grandone
Cotton	R. G	Gorman
Parmenter	L. G	Frost

Referee—Forzie (Indianapolis). Umpire—Maloney (Notre Dame).

IOWA STARS OUT

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Hard luck which dogged Coach Rollie Williams for five years caught up with him again when Ivan Blackmer, giant Iowa City forward and key man in the Hawkeye offense, and Edward Break, star Chicago, Ill., guard, were definitely lost today for the Carleton game tomorrow night.

Blackmer is confined to bed with a temperature of 103 degrees from influenza. Break left Iowa City this morning to begin a vacation job as a Chicago mail carrier. He received notice that he must report tomorrow morning to obtain the work until Christmas. He was excused from the university and from the basketball squad.

With the two regulars out of the Iowa lineup, Carleton will enter the game as the favorite. Lineup:

IOWA.		CARLETON.
Moffit	L. F	Arney
Krumbholz	R. F	Strom
Scallah	C	Ranach
Seizer	R. G	Taylor
Siegert	L. G	Thoeny

ILLINI LOSE OWEN

ILLINOIS.		WABASH.
Beynon	R. F	Joyce
Froschauer	L. F	Oren
Helmich	C	Berns
Beynon	R. G	Crisler
Fort	L. G	Mason

PITT PLAYS GOPHERS

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Minnesota will rely on a proved offensive to defeat Pittsburgh in their intersectional game tomorrow night. Pitt will come here from Evanston where it played Northwestern tonight.

Minnesota has scored 101 points in two games to date, the largest number scored by a Minnesota team since 1918. Special stress has been placed on defense this week, but Coach MacMillan will depend on the Gophers' scoring power to offset the reputed Pitt offense.

Augustana Quintet Whips Cornell College, 57 to 24

Rock Island, Ill., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—The Augustana college quintet defeated Cornell college tonight, 57 to 24. It was the second victory of the season for Augustana.

MOON MULLINS—PAWNS OF LOVE

THERE IS SOMETHING THAT I WOULD LIKE TO ASK YOU, MY DEAR—AH-ER-EMMA. AS GREAT A FAVOR AS A MAN MIGHT ASK—
GO RIGHT AHEAD, LORD PLUSHBOTTOM, I'VE ALWAYS SAID: "FAINT HEART NEVER WON FAIR LADIES!"
YES, YES, I KNOW—BUT IT IS ABOUT YOUR RING, MY DEAR. I AM A BIT FINANCIALLY EMBARRASSED AND—

WELL?
OH, THANK YOU SO MUCH—DEUCEDLY KIND OF YOU, MY DEAR
HOW MUCH WILL YOU LEND ME ON THIS, MOE?

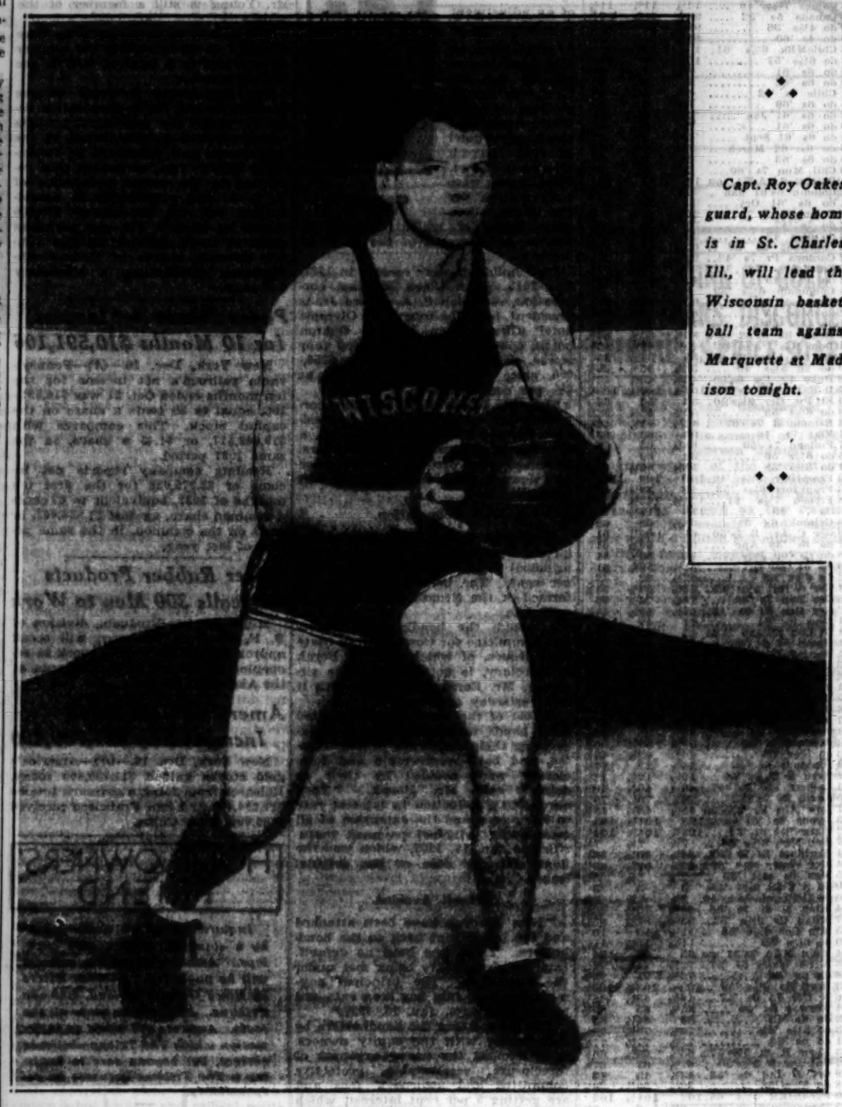
WHEN BADGERS MEET STATE RIVALS



Capt. Roy Oakes, guard, whose home is in St. Charles, Ill., will lead the Wisconsin basketball team against Marquette at Madison tonight.

Magnates Go Home Full of Awe and Hope

New York, Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Leaving in their wake, as is their custom, a perfect vacuum, baseball magnates of the two major leaguers were speeding homeward today after three days of conventioning in which they achieved a number of things quite outstanding as the run of baseball meetings go.

Among other things, the meetings witnessed a record number of player transactions and they saw the club owners, finally, overcoming their timidity, putting up a solid front to overrule the known wishes of Commissioner K. M. Landis by adopting legislation that put the stamp of approval on chain store baseball.

Also they witnessed the fans receiving the privilege of purchasing world's series reserve tickets singly instead of on a three game basis, and they left the radio situation unchanged.

Giants to Lead Trades.

So far as fandom at large was concerned, trading naturally provided the greatest amount of interest. No fewer than 11 of the 16 clubs indulged in the wholesale swapping that sent players scattering about. Only the Yankees, Braves, Athletics, Cardinals, and Cubs emerged with their player lists unchanged.

Activities of the Giants, of course, drew most attention and in this respect Manager Bill Terry, making his debut in an official capacity at the winter conclaves, just about shattered precedent. In fact, his utter candor in discussing trades, even going so far as to say what players he wanted, utterly confounded the old timers to whom this theory of open covenants openly arrived at was entirely too foreign for comprehension.

Terry Wants Action.

On one occasion Terry bolted right into the Dodgers' suite in the Commodore and in the presence of a roomful of newspaper men openly challenged Manager Max Carey to trade him Johnny Fredericks for Sam Leslie.

In all, Terry so far has cast adrift ten players who completed the ill fated 1932 campaign with the Giants. Those who have gone are Freddy Lindstrom, Willie Walker, Jim Mooney, Eddie Marshall, Bob O'Farrell, Ethan Allen, Chick Fullis, Sam Gibson, Waite Hoyt, and Clarence Mitchell. To take their places he has obtained Outfielder George Davis, Pitchers Glenn Spencer, Ray Starr and Bill Shores, Catcher Gus Mancuso, and Infielder Johnny Ryan.

Senators Look Good.

Opinion was unanimous that Washington had manipulated several master moves that would make the Senators a serious pennant threat next year. Weak in the box last season, the Senators have acquired two crack lefthanders in Walter Stewart and Earl Whitehill, in addition to gaining the hard hitting Goose Goslin as well as another fine outfielder in Fred Schulte.

A. A. U. Lifts Ban on Leo Rodak, Italia, and Tontch

The temporary suspension of Leo Rodak and two other amateur boxers was lifted yesterday by the Central A. A. U. boxing committee. Rodak, Joe Italia, and Bill Tontch had been banned pending their appearance before the amateur committee to answer questions regarding charges of professionalism. Three clubs were granted sanctions to present charity shows this month. They are: Oddfellows Service bureau, Rainbo fronton, Dec. 29; 17th Ward club, Viking temple, Dec. 19; and 36th Ward club, North avenue and Cicero, Dec. 27.

Barney Ross, Chicago lightweight, who is in California, and Bobby Pacho, California 135 pound champion, are to sign today for a 10 round match at Los Angeles Jan. 10.

Tom Andrews, veteran Milwaukee promoter, is arranging a card for New Year's afternoon. Ray Miller, former local lightweight, and Johnny Datta are reported signed for a 10 rounder. Another will have Curtis Brown against either Eddie Ran or Tracy Cox.

Prince Saunders of Chicago and Young Terry, Davenport, Ia., 135 pound boxer, have started workouts for their six round windup bout at Kid Howard's gymnasium next Tuesday. Two other six round contests will bring together Leo Ranieri and Danny Neenan and Davey Day and Lou Vine. Heinrich Bock faces Johnny Long in a four round bout. Another will bring into action Freddy Dolph and Buddy Kernes.

Paul Dazzo, west side featherweight, will go to Detroit tomorrow to finish drills for a 10 round battle with Johnny Mitchell, Michigan champion, next Wednesday.

Larry Johnson, south side heavyweight, and Steve Trojack of Winnipeg, Man., are matched to meet at Denver, Colo., Tuesday. The match may have to be postponed due to illness of the promoter, Jack Kanner.

Three matches will head the boxing tournament between St. Philip High school boxers and a team from the Jewish People's institute at St. Philip's gymnasium Monday. Tom Kenneally, St. Philip's heavyweight, clashes with Leo Feingold. In the other bouts Ben Seigel, J. P. I. flyweight, faces Bill Herlihy and Art Winneback, St. Philip's, battles Max Robinson.

Macomb Teachers Beat St. Ambrose College, 34-27

Fancy Skaters Get Place in Stadium Show

Frank Schoeninger and his daughter, Mrs. Louise Snyder, will appear in a double waltz number. In this event Mrs. Snyder makes a "back edge jump" into the arms of her father.

The entire club will take part in a waltz number and a "fourteen step." A double father and daughter exhibition will be given by Miss Eleanor Berger and Robert Berger and Mr. Schoeninger and Mrs. Snyder.

Helen Bina, who will create a world's 1,000 meter indoor record, and Ed Murphy, Oneil Farrell, and Eddie Schroeder, Olympic stars, will compete in the speed racing program.

A matter of importance to all the skaters in the open events is to be registered with the Illinois-Western Skating association before Tuesday. A meeting will be held by the officials for this purpose Monday in the Stadium's club rooms. Final arrangements for the indoor meet also will be made.

LAKE FOREST NAMES GOODMAN MOST VALUABLE

Tony Goodman, a Kewanee, Ill., High school product, yesterday was named as the most valuable player on the Lake Forest college football team during the 1932 season. His name will be placed on the Clayton Mark trophy, along with those of former most valuable players.

MAROON ALUMNI TO SHOW VARSITY HOW IT WAS DONE

Rival Quintets Will Battle Tonight on Midway.

Stars of other and better years, when Maroon basketball teams were something more than a threat, will collaborate tonight at the Midway fieldhouse to show the current quintet how it was in the old days. An alumni-varsity game, which will pit the two Pat Pages, senior and junior, against each other, among other things, will constitute the second public game of the Maroon practice season. There will be no admission charge.

Alumni Have a Ball Club.

The alumni basket team promises to give the varsity more competition than it can handle, and the graduates will send at least two full teams on the floor.

A shock troop group that includes Ted Curtis and Moose Gorgas, both stars of the 1919 championship team; the elder Page, who is still going, though his competition ended in 1909; Otto Strohmeier, who finished in 1922, and Chuck Hoerger, guard of four seasons back, will start for the alumni. Players of more recent times, including Marshall Fish, Sidney Yates, Virgil Gist, and Bob Kaplan, will finish.

The match will give Coach Nels Norgren another test in his search for forwards. Last Saturday's game uncovered a young man named Charles Merrifield, son of an old "C" man, now on the faculty, who made four baskets in the last five minutes of play to give the Maroons a one point victory. The episode is taken without too much cheering, however, since young Merrifield is extremely light and small.

Eldred Gets Chance.

The varsity starting lineup will have Porter and Wegner at guards, Parsons at center, Offil at one forward, and either Merrifield or Kerr at the other forward. Bob Eldred, lanky sophomore center, is being given a chance by Norgren. Chiz Evans, regular forward, will not be available until Dec. 24.

OPEN TELEGRAPH SHOOT SERIES AT GLEN VIEW

Inaugurating a series of telegraphic meets, Glen View trapshooters will meet the New Haven, Conn., Gun club tomorrow, as the feature of their weekly shoot, Fred L. McNally, chairman of the Glen View club, announced yesterday. The program will be for 100 birds, straight target at 16 yards, under the Shogren system. The five high shooters of each club will compose the respective teams.

Jones Beats Belanger in Charity Bout

Billy Jones, light heavyweight, Philadelphia, beat Charley Belanger of Winnipeg, Man., in the ten round windup of the Coliseum Athletic club's opening boxing show last night.

Six hundred forty-five fans paid $935 to see the show, which was sponsored by Mayor Cermak. Proceeds were to go into Chicago's Christmas fund for the needy.

Eddie Shea of Chicago knocked out Harry Blitman of Philadelphia in the first round of the semi-final, scheduled for ten rounds. The best bout on the card was won by Paul Dazzo, west side featherweight, in eight rounds. He defeated Young Geno of La Salle, Ill.

Dazzo Nearly Loses.

Jimmy Flinker, Oakland, Cal., 168 pounder, substituting for Jack Moran, was knocked out by Young Terry of Trenton, N. J., in the second round of the other eight round contest. Danny Neenan beat Johnny Reba in the four round opener.

Dazzo, showing vast improvement over his last three starts, almost lost to the La Salle boxer on a technicality in the fifth round. Geno opened a cut over Paul's left eye with a wild right in the fourth round. In the fifth round the cut was reopened and the referee stopped the contest. After examining the injury, however, he motioned the boys to continue fighting.

Jones Bout Slow.

The windup was a disappointment. Jones and Belanger, who boxed a draw at Detroit recently, started slow and spiritless. In the second round the crowd booed, but the fighters showed no interest until the fourth round when Jones assumed the aggressive and scored with both hands to the head and body.

Blitman's poor showing against Shea wasn't surprising. Immediately after he entered the ring his knockout seemed a certainty. Blitman weighed 137 pounds, six more than Shea, and appeared out of condition.

ROPER BEATS EVERETT.

Hunting License Total Decreases Half a Million

BY BOB BECKER.

Although the number of licensed hunters has been reduced during the last few years, rabbit, duck, and pheasant hunters may still boast that their fraternity is better than 1,000,000 strong in the upper Mississippi valley. Figures for 1931 released by the United States biological survey reveal this information.

Possibly some reservation should be made in figuring the total number of licensed hunters in Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Iowa because several of the states in reporting to Washington do not separate their hunting and fishing licenses. However, even discounting several hundred thousand for fishing licenses the number of actual hunters is more than made up by the thousands who are not required to take out a license.

For example, thousands of Illinois farmers and their boys do not have to spend a dollar for a hunting license when they shoot on their own property. In one state resident world war veterans are granted free licenses.

Examining the government figures for Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Michigan we find the following 1931 license totals which reveal the popularity of upland game and waterfowl hunting in this region: Illinois, 262,458; Indiana, 304,444; Iowa, 279,383; Michigan, 302,058; Wisconsin, 171,615. These figures total more than 1,000,000.

Through these licenses hundreds of thousands of dollars have been paid into state conservation departments. How much additional money is spent by these sportsmen for shells, boots, and other hunting equipment ranging from woolen socks to guns and boats hasn't been estimated. However, in one boom year, Michigan figured sportsmen in that state spent $12,500,000 for accessories.

The biological survey, after studying all the statistics on 1931 hunting licenses, says there was a decrease of 561,308 in 1931 as compared to the number of licenses issued in 1930. For 1930 the figure was 6,903,934. For 1931 it was 6,342,626. Revenues also decreased. In 1930 hunting license revenues of all states totaled $10,017,564.43. Last year they were $9,867,352,63.

New York again headed the parade last year with the largest number of licenses issued. More than 580,000 sportsmen were registered at a cost of $1,108,604.54. Money returns in Illinois from sale of hunting licenses is estimated at $239,488.50.

IRISH CUP FINAL.

BELFAST, Dec. 16.—Cliftonville won the Irish gold cup by defeating the Linfield soccer team. The score was 2 to 1.

Loyola Stands Pat on Team for Ontario

Loyola university seeks its first basketball victory of the season tonight when it meets the University of Western Ontario five of London, Can., at the Loyola gymnasium. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

Coach Leonard Sachs will start the same lineup which lost its opening game to Davis-Elkins. Western Ontario has four veterans from last year who assisted them in winning the Canadian championship.

Loyola engaged in a long scrimmage yesterday afternoon. Sachs called in a team of former Rambler stars headed by Joe Wagner and Dick Butzen, to provide opposition.

LURIK TO MEET JONES TUESDAY ON FRONTON CARD

Stanislaus Lurik, Chicago wrestler, will meet Paul Jones next Tuesday night at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. Jones is the first top flight opponent Lurik has been matched with.

Ray Steele appears in the main event against Jim McMillen. They will meet in one fall with an hour time limit.

Joe Stecher, who has won the world's heavyweight championship three different times, clashes with Joe De Vito, Italian veteran, in the semi-windup. A fourth match will bring together Pat O'Shocker and Dorna Ostapavich of Kansas City.

Name Masterson as Choice for Director at St. Thomas

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 16.—(AP)—James Masterson, head of the physical education department, tonight was reported as likely to succeed Joe Boland as athletic director at St. Thomas college here. No official comment was available. Both Boland and Masterson are graduates of Notre Dame. Under the contemplated change Boland would coach only football.

Postpone Yarosz-King Fight Until Monday

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 16.—(AP)—The 10 round fight between Teddy Yarosz of Pittsburgh and Jackie King of Little Rock, Ark., tonight was postponed until Monday because of cold weather.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 16.—Interest in the bond market today centered on the German list of the foreign section. Reich government issues, led by the 5½s and 7s, rallied to new highs for the year on the favorable November export trade report.

Enthusiastic buying of German bonds, much of it from abroad, resulted in gains extending up to 3 points as many issues reached new 1932 highs. The 7s mounted to 75½, up almost 2 points from the previous close.

Trade Figures Favorable.

Registering a favorable trade balance of almost $20,000,000 for November, Germany's commercial position improved in a period in which declining exports are the rule. Considering Germany's precarious gold position, the trade figures commanded much attention in Wall street as an index to the worth of the external bonds.

The improvement in German bond prices gave stimulus to other foreign bonds. Australians, aided also by further improvement in sterling exchange, rallied sharply to new highs for the current upswing. Good improvement was also noted in bonds of Canada and of the Dominion railway systems.

In domestic bonds there was a divergent trend in speculative and high grade issues, the former easing a trifle and the latter maintaining the strength which has characterized them in recent weeks.

High Grades in Demand.

Demand for high grade corporation bonds continued in large volume, owing principally to the excellent reception given to offerings of municipal securities here this week. Offerings of $30,400,000 of New York state, $5,000,000 of the State of New Jersey, and $20,000,000 of Illinois have been made on such low yield basis that the entire high grade market has been stimulated.

Only United States government bonds failed to share in this wide improvement. Almost all treasury maturities were lower, largely as a reaction from the steady improvement which has recently occurred.

Public Service Co. of Colorado.

Will you please give me a report on Public Service Company of Colorado debenture 6s, due 1946?—A. K. L.

Public Service Company of Colorado is controlled by Cities Service Power and Light company, a subsidiary of Cities Service company. It furnishes electricity at retail to 129,600 customers in Denver and 119 other communities. In addition, it supplies electricity at wholesale to more than 40 communities. It distributes natural gas to Denver and a number of smaller communities.

Gross revenues for 1931 were $14,652,000, against $14,172,000 for 1930, $13,057,000 for 1929, and $11,841,000 for 1928. Fixed charges were earned 2.24 times in 1931, 2.34 times in 1930, 2.20 times in 1929, 1.99 times in 1928.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $4,426,000 and current liabilities were $3,395,000. Working capital was $1,031,000.

Funded debt totals $53,146,000. In 1933 $2,950,000 5 per cent notes will mature. These are all held by Cities Service company.

The $4,775,000 debentures 6s, due 1946, are the unsecured obligation of the company. They underlie $26,579,000 of secured obligations.

The electric and gas franchises in Denver do not expire until 1947. There is, however, agitation in the city for a reduction in gas rates.

The debentures are somewhat speculative.

Drake Estate.

Funds are being solicited to assist in the settlement of the Drake estate in England. Do you know anything of this proposition?—S. W.

The large number of inquiries received concerning this promotion indicates that the promoters are quite active. It is for that reason that the following, published originally on May 15, 1931, is reprinted:

"This consulate general has, for example, received very large numbers of letters from persons in America who believe themselves entitled to fictitious estates supposed by them to be in Great Britain. As an example I will mention a few which actually do not exist—viz.: Sir Francis Drake . . . News stories frequently appear in a certain class of the sensational press stating that a certain person has inherited vast sums from England which will soon be released by the Courts of Chancery, after which nothing is ever heard of the alleged estate. It is also known that there are certain persons who come to this country representing heirs of such estates as the so-called Drake estate and have lived here in idleness on the proceeds of money sent them by persons in the United States who can ill afford it."

YOUNG EXPLAINS HOW HE DELAYED INSULL CRASH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 16.—Owen D. Young today told the story of his attempt to save the tottering structure of public utility companies which Samuel Insull had built up and admitted that he was among the army of investors who lost millions when the structure collapsed.

OWEN D. YOUNG.

Mr. Young, amiable and precise, was testifying before John E. Joyce, federal referee, under interrogation by Lewis F. Jacobson, counsel for the petitioning creditors who seek the return of collateral put up by the Insull companies for loans to New York and Chicago bankers.

Mr. Young explained how Mr. Insull was worried lest those who were buying into his operating companies in the boom period of 1928 might upset the Insull control of the huge utility group, and how Mr. Insull submitted to him a plan which Mr. Young pronounced "sound" for perpetuating the Insull management through the organization of Insull Utility Investments, Inc.

Staved Off Receivership.

It was this investment corporation which ruined Mr. Insull after three years of depression instead of perpetuating his management despite the efforts by which Mr. Young staved off the receivership from December, 1931, until last April, and which he defended today. He admitted buying $50,000 of stock in the company.

Mr. Young said that his attempt to save Insull Utility Investments consisted in urging the New York and Chicago bankers to a "standstill" or moratorium agreement proposed by Mr. Insull, whereby loans would be carried until August, 1932, without selling out the collateral.

He said the New York bankers were unwilling for the reason that they would not know what was being done in Chicago in that time and could not rely on the bankers there because of their "difference in interest."

Turned Back to Bankers.

They finally found Arthur Anderson, head of the accounting firm of that name, to whom all operations of the Insull companies during the standstill agreement were to be submitted for approval. It was Mr. Anderson, according to Mr. Young, who came to New York with a report which ended the standstill in April instead of August.

"Anderson reported," said Mr. Young, "that intercompany transaction were going on which were very difficult to follow and to decide whether or not they were prejudicial."

Mr. Young then called a meeting of the Chicago and New York bankers in his office in New York on April 8 and turned the situation back to them. On April 16 the receivership was declared.

Wanted to Save Customer.

Mr. Young said his own interest in the matter was based, among other reasons, on a desire to avoid a failure of the Insull structure "because it might impair the credit of utilities everywhere, and when you impair the credit of utilities you impair their buying power from the General Electric company."

"You did it to save a customer," said Mr. Jacobson.

"To save a customer on one side," said Mr. Young, "and that was consistent with saving the investors on the other side."

"During all these conferences, was any mention made of the public's interest in these matters, or was it all confined to the banks' interests?" Jacobson asked.

Mr. Young acknowledged that he had not heard of the public being mentioned, but he explained that there was not a man in the room who did not know that the banks were the key to the situation.

George W. Davison, president of the Central Hanover Bank & Trust company, an earlier witness, denied that he had any knowledge of the status of the vast Insull enterprises when he advanced a $5,000,000 loan to the Insull Utility Investments, Inc., shortly before it crashed. The loan was made, he said, purely on the strength of the collateral.

Young Excuses Insull.

After the hearing Mr. Young made a statement to the press concerning the fate of Mr. Insull which, he said, "should be made in fairness to the old man."

"The Insull Utility Investments, Inc., would have been a perfectly sound setup," he said, "even with the debentures, if they had been lengthy maturities.

"What happened was that the market price of the stocks of the Insull operating companies began to decline after the break of October, 1929.

"Evidently Mr. Insull thought that one way of curing that and strengthening the whole situation was to keep buying the operating securities, borrowing from the banks, and thinking undoubtedly that next month he could sell preferred stock against his new acquisitions and pay his bank loans.

"His steps were sound at every point if you assume, as he did, either that the depression was temporary.

"The time never did come, however, when Mr. Insull could liquidate his bank loans by offering shares to the public.

"The most you can say about the old man," Mr. Young concluded, "is that he had too much confidence in this country and his own companies."

Job Insurance Laws Threat to Industrialists

BY SCRUTATOR.

The prospect that several states may adopt compulsory unemployment compensation schemes has come to the fore as an additional problem for industrial leaders. Wisconsin already has adopted a plan, Ohio and Massachusetts have legislation afoot and several other states are studying the question. Moreover, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor announced at the annual convention in Cleveland, O., last month that labor will call on the states generally to adopt unemployment insurance laws.

The Wisconsin law provides that employers shall set up reserves to a certain aggregate amount from earnings to be used for paying compensation to workers in periods of unemployment. Proposed legislation in Massachusetts and Ohio also is similarly based. However, the plans for accumulating reserves are not uniform and these and other differences have placed manufacturers in a quandary.

Wisconsin's Proposal.

The Wisconsin law provides that its compulsory plan shall go into effect on July 1, 1933, unless prior to that time employers of not less than 175,000 workers shall have adopted voluntary plans that are as favorable to employés as the state scheme. The state plan provides that employers must contribute to an unemployment reserve fund a sum equal to 2 per cent of annual pay rolls, plus 2-10 of 1 per cent for administration expenses.

If an employer has contributed to the fund for two years and his account amounts to $55 per employé but less than $75, the contribution is reduced to 1 per cent of pay rolls and at $75 per employé the contributions cease until the fund is reduced by benefits. Separate accounts are to be kept for each employer.

Certain classes of employés are excluded but eligible employés will receive unemployment compensation ranging from $5 to $10 a week for a maximum of ten weeks each year. He is adjudged eligible provided he was employed for four months or more during the preceding year and earned no more than $1,500 in that year, and had performed no services for the employer for a week.

The Ohio proposal is that employers should contribute 2 per cent of pay rolls to a reserve fund and that employés should contribute 1 per cent of their wages. The unemployed worker would be permitted to draw on this fund to the extent of 50 per cent of his former wages but not to exceed $15 a week for a maximum of sixteen weeks. The Massachusetts proposal follows generally the provisions of the Wisconsin law.

Industrialists Fearful.

Wisconsin industrialists are up in arms against the new law. Many of them had created unemployment prevention and relief plans prior to passage of the law last January. They maintained they were doing everything possible voluntarily to prevent unemployment. They plead that they desired to solve their problems without state interference and without the detail and restrictions of a compulsory state controller plan. However, Wisconsin labor leaders and radical politicians pushed through the law on the charge that employers had had sufficient opportunity to stabilize employment and had failed.

But the chief concern of Wisconsin manufacturers is how their industries, already heavily taxed, will fare in competition with industries in other states which either may have no unemployment compensation laws or less drastic plans. They object to any compulsory plan unless it is a national law which would eliminate any competitive advantage that otherwise might be enjoyed by other states. Finally, they are fearful that the state compulsory unemployment compensation plan will follow the example of work accident indemnity legislation in constantly increasing benefits and imposing heavy additional costs on doing business.

Trade Resists Seasonal Dip, Say Reviews

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 16.—[Special.]—General business is successfully resisting the influences which at this time of the year usually cause recessions, according to the weekly trade reviews, and reports are mostly constructive, although the dollar volume of holiday buying at retail has been somewhat disappointing.

Nearer Firm Ground.

Dunn's review says in part:

"Most of the business news received during the week has been of a constructive tenor, although economic planning has taken second place to political developments, which are tending to obscure the moderate progress being made.

"With some of the harassing financial difficulties in the process of final solution, the way becomes easier for more stability in the leading foreign exchanges, a steadier trend of commodity markets, and a more clearly defined business outlook. The latter is being aided by careful pruning of expenses everywhere and a firmer grip on the fundamentals of commercial policies."

Business Defies Adversity.

Bradstreet's says:

"The testimony of events and statistical items increasingly indicates that business has finally intrenched itself in a line from which it will not permit the forces of deflation to dislodge it. A careful examination of the more comprehensive reports covering business for the month of November shows that a resistance line has been established during the course of the last six months which has not yielded to the enervating developments of the last month.

"Among the latter have been the national election, the convening of congress, the uncertainty and apprehension over the intergovernmental debts, a relapse in commodity prices, an adverse Supreme court decision regarding the right of Texas to restrict the flow of oil, the collapse of the copper conference and the sharply accentuated budgetary difficulties of many local governments."

INDIA, 'SINK OF GOLD' FOR YEARS, DISGORGES METAL AS PRICE SOARS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Gold which has disappeared into India for years emerged from its hiding places to the amount of 11,386,700 fine ounces between January, 1931, and September of the present year.

The department of commerce said today that between 1870 and 1930 India, long known as the "sink of the precious metal," had imported gold worth 2 billion 800 million dollars.

During recent months, however, the depreciation of the British Indian rupee and the English pound sterling caused the price of gold in India to soar and brought the metal out of hiding. The movement was called important by the department because it said from 1922 to 1930 India had absorbed 27 per cent of the world's gold production.

POUND, CANADIAN DOLLAR ADVANCE; FRANC STEADIES

New York, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Higher levels for the pound sterling and the Canadian dollar marked foreign exchange trading today.

Sterling at $3.30⅝ for cable transfers ended the day with a net gain of 1⅛ cents. The Canadian dollar touched 87¾, and closed at 87½, up ⅝ of a cent.

The French franc was steadier, with the passing of the due date of its war debt payment. Cables closed at 3.90 5-16 cents, off 1-16 of a point, and a shade under the level at which it is theoretically profitable to ship gold from Paris to New York.

Glass Expects Quick Action on Bank Law

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Quick senate approval of his bank reform bill was predicted today by Senator Glass [Dem., Va.] after a series of discussions among friends of the legislation looking toward the elimination of disagreements.

"I don't entertain any doubt about the bill being passed," Senator Glass said today. "And I don't think it will take much time either."

The senate will begin consideration of the bill Jan. 5.

Several conferences have been held by members of the subcommittee headed by Glass which drafted the banking legislation particularly with a view to meeting objection from some quarters to its provision for statewide branch banking.

In order to speed consideration of the bill it may limit branch banking privileges for national banks to states which permit it, in their own laws or to permit branch banking in all states that do not forbid their own banks the same privilege.

No compromise has been worked out yet on the other most controversal feature of the bill, which would require federal reserve member banks to divorce themselves from security affiliates within three years. Senator Glass has offered to modify this period to five years, but apparently this has not satisfied opponents of the legislation. The Virginian has indicated that he will go no further.

STANDARD GAS PLANS TO SPEND $12,474,753 IN 1933

Standard Gas and Electric company's preliminary construction budget for 1933 will total $12,474,753 for public utility companies in the system, according to John J. O'Brien, president of the company. The foregoing amount includes estimated expenditures of $1,501,611 to complete projects now under construction at utility properties in the Standard Gas and Electric company system.

The total preliminary budget expenditure for 1933 may be segregated as follows: Electric department, $8,486,406; gas department, $1,865,464; other departments, $2,118,883.

MIDDLE WEST SUBSIDIARY TO PAY DIVIDEND

Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCulloch, receivers of Middle West Utilities company, yesterday announced that directors of the Kentucky Utilities company had declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock of the company, payable Jan. 14, 1933, to stockholders of record Dec. 27, 1932. This company is a part of the Middle West Utilities system.

Wheeling and Lake Erie Orders 50 Gondola Cars

Cleveland, O., Dec. 16.—(AP)—The Wheeling and Lake Erie railway today placed an order with the Canton Car company for 50 new style gondola cars.

ILLINOIS BOND ISSUE OF $20,000,000 REPORTED SOLD

The First Union Trust and Savings bank, head of the banking syndicate which on Thursday was awarded 20 million dollars in state of Illinois 4½ per cent relief bonds, announced yesterday that the issue has been entirely sold.

Other Chicago participants in the syndicate are the Harris Trust and Savings bank, the Continental Illinois company, and the Northern Trust company. The National City company is the eastern syndicate manager.

ACTION IN STOCK MARKET IS DULL; PRICES STEADY

U. S. Steel Preferred Dips 2 Points.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 16.—Preferred stocks provided about the only dash of color discernable in today's share market picture. United States Steel preferred was again a depressing influence, sinking some 2 points below yesterday's closing price, and losses of from 2 to 8 points were registered by a sizable group of other preferreds, including those of Gotham Silk Hosiery, Atchison, Mallinson, Union Pacific, Remington-Rand and American Sugar.

New York Steam, National Lead and a few others of the class ran counter to the trend, however, for gains of 2 or 3 points.

Better Feeling Arises.

Outside of the preferreds, the market was able to negotiate little progress in either direction. There was a better feeling over the French debt default, opinion inclining to the view that the later developments indicate that the payment will yet be met and the strength in sterling and the continued demand for high grade bonds were factors of sufficient weight to offset the downward pull of the early morning wheat reaction.

Farm implement shares were hurt to some extent by the grain setback, but came back encouragingly in the afternoon, losses in both Case and International Harvester being confined to fractions. Observers noted that the group was less sensitive to developments in the pits at Chicago and Winnipeg than formerly.

Rails Do Better.

Better earnings reports helped some of the railroad issues, notably Pennsylvania and Chesapeake and Ohio, to set the market a good example. The general tendency of the carrier group, however, was toward slightly easier levels.

Pennsylvania has been enjoying better demand than the mill run of its fellows for some time, particularly on the dips. Estimates indicating a final net for the year of between 7 and 8 million dollars, or the equivalent of about 50 cents a share on its stock, have helped to stimulate buying.

One or two of the gold mining stocks had a fairly good day—this time without the aid of weakness in sterling. Homestake, the aristocrat of the group, ran ahead for 6 points on a turnover that was rather impressive considering the fact that its shares are so closely held. Alaska Juneau was up nearly a point at one time, but lost most of its new ground before the close.

Faltering Oil Prices Given New Setback

BY HOWARD WOOD.

With the Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing company, Standard Oil of Indiana subsidiary, yesterday announcing a 23 cent cut in the price paid for crude, faltering oil prices received a new setback.

The announcement by Stanolind meant that buyers of more than half of the petroleum in the midcontinent area were paying on a scale from 77 cents downward for oil.

Carter Oil company, subsidiary of Standard of New Jersey; Shell, Humble Oil company, and Sinclair had announced cuts on Thursday. Texas corporation cut prices several days ago, although not so drastically.

Given Out Here.

The Stanolind announcement was given out from the Chicago headquarters of Standard of Indiana. The company stated that effective at once it would pay in Kansas, Oklahoma and north and central Texas 23 cents per barrel less for oil. The new scale runs from 77 cents for 40 gravity crude to 53 cents for 28 gravity crude.

The downward movement of oil prices apparently has terminated the attempt of the oil industry to pull itself up by the bootstraps.

Several weeks ago Sun Oil company surprised the industry by announcing that instead of gearing crude oil prices down still further in accordance with the decline in price of retail gasoline it would boost the price of crude.

The hope was that this step would reverse the cycle of deflation and that gasoline prices would follow crude prices upward. Twenty-two other companies, including Sinclair, Texas, and Shell, followed Sun's lead. Top prices of $1.12 were posted.

Held Uneconomical.

The movement was attacked as uneconomical and impossible by Standard of Indiana and Standard of New Jersey. These, as some 48 smaller companies, refused to raise prices.

The 77 cent top is the lowest price paid since November, 1931, and it marks the first decline to below a dollar since last April.

Reports from Tulsa said that the drop in crude prices was immediately reflected in a cut of an eighth of a cent for U. S. motor standard gasoline, which was quoted at from 3¼ to 3⅜ cents.

Statement by Sinclair.

"The greater part of the industry, aided by state authorities, have bent every effort to maintain the advanced price, not only to compensate producers, but also to afford a sound basis for product prices," Sinclair-Prarie Oil Marketing company said yesterday.

"These efforts have been defeated by the unwillingness of some elements in the industry to advance or even maintain crude prices."

Meanwhile, the attempt to boost oil prices by the use of militia was no more successful. Col. L. S. Davidson of the governor's military staff reported that 200 to 300 oil wells in east Texas were flowing at capacity, in open defiance of an order by the railroad commission curtailing output.

ROADS, UNION LEADERS ARGUE OVER AUTHORITY

Demand Labor Tell Its Power on Wages.

The railroad labor negotiations at the Palmer House reached a critical stage last night with the managers demanding of the labor chiefs an explicit statement on the extent of their authority and the labor chiefs offering an unsatisfactory verbal reply, which they promised to amplify in writing this morning. Unless that reply departs from labor's previous position, it was indicated, the negotiations face a breakdown.

W. F. THIEHOFF.

Chairman W. F. Thiehoff and the managers' committee came into the afternoon session with a statement rejecting as "wholly unsatisfactory" the proposal advanced by labor Thursday for a one year renewal of the existing ten per cent wage reduction and rejecting also the modification of that proposal which labor subsequently submitted. It was the managers' desire, Mr. Thiehoff indicated, "to get down to fundamental differences and determine whether those differences are hopelessly irreconcilable."

Demand Labor Chiefs' Power.

"We had supposed that this would be an effort to negotiate a settlement," he said, "and that we would not be confronted with the statement by you that you did not have authority to do this, that, or the other thing. Either there must be authority vested in you, the grand officers of your organizations, and in the 1,200 general chairmen who sit in back of you, or our negotiations have become an empty gesture."

To learn the extent of that authority, Mr. Thiehoff propounded five questions, which were as follows:

1. Is your authority limited to the extent that you can only agree to a proposal providing an automatic restoration of the basic rate at the end of a fixed period?

2. Have you authority to agree to an extension of the ten per cent agreement which will make its termination subject to the provisions of the railway labor act?

3. Have you any authority to negotiate any change in the basic wage rates?

4. Have you authority to negotiate

STATE OF ILLINOIS

4½% Relief Bonds

These Bonds, issued to retire State obligations issued to provide funds for emergency relief and for further relief purposes, will, in the opinion of counsel, constitute direct and general obligations of the State of Illinois payable from an unlimited ad valorem tax levied upon all the taxable property in the State and further payable from the allotment of money to the several counties under the Motor Fuel Tax Law. It is officially reported that the 1932 assessed valuation of the State, equalized for purposes of taxation, is $7,043,754,262, the total bonded debt, including this issue, $210,536,500 and the population, according to the 1930 U. S. Census, 7,630,654.

Legality to be approved by Messrs. Chapman and Cutler, Chicago.

any greater reduction than ten per cent?

5. Have you authority to cooperate in expediting any proceedings that may become necessary under the railway labor act, either for extension of the deduction agreement or otherwise.

Labor Chief Evades.

Pressed for an answer to these questions, the labor chairman, A. F. Whitney, parried for time. Since the managers had raised the issue of authority, labor wanted a similar definition of their powers from the management group, he said.

"Our authority here is unlimited," Mr. Thiehoff snapped. "We are here to carry these negotiations to a conclusion. We are empowered to negotiate all issues in the case, up, down or sidewise."

Mr. Whitney then reread the question. Labor's answer to the first, asking whether their authority was limited to agreement only on a wage pact providing automatic restoration of the basic pay, he said, was "an emphatic yes." The faces of the management committee of nine reflected their disappointment at this answer.

As for the other four questions, Mr. Whitney said, labor found some of them involved and obscure. Would Mr. Thiehoff elaborate on them? Mr. Thichoff would and did, but labor could discover no hidden implications in the questions.

Labor Fears Trap.

In the morning session, Mr. Whitney voiced labor's fear that the managers were setting some kind of trap in the present negotiations whereby on the date for automatic restoration of the basic pay next Feb. 1, they would have an excuse for preventing restoration of the basic wage.

"If it is your purpose not to make or accept any proposal upon which an agreement would be possible, but merely to go through the expensive motions of this conference in order to obtain justification for violating the agreement of a year ago, and for attempting to prevent thereby a restoration of basic rates next Feb. 1, we would like to make it very clear that it was not because we suggested any new or unusual terms," he said.

Amend Wage Cut Offers.

An amendment to the proposal that the temporary 10 per cent wage cut be renewed for one year beginning next Jan. 21 was submitted by railroad labor earlier in the day.

Whereas labor's first proposal had provided for extension of the one year renewal to fifteen months in the event the managers moved for a basic wage cut in the interval, the amended proposal eliminated that penalty and provided for a simple one year renewal. From the managers' standpoint it was a very small concession.

In a five page statement explaining labor's position, Chairman A. F. Whitney took sharp issue with the contention of the managers that refusal to consider a basic cut would result in railroad receiverships, and thereby jeopardize savings banks and insurance companies.

"It is quite unfair to bring into this discussion that threadbare argument about the menace of savings banks and insurance companies from railroad receiverships," he declared. "Every substantial insurance company and savings bank has repudiated that calumny during the last twelve months."

WINTER WHEAT IN ELEVEN STATES UNDER LAST YEAR

Winter wheat estimate has been raised over previous returns in the government's final showing. Kansas has practically 15,458,000 bu more than previously estimated, but is 133,344,000 bu less than last year, when the crop was 289,742,000 bu, the highest on record.

The five southwestern wheat states, which raise the exportable surplus of hard winters, have 208,830,000 bu, compared with 187,722,000 bu as previously estimated, an increase of 21,108,000 bu and a decrease of 235,450,000 bu against last year's final returns.

In the six soft winter wheat states east of the Missouri river there was practically no change in the returns as compared with the August preliminary, but a decrease of $3,140,000 bu from last year. Comparisons with last three ciphers omitted follow:

WHEAT PRICES IN WINNIPEG DROP SHARPLY

Commission House Buying Checks Losses Here.

WHEAT PRICES IN GOLD

Wheat prices in gold in leading markets, computed from rates of exchange prevailing at the time they closed, follow:

Winnipeg, May	37⅛c	38⅝c
Liverpool, March	43⅞c	45c

Buenos Aires, Feb.	37⅛c	37⅝c

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A collapse in the Winnipeg market carried wheat prices off there 4c per bu in about as many minutes yesterday to new all time record lows, and the May and July deliveries in Chicago dropped 2c to a new low for the season. A rush of stop loss selling and liquidation both on the part of professional and country longs disclosed a lack of support in Winnipeg and the December broke to 28c before the decline could be checked, while the May touched 40⅛c.

The nearby future in Winnipeg on the basis of the exchange rate prevailing at that time sold t equal to 33¼c per bu, gold basis, and May at 35⅝c. According to reports from the Canadian market the buyers who presumably have been acting for the government of late were simply engulfed by the wave of general liquidation which came into the pit. Aside from Liverpool cables telling of keen competition between Canada and Argentina abroad, there was nothing in the news to account for the break.

Trade interest yesterday centered almost entirely on the weakness in Winnipeg, and in part the latter was said to have been due to undoing of spreads with Chicago, the latter being bought and the former sold. The pressure on the Canadian market in the last few days has been persistent, and the Chicago-Winnipeg May spread at one time yesterday showed a difference of as much as 10¾c, gold basis, at the extreme, whereas many operators a short time ago had expressed the belief prices in American would go to a good discount under Canada.

Wheat Breaks and Rallies.

Strong buying came into the pit on the break and Winnipeg rallied around 2c at one time from the extreme low, but closed 2⅝c lower, with May at 42¾c in Canadian funds and at 37⅛c on a gold basis. The latter showed 1⅝c decline from Thursday, a sharp advance in the exchange rate offsetting to a considerable extent the loss figured in Canadian money.

Numerous stop loss orders were uncovered in the local wheat market, with May touching 45⅝c at the extreme. There was not the pressure so much in evidence in Canada, however, and active buying by commission houses in small lots on the way down and support from holders of bids caused a good rally toward the last, with net losses of ⅝@⅞c. December finished at 44⅜@44¾c, May 46⅜c, and July 47@47⅛c.

December wheat surprised the trade locally by failing to get as low as recently, touching 43⅛c at the extreme, or 3c above the all time record low, and was only 2⅛c under May early in the day, the smallest discount so far.

Liverpool at New Record Low.

Liquidation was on in Liverpool, due to pressure of hedging sales from Australia and also selling attributed to American account, and broke 1¼@1⅜d, with old style March selling down to 43⅝c, a new record low. March came within ⅛c of the average price paid for British grain in 1588. The finish abroad was at the bottom.

Messages from Winnipeg late in the day claimed that the liquidation in wheat in that market had been terrific, but was regarded as being about completed, and hopes of higher prices later were held out. Exporters were said to have been large buyers of futures on the decline, and estimates on export sales ranged up to 2,000,000 bu Manitobas for the day.

Buy Corn; Sell Wheat.

Buying of corn futures against sales of wheat gave the former market a relatively firm undertone. At no time did the market break more than ⅝c from Thursday's finish, and the close was within a fraction of the top, with net gain of ¼@⅝c. December finished at 23c, May at 27⅝@27½c, and July at 28⅝c. There was no pressure on the market at any time, and it responded quickly to buying. The July delivery sold at a new low during the day.

Resting orders to buy May oats at 17c in the hands of commission houses offset to some extent the break in wheat, but the market was irregular at the last, with prices ⅜c lower to ¼c higher, the former on December, which closed at 14⅞c, while May was 17⅝c and July 17⅝c. Rye was bought against sales of corn and resisted pressure, closing at net losses of only ⅛@⅜c, despite the break in wheat. December was 30¼c, May 33⅜c, and July 33⅝c at the last. Barley closed unchanged, with May at 29⅝c.

SPRING WHEAT CROP IS ABOVE 5 YEAR AVERAGE

Production of spring wheat in the four Northwestern states this year was more than double the short crop of 1931 and practically 15,000,000 bu above the five year average. There was little change in durum wheat for the month, which is more than double last year's. North Dakota has the lead of all spring wheat states. South Dakota nearly trebled its production in 1931 when it had the shortest crop known. Comparison, with last three ciphers omitted, follows:

Anaconda Is Weak.

Anaconda Copper was an outstanding weak spot in the mining group. Bearishness over the outlook for the copper industry was to blame for the selling. The corporation has large bank loans.

The motors just about managed to hold their own and the utilities distinguished themselves by registering more than their share of fractional gains. American Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey and Consolidated Gas were among issues of the division to emerge on the upside.

Short covering enabled American Tobacco B to finish behind a modest plus sign.

Turnover fell considerably short of a million shares.

HIDE FUTURES

An easy undertone prevails in the New York hide exchange, with prices unchanged to 10 points lower. Sales were 840,000 lbs. Closing bids: Old contracts—March, 4.30c. New contracts—December, 3.85c; March, 4.60c; June, 5.12c; September, 5.62c.

took the count, reflecting the attitude of speculators to the options given preferred officials by stockholders at their meeting yesterday. Around noon the stock was down about 2 points, but a little rally in the afternoon enabled it to recover about half this loss.

Continued price cutting in the crude oil field caused the oil shares further trouble. Standard of New Jersey dropped a point or so without much show of resistance and was able to recover only a small fraction of its early loss.

BUTTER AND EGGS HIGHER

Sharp advances were made by both butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, butter gaining ½@⅝c and eggs ⅝@¾c. Butter responded to the continued bullish weather and storage news. The four markets moved 290,000 lbs more butter than last year and receipts were off. Covering started the January future higher and new buying developed at the close and aided in firming the market even more. Egg news also was construed as bullish. Weather conditions are expected to have some influence on production and the movement of stocks out of storage was relatively heavy, with receipts moderate. December was under the influence of active new buying and short covering. Sales: Butter, 135 cars; eggs, 156 cars. Prices follow:

PRICES OF LIGHT HOGS ADVANCE 10 TO 15 CENTS

Cattle Section Showing Proves Better.

Light hogs surged forward 10@15c on good eastern support again yesterday. Medium and weighty stock started out along the same course, with a good show of zest in the opening rounds, but were unable to keep up the pace set by the lightest hogs when anticipated local support was not forthcoming. Lively eastern buying soon cleared the market of all selected stock weighing 225 lbs and under and also accounted for a fair showing of prime 250 lb averages when the available supply of light hogs proved insufficient.

Some eastern orders for fancy 140@160 lb averages were unfilled at the close. These weights have been pulling away from the rank and file of heavier kinds in the last few days.

Sorted 140@190 lb averages topped the list, while the majority of 250@300 lb averages sold at $2.95@3.10. A week ago top light sold at $3.25 and the butchers at $3.00@3.15. Yesterday's upturn brought top grades 15@25c above the low point of the week and to the highest level in eight days. The butcher grades weakened off to a steady basis, but are still fully 10c above the low. The general average moved up 5c to $3.10.

Light Steers In Demand.

Light Steers and yearlings were scarce and in demand yesterday. They moved up again to the highest point in several days, but medium and weighty stock continued to drag and prices in these were no better than steady. No strictly choice cattle were offered. One string of 44 fleshy long yearlings averaging 1,086 lbs topped at $5.40, while several sales of yearling steers and heifers were noted at $5.25.

Light cattle recovered much of the decline registered recently, while weighty beeves are selling $1.25@1.50 lower than two weeks ago. Some of the cattle selling at $4.00@4.50 at the low time of the week were comparable to kinds going at $8.50 to $9.25 at the high point in September.

Lamb Trade Buoyant.

The advance in lambs which started Thursday carried through yesterday, bringing prices up 25@40c further before the session ended. Active buying by all interests featured the trade, with larger houses out in front in all classes as the leading competitors for tops. Both natives and fed westerns sold to packers up to $6.25, or within 10c of the closing top for last week. Current prices are within 35@40c of the high point of the winter season. Aged sheep were firm and yearlings 25c higher. Country buyers are scouring the yards for feeding lambs, which, they assert, have been paying a bigger price for the grain consumed than any of the other farm animals.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Cutting Down Expenses

SOLUTION TO CLASS DAY

Kelley arrested Miss Egan. Every one knows, or should know, that a parrot does not learn to repeat anything by merely hearing it once or twice. Obviously Hedges did not teach the parrot those words himself.

Mrs. O'Brien was ruled out, leaving only the nurse. As the murdered woman was stone deaf, it was easy for Miss Egan to teach the parrot by constant repetition the words that she hoped would involve Hedges, as she later confessed.

LETTERS FROM LINCOLN

Springfield, June 35 1858

J. Medill Esq.

My dear Sir

Your note of the 23d inst. did not reach me till last evening. The Times article I saw yesterday morning. I will give you a brief history of fact, upon which you may base such comments, and from which you can frame such articles or paragraphs as you see fit.

I was in Congress but a single term. I was a candidate when the Mexican war broke out, and I then took the ground, which I never varied from, that the Administration had no more right to get us into the war, but that the Officers, and Soldiers who went to the field, must be supported, and protected at all events. I was elected the first Monday of August 1846, but, in regular course, only took my seat December 6. 1847. In the interval all the battles have been fought, and the war substantially ended, though no treaty was made in Mexico, and the Country of peace was not finally conclusive till May 30. 1848. Col. E. D. Baker has been elected to Congress from the same district, for the regular term commencing (now) two years hence, and having gone to Mexico himself, and having resigned his seat in less than a year, a vacancy by the name of John Henry, an election to fill Baker's vacancy, and to come in congress before I did. On the 22d of February 1848 (the very day I believe, that John Quincy Adams died at Buena Vista, and certainly more than one month before I took a seat in Congress) a bill compromising the Texas Boundary by the Nueces, passed the House of Representatives, and John Henry voted against it, as may be seen in the Journal of that session at page 498.— The bill became a law, and is found in the U. S. Statute at Large. Vol 9. page 109— This I suppose is the real origin of the Times article upon me— In its blind zeal to assail me it has pounced on a page reproduction of Henry's vote, and appropriates it to me— I scarcely think any one is quite silly enough to make much a charge, or much care them, without some slight belief in the truth of it.

Henry was my personal and political friend, and while I was in Congress I never heard of this vote. I well remember how astonished some Democrats were when I spoke. This very bill, voted against by Henry, came into a law, and drew the appropriation for the year ending June 30. 1848— entirely a free vote before the election and first meeting of the 30th. When I came into Congress, many were desirous to meet the appropriation (more, even than its friends, on account of the) 1st day of Feb. 1848. a bill to borrow 18.500000. passed the House of Representatives, for which I voted, as will appear by the Journal of that session, page 426 427— The act itself, reducing to 16.000000 (Sixteen millions) is found in the U. S. Statutes at Large Vol 9. 217.

Again, on the 8th of March 1848. a bill passed the House of Representatives, for which I voted, as may be seen by the Journal 520-521 It passed into a law and is found in the U. S. Statutes at Large Page 215 and following. The last section of the act at page 217. contains an appropriation of 800000. for clothing the volunteers.

If so inclined you may refer to see the vote of John Henry, who I take it, is no kin of yours, and for any vote for withholding any supplies from officer or soldier of the American army I have examined the Journal of that session, and can not be mistaken, for I have any age always upon it. I want all to get pleasure into the past—

Yours very truly
A. Lincoln

Private

Springfield, Sep. 4 1860

J. Medill, Esq

My dear Sir

Yours of Aug. 30th for some cause, only reached me last night— As to Pennsylvania, I have a letter from Gen. Cameron, dated Aug. 29th in which, among other things, he says:

"You may as well be getting your managers all across readers, so as to have plenty time to make it short— If possible we are daily becoming stronger in Pennsylvania, even in New Jersey all is right." Last night, just as I had read your letter, Mr Isaac Taggart called upon me. He is a very intelligent gentleman, lately from Speaker of the Penn. Senate, and is now upon an electoral ticket, and residing at Northumberland— He left home Thursday the 30th; and he is very confident that Penn. is absolutely safe, both for Curtin in Oct— & the National ticket in Nov— His from Cameron & Taggart, constitute very latest news from Penn.

I am now annoyed by what you write in of Mann— Long ago I have known about danger of two members of Congress there; but at least six weeks since Mr Hamlin wrote me "All is safe in New England;" and very recently Mr Fogg of N. H. wrote from N. York saying: "We are having a desperate fight in Jersey, but it will come out a splendid one for us. The last news from Mann—

What you say about the Northern 10 counties of Illinois pleases me— Keep good your promise that they will give us equal support as they owe for Shannon, and we will let you off— We can not be beaten, we even have run in the pet, of that Rebellious—

Yours as ever
A. Lincoln.
